Easter Finery Previewed With Strollers Filling Downtown Section

Treated to the balmiest weather of 1948, Washingtonians and visitors made Palm Sunday a day of promenade yesterday.

Easter finery was previewed as strollers filled the downtown streets, parks and those buildings that were open.

The lure was the weather. The temperature reached 86 at 2:05 p. m., 3 degrees short of the record for March 21, set in 1921, but still the warmest weather of 1948. The day's low was 55 to 6:52 a. m.

Continued mild weather was forecast for today. This morning will be partly cloudy and mild with a low of about 65. This afternoon will see considerable cloudiness, a high of about 78 and most likely scattered showers.

Park police reported that more than 200,000 jammed the park areas. Strollers were everywhere—at Great Falls, along the C. & O. Canal, in Rock Creek Park and in East and West Potomac Parks.

Heavy "Sunday driver" traffic was reported in the parks. Picnic groves were filled. And Washington's small parks drew capacity crowds.

An estimated throng of 60,000 visited the Zoo.

Visitors Throng Capitol

Heavy crowds also visited Mount Vernon, Arlington National Cemetery, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials, the Smithsonian Institution buildings, the Mellon Art Gallery, the Library of Congress, the Folger Shakespearian Library and the Capitol.

Capitol police said the Capitol was filled with visitors throughout the day.

Speaking for the sightseeing rade, the Gray Line said business yesterday was the best for a Sunday since the first of the year.

"We had a noticeable increase in business, beginning Friday afternoon," a spokesman for the company said.

Heavy Traffic in Area

Traffic in the city and nearby counties was heavy. One barometer of the traffic conditions was the number of calls for road service received by the American Automobile Association and the Keystone Automobile Club. Both reported more calls than usual. The AAA said it received between 400 and 500 calls for service during the day, the highest number for any day since Washington's last snowstorm.

Police in nearby Maryland and Virginia reported their roads were filled with pleasure drivers.

The White House was closed to visitors yesterday, but thousands of strollers passed by to glimpse President Truman's residence through the fence. Nearby Lafayette Park was filled and every bench occupied.

A White House guard said many

New York Printers Claim 'Lockout' Over Work Rules

New York, March 21 (AP).—A representative of the commercial employing printers said tonight that " a substantial proportion, if not all" of 4200 union printers will not show up for work tomorrow.

His statement followed a meeting of members of Local 6 of the AFL International Typographical Union at which the men were ordered to consider themselves "locked out" and to report to union headquarters for immediate picket duty if new management-posted work rules are not rescinded. The notices were posted 10 days ago. The union claims the new rules arbitrarily lengthened the work week from 36 1/4 to 40 hours, abolished grievance procedures and changed other union-employe relationships.

Government Plans Action In Coal Strike

Taft-Hartley Act To be Invoked if Meeting Today Fails

By The Associated Press

Drastic Government steps under the Taft-Hartley Act to end the week-long coal strike were reported in the making yesterday.

A high official said privately that the steps will be taken unless a Federal Mediation Service meeting today with union leader John L. Lewis and the coal operators gets results.

The atmosphere for the joint session with Cyrus S. Ching, Mediation Service director, looked none too promising. Lewis, in accepting an invitation to the meeting, said it was "preposterous to assume that any progress will be made." He said the operators would be to blame.

The dispute is over a method of paying pensions to miners from a 30-million-dollar fund financed by 10-cent a ton royalty on coal production. Lewis and Ezra Van Horn, representing the coal operators, have failed to agree on a plan for spending the money.

If President Truman decides to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act's national emergency provisions, the White House would first appoint a board of inquiry. The board would

City Will Honor De Valera With Dinner March 30

Washington will honor Eamon de Valera, former Prime Minister of Ireland, at a reception and dinner March 30, it was announced yesterday.

The affair will be held at the Mayflower Hotel at 7 p. m. A citizens' committee, headed by Francis J. Kane, will work with local Irish societies in making arrangements.

Tickets are $7.50 a person. They may be purchased at 1401 I st. nw. between 10 a. m. and 9 p. m. daily. Sales will be limited to 1000.

De Valera came here March 10 to pay a courtesy call on President Truman and since has been visiting other major cities. He plans to return here the day of the reception.

23 Senate Democrats Back Tax Cut

Poll Indicates Sufficient Votes Can Be Mustered To Override Veto

By the United Press

Half of the Senate's Democrats will desert President Truman and vote for the Republican bill to cut taxes $4,800,000,000, a poll showed yesterday.

At least 23 of the Senate's 45 Democrats are lined up behind the measure. A few others may get on the bandwagon when the Senate ends debate at 5 p. m. today and begins voting on amendments.

This Democratic support, along with acceptance by House GOP leaders of the Senate bill, appeared to clinch overriding an expected veto by President Truman.

The Republicans do not expect to lose any of their 51 Senate votes. These, with Democrats already decided, would make the vote on passage around 74 to 20—well over the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto. Two Democrats are sure to be absent because of illness.

A few Democrats may switch and vote to sustain a veto. But enough have said they would stand pat if world conditions do not worsen, to assure a big enough vote to override. Even Administration stalwarts now concede that chances to sustain a veto are nil, unless the international situation blackens overnight.

To nullify a veto, two thirds of both houses must vote to override. The House already had foreshadowed its action by passing its own $6,500,000,000 reduction bill by better than a two thirds majority.

Senate Trims Cuts

Senate Republicans trimmed $1,700,000,000 from this, without changing the bill's basic structure, to attract Democratic votes.

The bill now calls for striking about 7,400,000 low-income taxpayers off the tax rolls. And it would cut the taxes of the other 40,100,000 taxpayers by:

1. Increasing personal exemptions $100—from $500 to $600.

2. Granting an additional $600 exemption to the aged and the blind.

3. Extending the split-income, community-property benefit to married couples in all States.

4. Giving percentage cuts ranging from 12.6 per cent in the low-income brackets to 5 per cent in the high brackets.

Roman Workers Cheer Pope Pius During Blessing

Vatican City, March 21 (AP).—A crowd of 7000 Roman workers, gathered in St. Peter's Square this Palm Sunday morning, cheered Pope Pius until he appeared on the balcony of his private library and blessed them.

The men were employes of the Interior Ministry, Public Utilities, Industry and Onormo (National Institute of Religious and Moral Aid in Italy). They had just heard mass in St. Peter's Church said by Msgr. Ferdinando Baldelli, president of the Pontificial Aid Commission.

Earlier, the Pope received Msgr. Alfonso Camillo de Romanis, his sacristan for Vatican City, who presented, in accordance with custom, palms fashioned by employes of the administration of Holy See properties.

Sweden to Increase Air Force by 50%

Stockholm, Sweden, March 21 (U.P.).—Defense Minister Allan Vought told a Social Democratic Party congress last night that Sweden plans to increase its air force by 50 per cent and create night-fighter squadrons.

Col. Bennet Jacobsson, chief of the air administration's munitions department, said in an interview that a robot arms bureau will be established.

15-Million Loss

Oklahoma Air Base Hit By Tornado

Oklahoma City, March 21 (AP).—A tornado, which took 100 airplanes as if they were toys and tossed them about Tinker airforce base for seven minutes last night, caused damage officially estimated at $15,000,000 to aircraft alone.

Two soldiers stationed at the base and four civilians were injured, none seriously, by flying glass.

Col. A. G. Hewitt, deputy maintenance chief at the base, said the 15-million-dollar damage estimate included 50 planes destroyed and 50 others in various degrees of damage. Seven small storage buildings were levelled and several others were damaged, Hewitt said.

The tornado, which was accompanied by a thunderstorm and heavy rain, blew in over the prairie from the Northwest.

The base is Uncle Sam's largest repair and maintenance depot and is spread over 2000 acres five miles southeast of Oklahoma City.

Wind velocity at the base was officially recorded at 78 miles an hour before the instruments broke. However, the base's weather arm estimated it reached over 100 miles an hour with the installation feeling the brunt of the storm.

Greatest damage was to planes on the runways with the two and four-motor craft hardest hit. Seventeen C-54 four-motor transports and two B-29 bombers had the appearance of being destroyed by an enemy air attack.

Several of the transports burned and an undetermined number of small explosions were heard as the storm subsided.

Weather Death Toll Reaches 55 in 3 Days

Chicago, March 21 (U.P.).—Spring floods hit the Midwest today and a storm lashed northwestern States as the three-day toll of weather deaths across the Nation rose to 55.

The Mississippi River and some of its tributaries surged over lowlands and into some towns in Iowa and Illinois. Flood conditions were worst at Keokuk and Ottumwa, Iowa; Alexandria, Mo., and Quincy, Ill., which were hit by serious spring floods last year.

Floods also plagued sections of North Dakota, Nebraska and Wisconsin.

Fed by new rains, the Mississippi swelled to 5.3 feet above flood stage at Keokuk, and workers began erecting sandbag barricades to protect industrial plants along the waterfront.

Air Force Plane, 8 Aboard, Missing In Coast Storm

McChord Field, Wash., March 21 (AP).—An Air Force C-47 with eight men aboard vanished over southwestern Washington during a severe storm this afternoon as it was making an instrument approach to the Portland, Oreg., air base.

Fears that it had crashed were heightened when no trace of the twin-engined transport was found by the time its fuel supply was exhausted at 5:07 p. m. (PST).

Last radio contact with the plane was at 1:07 p. m. At that time the pilot messaged he was 25 miles north of Portland making a procedure turn at 4000 feet for an instrument letdown.

The missing craft was on a routine training flight from its home field at Fairfield-Suisun (Calif.) to Portland.

Small-Power Fight Due on Trusteeship

Group Expected To Demand Pledge Of Force to Back Palestine Proposal

Lake Success, L. I., March 21 (NYHT).—A small-power movement, aimed at defeating any American plan for a Palestine trusteeship that does not include clear-cut enforcement provisions, began taking shape here today.

The movement, developing in the wake of American abandonment of the United Nations partition program, is reported to be an outgrowth of a widely-held conviction that trusteeship would be no easier to carry out peacefully than division of the Holy Land into Arab and Jewish states.

It is reportedly led by a number of small states, such as the Philippines, New Zealand, Panama, Bolivia and Brazil, all countries that voted for partition last November only because of United States insistence that it was the only way out of the Palestine dilemma.

These countries have no voice in the Security Council, which is scheduled to meet on Wednesday to take up the American trusteeship suggestion along with a United States proposal for a special Palestine session of the General Assembly.

However, when the special session meets, as it is virtually certain to do next month, the small nations will be able to get their views into the open, and it is understood that the price of their support for the new turn-about in American policy will be a cards-on-the-table explanation of how far the United States intends to go in enforcing its propositions.

They are reported to want an answer that goes beyond the statement of American delegate Warren R. Austin on Friday that "the United States is willing, of course, to back up a United Natons decision."

One veteran observer pointed out today that many of the States that voted for partition in November would refuse to go along with the United States on a trusteeship vote without full assurance on implementation. Many U. N. officials went along on this prediction.

Confusion on Plan

There was also confusion on what the next U. N. step would be if the Jewish Agency for Palestine presented the world organization with a fait accompli by setting up an independent Jewish state in the areas allotted by the partition program.

Meanwhile, United Nations authorities went ahead with plans to open the assembly hall at Flushing Meadow Park in the expectation that the American request for a special Assembly session will win approval—either in the Security Council this week or through an appeal direct to U. N. members.

Over the weekend the Arabs were reported to be planning a new strategy. There was still no definite indication as to whether they will support a trusteeship, but it was generally believed that they will back the move for a special session in the hope of eventually winning approval for a federated Palestine.

Military Aid For Chinese Held Essential

Senate Committee To Tackle Problem In Session Today

By The Associated Press

The question of military aid for China comes to a vital testing point today when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee tackles the problem of how China can best be helped at this time.

The Administration has asked 570 million dollars economic aid. But there is strong sentiment in House and Senate to earmark a sum for military use. The argument is that economic help alone is not enough to enable Chiang Kai-shek's government to whip the Chinese Communists.

This belief found expression in recommendations of the House Foreign Affairs Committee that the 570 million dollars be divided into 420 million dollars for economic aid and 150 million dollars military. The House is expected to support its committee.

Whether the Senate committee will go along is apparently a question to be decided at today closed door session. Should it agree, the issue may well be virtually at rest.

The committee has called back Secretary of State Marshall for his views on China again today.

Thus far the committee headed by Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) has presented a united front in sending its foreign relief measures to the Senate floor. The $5,300,000,000 European Recovery Program, passed by the Senate March 13, carried the unanimous indorsement of the committee. Last Friday the group voted unanimously to recommend an additional 275 mil-

Marshall Has No More to Say On Russia

Reporters Informed Policy Has Been Told As Much as Possible

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Secretary of State Marshall said last night he already had told Congress about as much of this Nation's policy toward Russia as he could.

Back from California, where he made a series of addresses, Marshall is scheduled to appear today before two Congressional committees in secret session. Both were expected to quiz him further on United States foreign policy, this country's state of readiness for war and his views on the imminence of possible conflict.

Marshall landed at National Airport at 6:25 p. m. aboard President Truman's Sacred Cow. With him was Mrs. Marshall, who joined him at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., where she had stopped Thursday on the flight to the West Coast.

No Comment On Soviet Charge

Met by reporters, Marshall said the U. S.-British-French proposal to Russia that Trieste be returned to Italy had been agreed upon "more or less unanimously" before he left Washington. He would not comment on the charge of Radio Moscow that the Trieste decision had been reached "behind Russia's back."

Nor would Marshall comment further on the United States reversal of its stand to support partition of Palestine. At Los Angles Saturday night he assumed full responsibility for that action and

Soviet Calls Trieste Bid 'Act Behind Our Backs'

Moscow's Radio Terms Proposal Maneuver to Win Votes of Italians

London, March 21 (U.P.).—Russia charged today that the United States, Britain and France were "acting behind the back of the Soviet Union" when they proposed that Trieste be returned to Italy.

The first official Russian reaction to the Big Three proposal that Italy's peace treaty be amended was contained in a Radio Moscow news bulletin recorded here.

In its regular news broadcast, Moscow Radio said:

"The United States, Britain and France, acting behind the back of the Soviet Union, propose to revise the peace treaty with Italy for the purpose of putting Trieste under Italy's control.

"The State Department has stated it has sent the proposal for this revision of the treaty to the Soviet and Italian ambassadors to the United States."

The Soviet broadcast asserted the Big Three Trieste proposal was a maneuver aimed at winning votes for Premier Alcide de GGasperi's Catholic Christian Democrat forces.

It said the proposal did not have the best interests of Italians at heart.

The broadcast said: "It is frankly admitted that the most important purpose of the Anglo-Franco-American declaration is to influence Italian voters, so as to force them, at forthcoming parliamentary elections in Italyy April 18, to vote for the reactionary party which represents an agency of the USA and does not mean to care for the Italian people, as this declaration tries to make out."

The regular Russian language newscast, designed for home consumption, then followed with a lengthy report on a speech by Communist boss Palmiro Togliatti in Rome denouncing the Marshall Plan.

Trieste Used in Italy To Embarrass Red Chief

Rome, March 21. (NYHT).—Italy's anti-Communist Premier Alcide de Gasperi made maximum use of the Trieste issue today to put Italy's chief Communist, Palmiro, on the spot on patriotic grounds.

De Gasperi invited Togliatti to serve his native Italy by appealing to Russia to agree to the American-British-French proposal that Trieste be restored to Italy.

Togliatti's "excellent knowledge of Russian," which he acquired during his long term as an officer of the Communist International in Moscow, makes him a superb Italian emissary for the job, De Gasperi added blandly, as he extended the invitation.

No reply came from Togliatti, but he and other Communist leaders indicated in speeches that it will be a flat no. In almost identical expressions of sentiment, the Communists said the only way the Italians can hope to get Trieste is by voting into office on April 18 a Communist-Socialist government which will be acceptable to Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union.

Trieste Plan Hailed By 30,000 in Milan

Rome, March 21 (U.P.).—Fights broke out in Milan tonight when 30,000 students hailed the Big Three Trieste proposal, and demonstrated against Communism, crying, "Long Live America!"

Communist-led newspaper workers declared a 24-hour national strike, effective at midnight, and a strike of 1000 key employees of the court of accounts threatened to leave all government employes, widows and war pensioners without their pay for March.

The rally of more than 30,000 students to celebrate the Trieste proposal turned into an anti-Communist demonstration.

The students marched to the Czech consulate, chanting, "Masaryk, Masaryk, Masaryk," while another column marched to the American consulate, shouting, "Long live America!"

Fights and scuffles with Leftists broke out on the fringe of the crowd. A heavy police guard prevented serious clashes.

Capitol Is Chief Attraction For Visitors, Residents Say

The Capitol Building, center of our Government, is considered the chief attraction for tourists by 36 per cent of the residents of Washington, The Washington Post Poll finds.

Closest competitor is the White House, listed by 13 per cent as a favorite place to take out-of-towners. The Lincoln Memorial draws votes from 12 per cent.

Further down the list, in order of their popularity, come the Washington Monument, Smithsonian Institution, Library of Congress, Mount Vernon and the National Gallery of Art known to many as the Mellon Art Gallery.

Washingtonians, themselves, could profit from doing some sightseeing in their own city. About one in five has never been up the Washington Monument, or inside the Capitol, the Lincoln Memorial or the Smithsonian, although many of them have seen these famous sights from the street. A like number have never been to Mount Vernon, home of George Washington.

Only one in every two has been to a session of Congress or inside the Jefferson Memorial. And two of every five have yet to see the great masterpieces of art in the National Gallery.

These findings of The Washington Post Poll are based on interviews with a representative cross-section of adults living in Greater Washington.

Local residents were asked:

Washingtonians often say they don't get to know their city until they have to show it to visitors. If you had to show a visitor the town, what would be your favorite place to take him?

The replies:

U. S. Troops in Austria Accused Of Rape, Rackets, Blackmail

London, March 21 (U.P.).—Tass, the official Russian news agency, charged today American soldiers in Austria are raping and attacking civilians, practicing blackmail and racketeering and dealing extensively on the black market.

The condemnation, broadcast over Radio Moscow, was one of the sharpest blasts against United States troops Russia ever has made. It followed by two days a Soviet charge that American military authorities in Berlin had proposed the establishment of brothels for occupation troops in Germany.

The Tass dispatch, depicted the American occupation force in Austria as a bunch of bums who drink, carouse and brawl and mistreat Austrians.

"American officers and men frequently attack Austrian girls or women they take a fancy to," Tass said.

Instead of attempting to "bolster up discipline among their troops" in an effort to slash the venereal disease rate in Salzburg and Upper Austria, the American authorities "decided to introduce the practice of branding Austrian girls who have been infected," Tass said.

"Orders were issued to stamp their legs with special unwashable ink," it said.

"The number of felonies committed by American servicemen is alarmingly great. Reports of every kind of gangster behavior by American servicemen towards Austrians are coming in every day. They attack people in the streets, beat

PEOPLE In The NEWS

King Michael Has Remote, Detached Air Of Oxonian, But Was Schooled in Romania

Former King Michael of Romania had the detached, remote air associated with Oxonians — though he was educated in Romania—when he arrived in Washington last night.

Perhaps it was because he has been learning the truth of Bismarck's observation that "a Romanian is not a nationality but a profession."

The king who recently abdicated his throne "voluntarily" only to announce once he was safely out of Communist clutches that it was forced upon him, has already learned at 26 there are many ups and downs in the "profession."

It was only three years ago, for instance, that the Soviet government conferred its highest military decoration, the Order of Merit, on him for his "courageous act" in overthrowing the pro-German dictatorship of Marshal "Red Dog" Ion Antonescu and setting up a pro-Allied government.

Gets U. S. Legion of Merit

Antonescu, locked up at the time in a fireproof vault built to hold the royal stamp collections, was executed in 1946 as a war criminal. For this same royal coup d'etat Michael I was also later awarded the Legion of Merit, degree of chief commander, by President Truman.

The king, a slender, blue-eyed 6-footer, has a marked facial resemblance to his father, former King Carol. Their Hohenzollern heredity is revealed in their faces.

Michael was not quite 6 and still subject to spankings when he succeeded to the throne upon his father's first abdication, which was prompted by Carol's affair with Mme. Magda Lupescu.

Carol reconsidered his abdication and returned to the throne, only to abdicate again and flee the country in 1940. Michael wept bitterly and said he did not want to be king again.

Michael's mother, Queen Helen, of the Greek royal family, who divorced Carol in 1928, returned from Italy to Romania following Carol's departure and has since stayed by her son's side.

Michael in the past has shown little interest in the physical exercise, but has been ever ready for madcap racing of any kind. He is reckless but skilled automobile driver and an equally determined speedboat pilot.

Weak eyes have kept him from being a first class airplane pilot, but have not dimmed his enthusiasm for planes. Simulating dive-bombing once, he almost tore the wings from a light training ship in which he had learned to fly.

One of his interests in the United States is to visit automobile and plane factories.

Admired U. S. Bombers

His partiality to the Allies during the recent war is said to be partly to his admiration for the American bombers that used to pass over the royal summer residence at Sinaia on raids on Bucharest or the Ploesti oil fields.

Michael would stand in full view on the mountainside to admire them. Through a radio set he operated at Sianaia he also picked up a goodly knowledge of American profanity while listening to the exchanges between the American planes.

Michael's romance with Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma, who reportedly has the most beautiful pair of royal legs in Europe, is currently in the "no comment" stage.

Everything was going well until the Communists upset the throne.

When things calmed down a bit the two royal mothers visited the Vatican, which announced March 6 that papal permission would not be given for the wedding unless any children of the union were reared as Catholics. Michael is Romanian Orthodox, but Princess Anne is a Catholic.

The Mississippi River flood waters also threatened to break through 125-foot wide earthen levee protecting 6000 acres of farmland south of Quincy, Ill.

About 600 volunteers rushed to the scene and sandbagged the levee's weak spots.

Cleveland was deluged by 2 inches of rain today. Large sections of the city were flooded and some east side areas were under 2 feet of water.

Thundershowers and light rains fell today from Texas northeastward into the Great Lakes region, causing additional hardship in areas swept by tornadoes Thursday night and Friday.

In the Northwest, torrential rains and 50-mile-per-hour winds lashed the Pacific Coast from British Columbia to Oregon and swept inland as far as Idaho.

Illinois counted 36 deaths as the result of tornadoes, heavy fog and storms, which caused damage in the millions of dollars.

Five were dead as the result of an Ohio tornado, while high winds, a flash flood and other bad weather accounted for four dead in Tennessee, two in Kentucky, three in Missouri, two in Pennsylvania, two in Michigan, and one in Wisconsin.

For 63 years, H.I.A.S. has been helping immigrant and refugee Jews to establish themselves in their new homes. On your anniversary, I congratulate you on your humanitarian work and urge you on to even greater efforts in this, the years of greatest need."

Booing began again as he read the signature, but this time there also was some applause.

Only applause greeted the message from Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, which said, in part:

"This year we can hope earnestly for the passage of legislation which will enable more of these uprooted persons to find sanctuary in the United States and to add their priceless contribution to our way of life. When these proposals become law, as I hope they will, a burden of love, but a burden nonetheless, will fall more heavily on such voluntary agencies as H.I.A.S."

Czechs Will Confiscate All Land Holdings Over 125 Acres Under New Reform Measure

Prague, March 21 (AP). — The Czechoslovak Parliament enacted a land reform measure today. Land holdings in excess of 50 hectares (125 acres) are being confiscated.

Landless peasants will be given an opportunity to acquire the excess acreage under favorable terms.

Extensive holdings by the church are included in the measure, but the church will be compensated for lands taken.

A set of new agricultural laws also reformed the system of land taxation and provided government loans for small farmers.

Communist legislators called the measure "the final victory of peasants over entrenched landlords."

Rudolf Slansky, general secretary of the Communist Party, said in an address at a party meeting that 93 per cent of Czechoslovak industry will be nationalized in a matter of weeks.

Legislation to provide nationalization of all undertakings employing more than 50 persons will be ready for parliamentary consideration in two weeks.

Czech Refugees Cite Russian Pressure

Fankfurt, March 21 (U.P.).—Czechoslovak refugees formerly in high positions asserted today that President Eduard Benes gave in to the Communist coup because of the overaweing presence of large formations of Russian troops near his country's frontier.

The refugees, who include former cabinet ministers and other members of the Czechoslovak parliament, said they feared that if President Benes had been able to get the Czech army to put down the Communist Putsch, Soviet retaliation might have been expected.

They said Benes could have expected no direct support from the western Allies in event of a conflict with the Czechoslovak Communists so, "there was nothing for him to do but give in."

The refugees, said that, in their opinion, Russian Deputy Foreign Minister V. A. Zorin, a former Russian ambassador to Prague, gave the Czechoslovak Communists the Kremlin's O. K. for their coup.

Zorin arrived in Prague by plane February 19, officially to supervise Russian grain deliveries to Czechoslovakia, and returned to Moscow just after Benes approved the new Communist government, the refugees said.

Four Million Czechs Work Extra Day

Prague, March 21 (NYHT).—Four million Czechoslovaks today participated in a "national shift" (an extra day's work) to commemorate last month's political victory of the Communist-controlled government, it was announced tonight. Part of the day's pay which the workers would have received will go into a fund to aid the Greek guerillas of General Markos.

The Prague radio announced tonight that farmers, recognizing the feat of Communist Premier Klement Gottwald in obtaining reduced taxes for them, pledged a greater output of food in order to increase rations.

Festival Gets Go-By From Emperor Hirohito

Toyko, March 21 (AP).—Today was the annual "Spring Festival of the Imperial Ancestors' Spirits," but Emperor Hirohito gave it the go-by.

Court officials said it was the first time he ever had missed a traditional ceremony except for a few urgent occasions during the war. This time there was no reason except that he just didn't bother. also in rescuing persons from the sea.

McCarthy Asks Separate Law on Public Housing

By The Associated Press

Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) said yesterday he is sure Congress will pass a comprehensive housing bill at this session, if public housing is taken out of it for separate action.

McCarthy, chairman of the Senate-House Housing Committee, spoke at a meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars housing committee. The Senator, an opponent of public housing, said that question has become such a football within the bill that it is blocking action on other measures to produce more living quarters.

He expressed belief a measure including public housing might go through the Senate, but said it definitely would be stopped in the House.

Disagreeing with a majority of his own committee, McCarthy offered a general housing bill last week, minus any public housing feature. The committee had voted for 500,000 public housing units in the next four years.

Ex-Post Worker Gets Embassy Post in Norway

Miss Barbara Bond, former member of the editorial staff of The Washington Post, leaves Friday on the Gripsholm for Oslo, Norway, where she has been assigned as foreign service staff assistant at the United States Embassy.

Miss Bond

A native of Richmond, Me., Miss Bond received her A. B. degree from the University of Maine in 1946 and a B. S. degree in political science from Georgetown University School of Foreign Service in February, 1947.

After graduation from Georgetown, she was a writer for the Bureau of National Affairs until she began training for the foreign service January 5. She has been living here at Scott's Hotel, 2131 O st. nw.

Navy Helicopter Tested for Rescue Work From Ships

By The Associated Press

The Navy is testing a new helicopter designed for utility, rescue and observation work from aircraft carriers, battleships and cruisers.

The department said the new craft is the XHJS-1, built by Sikorsky division of United Aircraft Corp. at Bridgeport, Conn. It will carry five persons, has a top speed of 90 miles an hour, and a service ceiling of 19,000 feet. It weighs 4750 pounds fully loaded.

The 'copter differs from other types in that it has:

All-metal rotor blades.

A new method for folding and locking the blades to the tail cone.

An elevated tail rotor placing the blades above ordinary head height.

A special floor hatch for mounting a camera or for hauling in cargo.

Julia Starkey Contest Winner

Charlottesville, Va., March 20 (AP).—Miss Julia Starkey of Blackstone took first place among high school orators from the Fourth, Seventh and Eighth Congressional Districts in the American Legion contest held today at the University of Virginia.

She will compete in the Statewide contest next Saturday at Williamsburg, where the Virginia representative to the national contest will be selected. Her topic was the Bill of Rights.

Charles Sinclair of 509 25th st. S., Arlington, won second place, and Miss Nancy Fravel of Woodstock, third.

Marshall Quiet On U. S. Policy

said it had been taken on his recommendation.

He had been told informally, Marshall said, of the Soviet walkout on the four-power conference at Berlin, but declined to discuss the mater. He explained he would read State Department reports before commenting.

Faces Busy Day

After a four-day absence, during which he made several speeches and his State Department created an extraordinary amount of news, Marshall faces a busy day today. Not only must he plow through the accumulation of business in his office, but two committees of Congress have asked him to meet with them on Capitol Hill.

At 10 a. m. he is scheduled to appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committe and at 4 p. m. before the Senate Armed Services Committee. Both hearings will be behind closed doors.

Defense Secretary Forrestal also has been called before the Armed Services Committee which is considering draft and universal military training legislation requested by Mr. Truman.

The trend of questioning Marshall will face has been indicated by the public statements of several members of Congress. These have ranged from demands that the Administration draw a line beyond which it will not permit further Soviet aggression to charges that its policies were leading to war.

Last week Marshall told the Senate Appropriations Committee the President's military proposals were designed to "show the . . . world that the United States intends to be strong and to hold that strength ready to keep the European world both at peace and free."

Questioned by Senator Russell (D., Ga.), Marshall said the five-nation pact signed last week at Brussels offered "the basis for consideration" of U. S. action to stop aggression. In his California speeches, Marshall made clear his pessimism over world conditions and, in one, said the current European situation was similar to that which preceded the Nazi attack on Poland in 1939.

"No few cases of Americans attacking Soviet citizens in Austria also have been registered. The growth of the number of such incidents undoubtedly has been enhanced by the vigorous 'educating' of American soldiers in the anti-Soviet spirit by means of pamphlets and posters. The American Army newspaper Stars and Stripes day in and out foments anti-Soviet sentiment among American servicemen, stooping to any lie or slander.

"Many American officers and men who have become plenipotentiary administrators . . . seek to make use of the occupation regime for their personal enrichment. Blackmail and rackets are widespread alongside rampant profiteering."

Tass said Americas "seek to emphasize that theirs is 'a superior race.'" It added that many Austrain employes of American institutions have charged Americans "do not regard them as 'human beings.'"

The news agency said the American soldier in Austria does not know the meaning of the word "discipline."

The dispatch accused Americans of discriminating against their own Negro troops and of buying "practically for a song" jewels and other valuables Austrian families are selling because of "a critical food situation."

Tass conceded in the final two paragraphs of the article that all American servicemen probably do not commit crimes.

Conclusion Of Finn Pact Held Certain

Moscow, March 21 (U.P.).—Diplomatic observers entertained no doubt today that the Finnish delegation due here tomorrow will conclude a mutual military aid treaty with Russia such as Premier Josef Stalin has proposed.

These observers include some who have close connections with Finnish government sources. Advices they received from Helsinki before the delegation left last night indicated the Finnish negotiators had been instructed to sign a treaty similar to, if not identical with, those Russia recently has concluded with Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

The delegation, informants understood, has been instructed only to seek clarification and interpretation of certain clauses before signing. They expressed belief this would not prove a serious stumbling block.

The five-man delegation is due at the Leningrad station here tomorrow. High Russian officials, with a guard of honor, and members of the diplomatic corps are to meet the Finns.

Foreign Minister Carl Enckell has been given full power to initial a treaty and it is understood here that Finnish President Passikivi has received expert legal opinion that under Finnish law a treaty such as is proposed would not require approval of Finland's anti-Communist Parliament.

Sources close to the Finns deny emphatically that any questions such as bases for Russia or territorial concessions have been linked with treaty talks by Russia.

Order of Council On Palestine Seen Due Within Hours

Tel Aviv, Palestine, March 21 (AP).—A reliable informant today said a formal order of the Jewish National Council proclaiming the existence of a Hebrew state in Palestine is expected tomorrow or Tuesday.

No official announcement came from the council, but David Ben Gurion, chairman of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, said here yesterday the Jewish state already had come into being and would be defended by Jewish arms.

(In New York, Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, chairman of the American section of the agency, said today that proclaiming a Jewish state was "the logical thing" for Zionists to do. The action of the Jews in Palestine, he said, will depend on whether they are strong enough to back up such a proclamation.)

6 Jews Killed, 26 Injured In Haifa Building Blast

Jerusalem, March 21 (AP).—Jews were killed and 26 injured today in the blasting of a Jewish building in Haifa.

This and other violence claimed the lives of 15 Jews and 11 Arabs throughout the Holy Land.

In an upsurge of Jewish-Arab warfare, thousands of bullets whined over Jerusalem as Arabs from the old city fought Jews in embattled Montfieore for two hours. British artillery was called in to quell the fighting.

Lead splattered off the walls of the press headquarters and public information office. Tracers, flares, star shells and smoke bombs spewed and sputtered over the King David Hotel and British military headquarters.

A Jew fell wounded 30 yards from the press room. Five wounded Arabs were taken through the Jaffa gate.

The fighting on this Palm Sunday did not cease until police appealed to the Arabs.

The unofficial death toll since the November 29 U. N. decision on partition reached 1926.

Police said a truck loaded with 500 to 600 pounds of explosives drew up before a building in Haifa occupied by a Jewish building workers' cooperative.

'Quit Berlin,' Suggested to Allies Again

Berlin, March 21 (AP). — The Russians' abrupt walkout on a meeting of the four-power Allied Control Council was followed today by renewed suggestions in the Soviet-controlled press that the three western powers should get out of Berlin.

The Russians charged the western Allies had "destroyed" the Control Council by taking secret actions regarding western Germany.

Thereby, claimed the Soviet-licensed Berliner Zeitung, the United States, Britain and France had "destroyed their reason for being here" as joint occupiers with the Russians. Berlin is the seat of four-power administration for Germany.

The first indication whether the Russians intend to extend their walkout into a permanent boycott of the Allied control authority is expected tomorrow, when a meeting of the manpower directorate is scheduled. If Russian representatives fail to attend it may mean a pulling out of four-power machinery.

United States and British authorities adopted a "wait and see" attitude. Some were inclined to believe the Russian walkout applied only to yesterday's heated meeting, when Marshall Vassily Sokolovsky accused the western powers of sabotaging the Control Council.

The Allied Coordinating Committee, composed of the four deputy military governors, is scheduled to meet at mid-week under Russian chairmanship. The Control Council, also under Russian chairmanship for this month, does not meet again until March 30.

The official Soviet account of yesterday's unprecedented events in the Control Council indicated that Sokolovsky's abrupt action adjourned only that single session.

52 Must Die For Shelling Of Salonika

Salonika, Greece, March 21 (AP). Fifty men and two women have been sentenced to death by a Greek military court in connection with the February 10 shelling of Salonika, it was disclosed today.

The court sentenced two men and five women to life imprisonment. Seven men and one woman drew lighter sentences. Thirty-eight men and six women were found innocent. The defendants were among guerillas captured after the bombardment.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that the Greek army has established a new defense program to protect Salonika. An American military source said the city may be attacked by 2000 to 3000 guerillas in the next few weeks.

Informants said they had no official information that the Communists were concentrating an international brigade in the countries north of Greece. Reports on the existence of such an international force were received last week in Washington and Athens.

Today's bulletin said 66 guerillas were killed and 21 were wounded during fighting in a snowstorm on Mount Pierria, which lies west of famed Mount Olympus.

25 Freight Cars Jump Track; Broken Wheel Snarls B & O

Chester, Pa., March 21 (AP). Twenty-five Baltimore & Ohio Railroad freight cars jumped the tracks today, blocking traffic on the road's Philadelpha-Baltimore main line.

Some of the cars plunged from a bridge into Ridley Creek. Others toppled down an embankment. One came to a jolting stop against a house. Twisted rails and steel bars of the train cargo were strewn 100 yards of track.

Baltimore & Ohio headquarters at Baltimore said traffic would be resumed over one track by midnight, and on the second track tomorrow or Tuesday.

Trains Rerouted

Meanwhile trains were rerouted over the Pennsylvania Railroad right of way between Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del.

The railroad said the accident, in which no one was injured, was caused by a broken wheel.

Six persons were in the house when the accident occurred at a bridge crossing the creek on the outskirts of Chester. James Maisch and his son Anthony, 5, ran through the front door as the cars tumbled toward their home. Mrs. Maisch, who was upstairs with three other members of the family, was taken to Chester hospital and treated for shock.

Telegraph Poles Snapped

The plunging cars snapped off several Western Union poles along the right of way. The railroad said its entire communications system in the area was out of order for a time.

In another B. & O. derailment yesterday, Engineer Edward Koch, 49, of Punxsutawney, Pa., was killed and two other crewmen were injured near Johnsonburg in northwestern Pennsylvania. The road's Buffalo, N. Y., branch was tied up for 20 hours by 18 derailed cars.

Czechs Fail In Efforts To Buy Planes

By the United Press

Czechoslovakia has tried without success to buy large, four-engine American transport planes, a high Government source revealed yesterday.

Efforts to obtain such planes, presumably to fly transatlantic and European air routes, are reported to have been made since, as well as before, the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

Spokesmen for Government departments concerned with the proposed purchases would give no official information, but one informed source said, "It has been the practice for several months to consider whether exports to Russia or her satellites would contribute to their military potential." Transport planes fall into that category.

The Czechs were said to be interested in obtaining Lockheed Constellations or Douglas DC-6's. There also were reports that unsuccessful efforts have been made to buy such planes from one or more European airlines which purchased them in this country.

Pan American airways now flies to Prague. Under the principle of reciprocity, Czechoslovakia is entitled to fly to New York, but lacks the planes.

The United States and Canada at present are the only countries that can supply such planes.

Draft Plan Assailed As War Intent Sign

Educators and Clergymen Say Program Would 'Condition' World for Conflict

By the United Press

Four educators and clergymen yesterday assailed President Truman's military preparedness program as a sign to the world that "America intends to go to war."

The United States has established compulsory training twice in this century "only for purposes of war," they said in a statement released by the National Council Against Conscription.

"If it should now be enacted again, our own people as well as the rest of the world would believe it is an indication that America intends to go to war. It would tend to psychologically condition the world for war."

Signers of the statement were Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago; Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, New York clergyman; Dr. Alonzo F. Myers, president of the National Education Association's department of higher education; and the Rev. Allan P. Farrell, S. J., associate editor of the Catholic magazine, America.

They also asserted that the army is deliberately turning away volunteers and hence that any compulsory measures are "unreasonable."

They said the Army has been authorized by Congress to accept 18-month enlistments but is turning them down "on the ground that it is not profitable to take men for such a short period." They accused the President of failing to point out "that the Army is turning down about half of those who volunteer because it has raised its standards from the wartime passing grade of 59 to the present grade of 80."

"There is no logic to drafting boys when the army is turning down volunteers," they said. "If there is any emergency need for men, the army should not turn down men who make a 70 or 75 grade."

Military Aid Held Essential

lion dollars military assistance for Greece and Turkey.

Momentous Week

It will be a momentous week on Capitol Hill for foreign aid in all its aspects.

The House is expected to begin debate of a $6,205,000,000 bill containing the entire program of assistance in Asia and Europe. The Senate is handling it in a series of separate measures.

In the Senate, debate probably will start during the week on military aid to Greece and Turkey.

A prediction of House passage of the bundled up aid program just about "as is" came from Representative Vorys (R., Ohio). Vorys is slated to carry much of the load of piloting the bill through the House for Chairman Eaton (R., N. J.) of the Foreign Affairs Committee.

Vorys told reporters he thinks the bill to help Europe and China hold off communism will become a law without any big changes.

The House bill includes the $5,300,000,000 for a European program, the 275 million dollars for Greece and Turkey, the 420 million dollars for economic and 150 million dollars for military help for China, and 60 million dollars for the United Nations children's fund.

Italy Socialists Ban Marshall Plan Parley

Cigarette Price Charges Dropped

By the United Press

The Federal Trade Commission yesterday dismissed complaints charging eight of the Nation's largest cigarette manufacturers with price discrimination.

The commission said it threw out the charges "because of lack of sufficient evidence to warant proceeding with the trials." The complaints had been directed against P. Lorillard Co., Philip Morris & Co., Liggett & Myers and American Tobacco Co., all of New York; Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., Louisville, Ky.; R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.; Larus & Bros., Richmond, Va., and Stephano Bros., Philadelphia.

Taylor Demands That Forrestal Be Fired, Charges Policy 'Taint' of Oil Imperialism

By the United Press

Senator Glen H. Taylor yesterday demanded that President Truman fire Defense Secretary Forrestal for opposing the partition of Palestine to protect American oil interests in Arabia.

At the same time, Senator Lodge (R., Mass.) accused third party presidential candidate Henry A. Wallace of deliberately causing national disunity by advocating appeasement of Russia.

Taylor, apostate Democrat and now vice presidential candidate on the Wallace ticket, said in a letter to Mr. Truman that Forrestal "has been most aggressive" in trying to have U. S. foreign and military policy shaped to "the interests of the oil companies, an interest which many people have described simply as oil imperialism."

Forrestal's office said he would have nothing to say until the President received the letter, if then.

Cites Aid to Greece

Taylor wrote that a year ago "it was apparent that the desire to protect the interests of certain large oil companies was one of the important factors which led to American military aid to Greece and Turkey."

"More recently," he went on, "the same question of Middle East oil holdings was important in the weakening of the American government support of the Palestine partition plan."

The letter apparently was written before Friday when the United States abruptly abandoned the Palestine partition plan and called for a United Nations trusteeship to administer the Holy Land.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall took full responsibility for the about-face on American policy with the declaration that he had recommended it and the President had "approved my recommendation."

"If our national policy is to be free of the taint of oil imperialism," Taylor wrote, "Mr. Forrestal must go. If we are to have a balanced national security program, Mr. Forrestal must go. If we are to carry out honestly and effectively the Palestine partition, Mr. Forrestal must go. And finally, if we are to have a balanced foreign policy devoted to peace through the United Nations, certainly Mr. Forrestal must go."

Replies to Telegram

Lodge delivered his blast against Wallace in replying to a telegram from the former Vice President to all members of Congress. Wallace had asserted that the present international crisis was caused by "the complete failure of the Truman Doctrine throughout the world." He added that it was up to Congress to "quell the hysteria and set a standard for the observance of democratic principles which will enable us to regain moral leadership in world affairs and in the cause of peace."

"Your telegram," Lodge replied brusquely, "so utterly distorts the truth and uses the phrases which we all love in so cynical a manner that I cannot hope by any reply of mine to make you admit the great wrong you are committing."

He said he felt impelled to record "my opinion of the great harm you have done your country and the plain people of the world."

McGrath Says GOP Wrecks Labor Dept.

Democratic Leader Asks Restoration Of 4 Million Fund

By the United Press

Chairman J. Howard McGrath of the Democratic National Committee, yesterdayy accused Republican congressional leaders of trying to "wreck" the Labor Department.

He said they have been "generous" with appropriations to make the Taft-Hartley Labor Act "look good," but have "emasculated" Federal services to workers by slashing other department appropriations for fiscal 1949.

A Senate Appropriations Subcommittee begins hearings today on the Labor Department appropriations bill, and McGrath appealed to GOP leaders to restore the four million dollar cut voted by the House. He said this reduction, together with a 30 per cent slash last year, "will have reduced the department's funds and staff more than 50 per cent in two years of Republican domination of Congress."

Or Face Shortage

Motorists Told to Save Gasoline

By the United Press

Pleasure-driving motorists were put on notice yesterday to save gasoline now or face a crippling shortage this summer.

The warning signal was raised by Max W. Ball, head of the Interior Department's oil and gas division in a 60-page report on the petroleum outlook.

Petroleum industry leaders chimed in that Ball wasn't fooling. They said in connecton with the report that some control and distribution of gasoline will have to be undertaken.

Oil-burning households also have got to conserve, Ball said, or both homes and some industries will be on short rations next winter.

Ball also said that:

1. United States oil exports can't be reduced too much or the United States may have trouble fueling another war. Also rehabilitation of western Europe may be hampered, leaving those countries at the mercy of "other ideologies."

2. United States foreign policy must give "every reasonable support to American oil operations abroad."

3. Not only the domestic petroleum industry but American oil companies in the Middle East must have more steel to increase production.

Secretary of the Interior Krug has called a meeting April 1 of his special petroleum advisory committee. He wants to work out a voluntary program under which everybody—individuals and industry—will get a fair share of available petroleum products.

Cigarette Filler Output Is Record

By the United Press

World production of the No. 1 cigarette tobacco broke all records last year, the Agriculture Department reported yesterday.

The Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations said the 1947 fluecured tobacco crop produced 1,824,000,000 pounds. This is 0.5 per cent greater than the 1946 output, 18 per cent greater than the 1945 crop and 47 per cent larger than the 1935-39 average production.

Anti-Gag Vote Lobby Revives Dixie Hopes in Rights Fight

By The Associated Press

Dixie Democrats came up with the fresh hope yesterday that they may be able to beat off first attempts to limit Senate debate on civil rights bills.

Their hope was built on the results of quiet lobbying for antigag rule votes among the Republicans and western Democrats. Even the most optimistic of the Southerners conceded, however, that at least one of the anti-lynching, anti-poll tax and anti-job discrimination proposals now pending is likely to be passed.

They say they are afraid they can't hold the line against repeated attempts to gag debate.

The anti-poll tax measure gets an airing before the Senate Rules Committee in two-day hearings beginning today. Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.) and Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina will lead off the opposition witnesses.

The anti-lynching measure still is in the hands of a Judiciary Subcommittee headed by Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) GOP members may bring it up first—either in April or May.

That will be the signal for a filibuster by the Southerners. Republican leaders may let the talk run along a few days and then bring in a petition to put the cloture rule in effect. Under this rule each Senator is limited to an hour's speech and then there is a vote.

The Southerners need outside help to stop the adoption of this rule by the required two-thirds vote. They have a minimum of 21 votes, need 10 or 12 more among Democrats outside the South or Republicans.

Even if they get enough votes to keep the debate open, one Southerner pointed out, they can't get a civil rights bill off the Senate's docket except by unanimous consent or by a majority vote.

Negroes Answer Revolt With Renewed Demands

Tuskeegee, Ala., March 21 (AP).—Negroes answered the Southern revolt against President Truman's civil rights program today with a renewed demand for racial equality.

They called especially for the right to vote, to get an education, and for a guarantee of "personal safety," and deplored recent activities of the Ku Klux Klan in Georgia. They called the KKK a "terrorist organization."

Their demands came in a statement of policy adopted at a seven-State conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Emory O. Jackson of Birmingham, chairman of the policy committee, said it represented the Negroes' reply to the Southern outcry against President Truman's civil rights stand.

The conference denounced the South's regional education plan "and any other form of segregation and discrimination in public education." It condemned what it called "collaboration between some Negro educators and Southern Governors," but mentioned no names.

3295 Pacific War Dead Due In U. S. Today

Oakland, Calif., March 21 (U.P.).—A cargo of 3295 Pacific war dead will arrive here tomorrow aboard the Army transport ship Walter W. Schwenk.

The third funeral ship from the Pacific war theater, the Schwenk will bring home the bodies of men who died in western Pacific battles. Most of the dead are United States marines who fell in the struggle for the Marianas.

Rivers Wants Butter Probe, But Not by Andresen

By The Associated Press

A congressional investigation of butter prices was urged yesterday by Representative Rivers (D., S. C.).

And, said Rivers, the inquiry should be directed by some group other than the special House Agriculture Subcommittee headed by Representative Andresen (R., Minn.).

"I read in the press that Representative Andresen says he will look into the price rises in butter," Rivers said in a statement. "Mr. Andresen is the acknowledged leader of the butter bloc in Congress. For more than 69 years this bloc has refused to let the House voted on legslation to repeal or modify the Federal anti-margarine laws."

Rivers asserted that rises in the price of butter that followed action of the House Agriculture Committee in shelving margarine legislation already have cost consumers "millions of dollars."

St. Ambrose and the Hymn of Charlemagne

Saint Ambrose, the Bishop of Milan, composed "Veni Creator Spiritus" three centuries after the crucifixion. Through four hundred years and more after its composition, "Veni Creator Spiritus" was evolving as one of the first great hymns of the Western Church.

It was in the eighth century that Charlemagne, Charles the Great, Emperor of the West, was to lift it from the shadows of antiquity. Charlemagne ordered the choir of his court to perform "Veni Creator Spiritus" in the newly-constructed chapel at Aix-la-Chapelle.

"Veni Creator Spiritus" became "The Hymn of Charlemagne."

Here was early evidence that great music is both subjective and objective. Saint Ambrose poured into his pen the expressions of his faith. Charlemagne placed upon this music an interpretation adapted to his needs. Inspiration and fulfillment—these are the composites of music that endures.

Today's vast reservoir of immortal music commands no spirit to languish without inspiration. It is of such breadth and depth as to hold every need of spiritual fulfillment.

As we come to a day of significant Christian recognition, we at Campbell's are most anxious that each of you may know the ecstasy of music that answers an inner demand.

Music—like so many enduring things—is yours to enjoy in many ways without expense or trouble or competition. It is a light that shines through life's complexities . . . for everyone.

May your appreciation of the Easter significance be heightened by the tones that resound throughout the ages.

A BETTER NAME FOR MUSIC . . .

Between The Extremes

The constitution for world government worked out by an 11-man committee headed by Dr. Robert M. Hutchins was announced at a moment when leaders in the United Nations were wringing their hands in despair over the U. N.'s progressive loss of prestige. Apparently Dr. Hutchins and his colleagues have outlined an admirable scheme for a federated world republic. What they have failed to do is to relate it to present-day realities.

"World government," they contend, "is the only alternative to world destruction; world government is necessary, therefore it is possible, and the price of world government and peace is justice." These lofty sentiments will have an especially ironical sound in United Nations circles where hope of inducing the great powers to work together for peace is so tragically waning.

If there were any real grounds for believing that we might attain world government at present, we should be eagerly pursuing that objective. Most students of current world affairs realize, however, that the one possibility of attaining world government now would be through the imposition of such a regime by war. And of course there is a very grave question as to whether any lasting system of world government based on democratic ideas could be created by this means; for the conquered peoples could be expected to resent even the imposition of freedom upon them by force of arms. In short, the proposed world constitution is so out of joint with the times that its sponsors cannot reasonably hope to have it entered in the list of practical suggestions for today.

At the other extreme is the growing despair that any organized international action can be taken to avoid a new outbreak of hostilities. This seems to us to be the more deplorable. While it is true that the Security Council is hamstrung at present, it does not need to remain so. Ways of reshaping the U. N. to the needs of the day are readily at hand through Article 51 of the Charter, as we have often pointed out in these columns. The framework and principles of the organization can be maintained while freeing it from the bonds that now hold it in inaction. Here is the answer, in our opinion, to detached idealism on the one hand and unmitigated gloom on the other. The hope of maintaining peace and of progressing toward the ultimate rule of justice would be immeasurably strengthened, we think, if all groups would unite on practical steps that can be taken within the existing framework.

Sarajevo Incident

Through a leak in the iron curtain comes the news of another propaganda trial in Titoslavia. The victim in this case was the Rt. Rev. Varnava Nastich, the Orthodox Bishop of Bosnia. The general pattern of his trial at Sarajevo followed that of the trials of the Croatian Roman Catholic Archbishop Stepinats and of the Chetnik leader Mihailovitch. That is to say, Bishop Nastich was accused of treason against the regime.

What made the case different was that the bishop in the courtroom boldly admitted the specific charges against him. He acknowledged that he had preached against Communist tyranny, that he had denounced the Communists for having kept the UNRRA supplies for themselves, and that he had expressed the hope that an American army would come to liberate Yugoslavia. In this, said the bishop, "I spoke what all the people are speaking, feeling and desiring." He went on:

> I believe with people here and everywhere that war between America and the Soviets is inevitable. But rest assured the Soviets will lose that war. I know that our people will meet the American Army with cheers.

The bishop also refused to deny that he had been in communication with the remnant of the Chetniks, which is still holding out in the mountains of Pracha and Rogatzia, and which according to some accounts, has been greatly strengthened by deserters from Tito's conscript armies. When the bishop referred to them as "brave men ready to lay down their lives for their people," there was a demonstration, and the presiding judge, the Montenegrin, Masan Radonich, angrily ordered the spectators cleared from the courtroom. Bishop Nastich was denied the right to make any further speech in his own defense. He was sentenced to 11 years at hard labor, which, under the conditions existing in the slave camps, is probably equivalent to a sentence of death.

That he was permitted to go as far as he did is probably to be explained by the ignorance and ineptitude of his judges. Reports of the bishop's defiance are said to have spread rapidly from mouth to mouth. Thus, as propaganda, the trial recoiled on its authors. Incidentally, Bishop Nastich is an American by birth, a native of Gary, Ind. About a year ago he was elected to the episcopate of the Serbian Orthodox Church, and afteward sent to Sarajevo as successor to the Metropolitan Simonich, who was slain by the Croatian Ustachi under the German occupation. It was apparently the purpose of the regime to represent him as an agent of the American imperialists, but the effect was apparently opposite to the intention.

Obstructive Amendments

The ERP bill reported out of the House Foreign Affairs Committee includes two amendments of a highly obstructive and objectionable character. The more dangerous is the proposal sponsored by Representative Mundt forbidding the shipment of American goods under the ERP program to any country using them to make products for shipment to Russia or her satellites. Acceptance of this proposal would go a long way toward undermining the effectiveness of the Marshall Plan. For one of the conditions precedent to the recovery it contemplates is revival of trade between eastern and western Europe. The importance of a revival of this east-west trade has been repeatedly emphasized in official reports and statements. To try to choke off that trade as a condition of receipt of Marshall Plan aid would be equivalent to a disavowal of our announced purpose of encouraging restoration of peaceful commercial ties among the nations of Europe.

Moreover, the Mundt amendment would involve infuriating interference with the commercial policies of participating countries. For instance, Great Britain recently concluded a trade agreement with Russia providing for shipment by Russia of coarse grains and livestock feeds to be paid for by British deliveries of machinery, rails, etc. This agreement is to be followed by a more comprehensive pact, probably providing for Russian shipments to Britain of wheat, and various important raw materials. The advantages of such exchanges to both countries are obvious. And, of course, arrangements giving the nations of western Europe access to the surpluses of eastern Europe, reduce their dependence upon foodstuffs and raw materials supplied by the United States. By putting obstacles in the way of such trade, the United States would, in fact, be deliberately denying aided nations opportunities to become more self-sufficient, thereby adding unnecessarily to the burdens put on the American people and jeopardizing the success of the Marshall Plan. That is why the Senate refused to incorporate a similar prohibition in its ERP bill.

The other offending amendment would require participating countries to submit schedules of strategic raw materials and to deliver an agreed percentage of the output of such materials to the United States in repayment of grants or loans made to them. Rigid requirements of this sort providing for repayment in kind, coupled with provisions for giving American companies developmental rights on terms equivalent to those afforded the nationals of the countries concerned, would unquestionably lead to friction—and could not be defended as a reasonable condition of extending aid.

The Senate bill, on the other hand, simply provides for the sale, exchange, or barter of materials desired by the United States for stockpiling purposes, when available in a participating country, "after due regard for reasonable requirements for domestic use and commercial export of such country." This reasonable, elastic provision recognizes our interest in the acquisition of strategic materials without putting undue pressure upon nations in our debt to stand and deliver. We trust that the Senate's method of handling this delicate problem will be accepted.

Oak Ridge Dispute

By a matter of hours the strike called by the Atomic Trades and Labor Council (AFL) at the Oak Ridge Atomic Laboratories was prevented by issuance of a Federal injunction in accordance with provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. For a period up to 80 days, therefore (the time allowed for receiving a further report from the board of inquiry appointed by the President and determining by secret ballot whether the employes are willing to accept the final offer of the employer) the injunction insures continued operation at Oak Ridge. But if the dispute is not settled within the time limit, the injunction will be vacated and the Oak Ridge employes will be legally freed from the restrictions temporarily imposed on their right to strike.

Even if the parties to this dispute reach an agreement within the time limit, the possibility of future strikes in an industry so vital to our national defense will remain a continuing threat to national security. Consequently the Oak Ridge dispute raises questions of national policy that call for immediate consideration. Labor disputes in atomic energy plants might in less critical times be handled in the same way as disputes involving other private industries. But in the present precarious state of the world, it is imperative that every possible precaution be taken against suspension of operations.

The Post has repeatedly emphasized the weakness of the provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act in dealing with strikes that constitute a threat to national health or safety and has urged the need for governmental reserve powers to end work stoppages by seizure of strike-bound concerns. In the present instance the Government is already the owner of the atomic plants involved—the operating concern functioning under the terms of a contract negotiated with the Atomic Energy Commission. We think, therefore, that the Government, as owner of these plants, has a special obligation to see that continuity of operations under a private contractor is not jeopardized by wage disputes.

One possible way of dealing with the threat would be to give all employes in Government-owned atomic energy plants the status of Federal workers by putting plant operations directly under commission control—an arrangement that would prohibit exercise of the right to strike. Compulsory arbitration of disputes offers another possible defense against striking, although it is a solution open to objections for political as well as economic reasons. Or the present system of collective bargaining with private companies might be rendered more strike-proof, if the Atomic Energy Commission were to set general standards of wages, hours and conditions of employment to serve as a guide in wage negotiations. The fact that a mere handful of men can under existing laws legally tie up production of the country's most powerful defense weapon indefinitely, emphasizes the crying need of preventive action.

Freedom And Security

The country is indebted to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia for an incisive and closely reasoned opinion on a subject which, as the court recognizes, has stirred up "swirling currents of public emotion in both directions." The court has ably detached itself from those "swirling currents" and taken its stand on the fundamentals of our political and judicial systems. In effect, it says that even when Congress abuses its power of investigation the courts will not interfere unless the "bounds of power and pertinency" are clearly exceeded.

The case is that of Edward K. Barsky and others who were convicted for refusal to produce records of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. That conviction was attacked on the ground that the committee is engaged not only in exposing unorthodox propaganda but also in unconstitutionally restraining and punishing it. We have often complained about the methods this committee has used, but a clear line ought to be drawn between criticism of specific abuses and denial to Congress of the power to expose subversive elements. Such a line has been ably drawn by Justices Prettyman and Clark.

It should be noted first that Mr. Barsky and his colleagues were not asked to state their political opinions. They were asked to account for funds collected under the pretense of supplying relief abroad and said to have been used for political propaganda. In order to clarify the issue, however, the court concluded that "even if the inquiry had been such as to elicit the answer that the witness was a believer in communism or a member of the Communist Party, Congress had power to make the inquiry."

"This existing machinery of government," the court said, "has power to inquire into potential threats to itself, not alone for the selfish reason of self-protection, but for the basic reason that having been established by the people as an instrumentality for the protection of the rights of people, it has an obligation to its creators to preserve itself." Nor is it necessary to wait, in the case of investigations, until there is what Holmes called a "clear and present danger." "In our view," Justice Prettyman wrote, "it would be sheer folly as a matter of governmental policy for an existing government to refrain from inquiry into potential threats to its existence or security until danger was clear and present. And for the judicial branch of government to hold the legislative branch to be without power to make such inquiry until the danger is clear and present would be absurd. How, except upon inquiry, would the Congress know whether the danger is clear and present?"

Despite Justice Edgerton's generalized dissent, the majority rejected any attempt to weigh generalities as to minority rights against the public interest in national security. "None of the fundamental rights is absolute," the court said; "the public interest may under some circumstances outweigh even the right to life itself." The Constitution guarantees freedom of speech but not immunity from the consequences of heedless exercise of that freedom. Nor does it assure freedom to destroy freedom. The answer in the present instance depends upon the nature of communism in the context of world affairs. This seems to us to be good sense as well as good law, and we have no doubt that it will clear away a good deal of the fog that is still prevalent in this area of public discussion.

COUNTERPOINT

The lovers and the poets use
The monotone of fog and rain,
The dissonance of gale-whipped clouds
As tones transmuted on the strings
Of viols hidden in the heart
And play the shrill yet delicate
Harmonies of their happiness

While others richness will abuse,
Transposing beauty into pain;
The white cadenzas of the clouds,
The codas of returning springs,
And render their impassioned part
With pessimisms intricate
On sad bassoons of hopelessness.

But O, the final euphony,
The contrapuntal harmony
In life's schismatic symphony,

Industrial UMT

Any plan to escape the chaos of war, suggested so far, seems to have met with negation somewhere. Apparently all which remains for us to do is to strengthen our defense mechanism, and above all things to establish a real universal military training program, as an auxiliary to what military miscellany we already have.

The changes wrought, and those still taking place in our mode of warfare are apt to provoke outbursts from persons who expect a finished product in the trainee. They may tell us that any course of instruction that we can give today will surely be outmoded tomorrow. They actually forget that military discipline and precision will always remain the basis of any military endeavor.

Woodrow Wilson delivered an address in New York on January 27, 1916, on "Need of An Army and Navy." Wilson's plea is many sided, and I feel it can furnish a basis for UMT which some other proposals do not even reach. Of course it will have to undergo some modifications. In substance Wilson says as follows:

"America is going to use her Army in two ways. She is going to use it for the purpose of peace and she is going to use it as a nucleus for expansion into those things which she does believe in, namely the preparation of her citizens to take care of themselves. There are two sides to preparation: military and industrial.

"We ought to have in this country a great system of industrial and vocational education under Federal guidance and with Federal aid, in which a large percentage of the youth of this country will be given training in the skillful use and application of the principles of science in manufacture and business; and it will be perfectly feasible and highly desirable to combine with it such training in the mechanism and care in the use of arms, in the sanitation of camps, in the simpler forms of maneuver and organization, as will make the same men at one and the same time industrially efficient and immediately serviceable for national defense.

"The point about such a system will be that its emphasis will lie on the industrial and civil side of life, and that, like all the rest of America, the use of force will only be in the background and as the last resort."

Too much has been made of losing time because of UMT. This time loss is more spurious than real. Let us face the realities of the situation—cut out the fanfare of some pedagogues.

Home Service

In a radio talk March 7, Basil O'Connor, national chairman of the American Red Cross, said that $250,000 was needed for home service. This service gives assistance to veterans and their families in need of emergency aid and also gives counseling service on financial, domestic and other problems. Extremely important to remember is that home service workers refer persons to community agencies for specialized or follow-up services.

There is no doubt that the American Red Cross will get the funds needed for all projected services, but it is primarily an "emergency agency," stepping out as other agencies take over. What about follow-up on such services in a community deficient in funds for public relief and with budgets of private agencies cut down because of the failure of the Community Chest?

Giving assistance or relief and counseling, an important social agency function that helps people to help themselves, are local responsibilities. Should the inspired work of a national agency fall on sterile soil, languishing for fertilizer and refreshing moisture? Have we not failed to take the long view in the District of Columbia? There are more ways than one of supporting and carrying on the work of the American Red Cross.

"Antilynching Bill"

As a Southerner I disagree with your March 2 editorial, "Antilynching Bill." It is true that lynching has decreased greatly during the past few years, but the way in which the States have been handling the situation is by no means discouraging to would-be lynchers In South Carolina persons who took part in the lynching of a Negro were carried before the bar of justice, but South Carolina being one of those States which has mastered the problem of lynching without any help from Washington released the guilty persons.

In Georgia, shortly after World War II, four Negroes, including two women and a veteran of World War II, were lynched. Even the FBI did not know who the guilty lynchers were.

I am sure that if the antilynch bill is passed, the Southern law-enforcement officers will make it much more difficult for lynch mobs to get their prisoners, and the mobs will think more than once before lynching Negroes.

Work For DPs

With deep and thankful satisfaction I have read your paper's articles advocating DP immigration and employment in the United States.

I am one of those who—persecuted by a foreign political police—have had to leave their native country and cannot return because the Communist dictatorship is ruling there even now. I am able to work in my profession and issue a newspaper for my unfortunate fellow countrymen who, like the DPs of other nationalities, lead a hopeless enervating camp life in Germany. Being a journalist and looking at life with a journalist's eye, I feel I must make it clear that there is one wish, and one wish alone, my countrymen have—to earn their daily bread by themselves and cease being a bother to others.

It would be difficult for you to find credible what all people have done and invented just to get out of Germany. But for the time being only single persons are permitted to emigrate, and only the physically fittest. Thus many a man has left his wife and children back here, hoping to get at least alone to a country of resettlement and then try to get his family there afterward. But no one can tell if that will be possible.

Some of the emigration commissions have the emigrants sieved so thoroughly that chances of getting out of Germany seem rather like those a camel would have when it were to pass through a needle's eye.

It is work that we want, no charity!

Untimely Tax Reduction

The decision of the Senate Finance Committee to approve a 4.8-billion-dollar income tax cut is another sad reminder that a presidential election year is hardly the appropriate time for realistic consideration of our domestic and foreign needs. The same Congress which takes every pain to cut down appropriations for vital governmental activities and which is so careful to weigh heavily any outlay for foreign relief is apparently prepared unblushingly to adopt a major tax reduction program. It is to be hoped that the Senate will reject the committee recommendations and work out a substantially improved tax program. If it does not, it is to be hoped that the President will forget what year it is and give the bill a resounding veto.

The Senate committee recommendations represent only a minor modification of the Knutson bill passed earlier this year by the House. Both versions, like the bills passed last year, still merit the appraisal of "the wrong kind of tax reduction at the wrong time."

This is not the time for heavy tax reduction. The aspect of the inflationary po ential in such a reduction has received rather adequate attention. But there is another consideration—perhaps more psychological than economic — which demands care in our tax policies. I refer to our obligations under the Marshall Plan. While Europe waits impatiently we quibble over the precise amounts to be allotted. Will it not be quite clear to them, as it should be to us at home, that a major consideration in paring down ERP funds is to permit the widest possible margin for tax relief?

To skimp on funds and then reduce taxes will be an action that freedom-loving people all over the world should not be expected to understand or appreciate. There is no way, of course, of determining for certain what good our money will do abroad. It may even do harm. But there is good reason to hope that our aid may rebuild Europe and prevent war. A few billions now may well prevent the expenditure later of hundreds of billions, let alone broken lives, homes and nations.

If the timing is bad, the nature of the proposed tax reduction is even worse. Although the proposal seems to give the greatest relief to the lowest-income groups, a more careful examination reveals that, like the original Knutson bill last year, it provides a terrific bonanza for the highest brackets and very little for the lowest groups. This may seem strange for a bill that would reduce taxes by 12.6 per cent for those in the lowest brackets and only 5 for those in the highest brackets. A little arithmetic, however, yields the following results for a taxpayer with wife and two children:

Net Income	Spendable Income (After Taxes) Present	Senate Proposal	% Increase
$2,400	$2,324	$2,400	3.3
3,000	2,810	2,900	3.2
5,000	4,411	4,568	3.5
10,000	8,138	8,639	6.2
50,000	26,000	33,423	28.6
500,000	93,400	141,323	51.3

The Senate committee recommendations would increase "take-home" pay for the lowest income groups by 2 or 3 per cent, but by as much as 51 per cent in the highest brackets. No small part of this incongruous result is due to the income-splitting feature of the proposal. There may be good reason for giving this lop-sided type of relief—I have yet to be convinced—but it should be made clear to the American people that the present bills in Congress do give that type of relief. The common impression that the greatest relief is going to low income groups should be disspelled.

If the time is propitious for any tax relief at this time, it must be given solely to those who have been hardest hit by the rapid rise in the cost of living. All that is needed is an increase in exemptions. Such a tax reform would be understandable to our people at home and to the millions abroad who wait desperately for our actions to help them.

The Darker Sciences

THE MIRROR OF MAGIC, by Kurt Seligmann (Pantheon Books, $8.50).

Here we have a heterogeneous history of various occult sciences and their more celebrated practitioners—of magicians, astrologers, Chaldeans and soothsayers, of necromancers, divinators, diabolists and witches, of Rosicrucians, Cabalists and freemasons, of alchemists, mesmerists and mere charlatans. I feel obliged to say that the book is more interesting for the many curious and often fascinating illustrations assembled by Mr. Seligmann from the print rooms of museums than for his own commentary. Mr. Seligmann is by vocation a surrealist painter and his arrangement of his materials and his manner of writing seem generally faithful to the principles of his art. To make the task of the reader a little more painful, the publishers have caused the text to be set in a typeface comprised of flat-serif letters of a species much favored in the days of President Grant for the exterior decoration of locomotive tenders and horsecars.

Yet the subject itself is of some importance, for Mr. Seligmann's book fully sustains his conclusion that belief in magic is apparently inseparable from the human mind. It is indeed difficult to draw any clear line between magic and religion on the one side, and between magic and science on the other. Certainly, it would not be easy to show that psychoanalysis, for example, is any less magical in its premises than the purificatory rites prescribed by Zoroaster or that the art of the soothsayer as practiced by our political journalists is any less magical than the methods of the Delphian pythoness, or for that matter to prove that auguries read from statistics are more trustworthy than those read from the stars or from the entrails of birds. Everyone familiar with the literature of the Left Wing knows that the religion of materialism has its own demonologies and its magical incantations and rites. It is certain, however, that the presence of too many sorcerers, fortune tellers and enchanters has a degenerating effect on any society, and constitutes a danger to the state; which explains the proscriptions of them by various Roman emperors; but it may also be true that our danger is greater because our magicians go unrecognized as such.

The association of science and magic is, of course, immemorial. Pythagoras discovered, so he thought, magical properties in numbers; Plato had a characteristic and ingenious theory to explain the validity of divination from the inward organs of sacrificed animals; Ptolemy, like so many others before and after him, believed that the fortunes of men are controlled by the stars; Albertus Magnus, one of the greatest of medieval scholastics, approved and perhaps practiced the arts of alchemy; Roger Bacon, who in the thirteenth century had strange visions of horseless carriages, flying machines and submarine boats, rejected the rituals of magic, but, as Mr. Seligmann shows, nevertheless accepted its principles. Here, of course, it is necessary to remember that the medieval mind made a sharp distinction between natural magic, which sought merely to exploit what exists in nature, and the magic which invokes the assistance of supernatural powers, whether malign or beneficent. Thus not only alchemy, but also palmistry, physiognomy, metoposcopy and so on are natural magic, since they were based on what were deemed to be scientific principles. The alchemist, for example, believed that it was possible to transmute metals because he also believed, on the authority of Aristotle, that the primary matter in all bodies is identical and that bodies receive their forms from the forces that act on them. Doubtless he believed this just as firmly as if he had actually been able to turn the whole world into gold and silver. Our method, of course, is to make the empirical demonstration rather than the general concept the test of the validity. But this may be an even greater superstition, because, as someone has cleverly argued, it amounts to making a god of the machine.

Witchcraft of course belongs to the order of black, or unnatural, magic; and although it has been prevalent in almost all times and places, the pandemic terror of witches in Western Europe in the late fifteenth and the sixteenth centuries is, as far as I know, something unique in history. Just as it gave some signs of subsiding it was suddenly revived in England by the ineffable James I. How many hundred thousand harmless lunatics, unpopular old women, herb doctors and village charlatans were tortured and hanged or burned before the frenzy died out, there is no means of guessing. The witch mania was one of several manifestations that make the historical climate of the sixteenth century seem so much like our own. The almost universal obsession with witchcraft was evidently like our obsession with politics, and its consequences were not more fantastic or terrible. But the people of the sixteenth century suffered like ourselves from bewilderment and insecurity. Their uneasiness was a consequence of the break-up of the familiar and traditional hierarchical patterns of the Middle Ages, and the shock of tremendous new ideas like the Copernican astronomy. Another predisposing cause of the witch-mania of course was the spirit of outrageous curiosity engendered by the new humanism. Nothing human or extra human was safe from it; the choice and master spirits of the age were dabbling in the Cabala or in some other occult experimentation; princes and other great personages patronized the professional sorcerers not less liberally than professional poets.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Measures For The Crisis

HOW PROMPTLY and unitedly the country supports the new measures will surely depend upon how convincing is the proof that they are exactly, specifically and exclusively designed to deal with the present international situation. Since this is an election year with the President a candidate, and with the recollection of 1940 and 1944 in all men's minds, the people and the Congress will expect guarantees that the Democrats are not going to argue that the crisis makes them indispensable and that the Republicans will not be so divided and hesitant that Mr. Truman begins to look as if he were indispensable. National unity can best be had this year by convincing the country that American vital interests can be promoted at least as well by a change of administration as by keeping the present one.

Lippmann

IT WILL also be necessary to convince the country that the military measures are related to this crisis, and not, however desirable they may be in themselves, to a relatively distant future. The Administration should have no difficulty in showing that the restoration of Selective Service is necessary not only to bring the armed forces up to strength but to operate an expanded Air Force and the development of amphibious task forces.

It may have more difficulty in showing that universal military training can do anything in the present circumstances which Selective Service cannot do more directly, more economically, and more expeditiously.

THE CONTROLLING consideration now is the time required to mobilize American military power. The shorter the interval of time needed to make our potential power actual, the better will be the prospect of settling the great conflict by diplomacy and not by war. Because we are unmobilized and separated by an ocean from Europe, the critical question is whether the Soviet Union or some of its satellites will risk action, designed to present us with accomplished facts as in Czechoslovakia and Finland, which could not be repaired except by a world war.

It is for the present crisis, then, not for theoretical war in 1951 or thereabouts, that we must mobilize our military power. The crucial issues will not be decided by weapons that are still on the drawing boards and in the experimental laboratories, or by men who will begin to be trained years hence. The military showdown, which Stalin has precipitated, will be decided by the forces in being during the months immediately ahead. We must, in short, think of a mobilization for the emergency and not of a program of military preparedness in time of peace.

It is only by our mobilization that the western alliance, which has just been signed in Brussels, can be made secure. The five nations have promised to stand together. Our part is to make it certain that they can and will stand together. This can be done only if their people know that they will not be overrun and occupied by the Red Army, that they will have arms for themselves and prompt and massive American military aid in time to prevent the catastrophe of an occupation.

For the people of the continent are in no mood to resist, to be defeated and occupied, and then to be liberated for a second time. They can be counted on to support the Brussels alliance only if it offers them a much better than even chance of not being occupied.

Therefore, the value of an American guaranty of support will be measured not only in Moscow but also in Paris, Brussels, The Hague, by the tempo and the scale of our mobilization.

FOR THE same reason the restoration of Selective Service should be accompanied by the restoration of military lend-lease. Unless we add military lend-lease to the European Recovery Program, how can Great Britain and France develop the armed forces to carry out the pledges of their alliance? All the calculations of the recovery program are based on the assumption that their military effort would remain at a very low level in order not to draw off manpower, capital equipment and imported raw materials. If now they must arm, and that is what the western alliance demands, then the estimates of the European Recovery Program will have to be reviewed and revised upwards.

IN THE Mediterranean, and especially as regards Italy, measures are called for even before our mobilization can be carried out. Italy, unlike Czechoslovakia, is not enveloped by the Red Army and is quite accessible. The threat of an unopposed intervention of the Red Army, which was probably decisive in Czechoslovakia, does not exist in Italy.

The problem in Italy is, therefore, to make certain that the legitimate government can—and because it can, that it will—use its army and its police to crush an insurrection before the elections, or a coup d'etat after the elections aimed at control of the army, the police, and the administration of the Italian state.

IT IS our right and our duty to make available to the Italian government any force it may need to preserve its authority. It is our right because the Italian peace treaty stipulates that "Italy shall take all measures necessary to secure to all persons under Italian jurisdiction . . . the enjoyment of human rights and of the fundamental freedoms." In view of what is happening in Czechoslovakia, it is indisputable that a Communist control of the Italian government would quickly mean the violation of the peace treaty.

It is our duty to enable the Italian government to crush an insurrection and to prevent a coup d'etat because the treaty has left Italy too much disarmed to "take all measures necessary."

AS TO the expediency of taking these measures, it may be said that the assurance and courage they will give to the masses of the people who would support the legitimate government far outweigh the effects of the outcry, which will come from the Communists, that we are intervening in the internal affairs of Italy. The real danger in Italy is not that a majority will vote freely to make Italy a Communist state, but that the majority will again be terrorized by a compact, determined, and ruthless minority as it was 25 years ago by Mussolini and his Blackshirts.

We need have no hesitation, qualms, and scruples about giving the Italian government all the support it needs to preserve its constitutional authority before the elections and, no matter what the outcome, after the elections as well.

Off The Record

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

The Wallace Pattern

THE PATTERN is always the same, whether in the United States or in Europe. First there is no more than a little gentle footy-footy between a non-Communist liberal or left-winger and the Communist. Then, he suddenly finds himself their political and intellectual prisoner. The liberal is then compelled to turn and rend the non-Communist left and liberal movement of which he was once a part, and finally, he is forced into the kind of petty political and intellectual dishonesty which is the stock in trade of his Communist captors.

Henry A. Wallace has now completed this process. Very few of his followers are Communists. They are rather perfectly sincere and honest people, who have joined the Wallace movement in a desperate search for peace. Certainly few of them understand the remarkable extent to which the shaggy Wallace, with his simple eminently American appearance, has become the captive of a group which clearly serves a foreign interest.

Yet this can be very simply illustrated by the story (which will no doubt be denied; of certain meetings in New York City. Almost every week, and usually on Wednesday evening, a small and select group gathers in a house in downtown New York. The political coloration of this group may be judged by the fact that the host is none other than Mr. Frederick V. Field. Mr. Field is a known Communist, a former contributing editor and principal angel of the now-defunct Communist magazine, the New Masses. The purpose of the meetings is to do "research" for, and to plan the general tenor and content of the frequent speeches of Henry A. Wallace.

THE ACTUAL WRITING of the Wallace speeches is a task usually performed by Wallace's clever and literate chief ghost, Mr. Lew Frank, who is understood to be a non-Communist in the same sense that Wallace himself is a non-Communist. Mr. Wallace thus provides the voice. Mr. Frank provides the words. But the select company to which Mr. Field plays host provides the ideas.

This should surprise no one who has followed Mr. Wallace's speeches and noted their increasingly startling resemblance to the editorials in the New York Daily Worker. What is surprising is the extent to which he is allowing himself to be used to slaughter the whole left and liberal movement of which Franklin Roosevelt was the leader and of which Wallace himself was once a part.

Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas and Representative Chet Holifield of California are two of the dwindling band of Roosevelt New Dealers and left-wing liberals in the House. Both have devoted their political lives to the left and liberal movement. On the 15th of this month both received telegrams from the Wallace movement in California. The telegrams peremptorily ordered them to appear in person before the satraps of the Wallace party in California "not later" than four days from that date. They were told to have answers ready on a series of questions on foreign policy and other matters.

The telegram to Mrs. Douglas pointed out that 30,000 Wallace signatures had been secured in her district. In the last election, Mrs. Douglas' margin of victory had been in the neighborhood of 5000 votes. There was no need to spell out the threat. Emergence of a Wallace candidate would spell certain defeat for Mrs. Douglas, and by splitting the liberal vote, insure the election of a Republican. And the telegrams specifically queried the two Representatives on their attitude toward ERP, which it is the announced objective of the Communists, and thus of the Wallace movement, to wreck. Mrs. Douglas courageously replied reaffirming her support for ERP. So did Mr. Holifield.

MRS. DOUGLAS and Mr. Holifield were clearly marked for the slaughter when the telegram was sent, although there is reported to be some sentiment in national Wallace headquarters that to kill off a pair with so unblemished a liberal voting record would be too crude. The decision may thus be reversed. If it is not, Representatives Douglas and Holifield doubtless will soon undergo the same campaign of political assassination to which Mr. Paul Douglas of Chicago has already been subjected.

Mr. Douglas, an able liberal and New Dealer, and Democratic candidate for Senator in Illinois, has been ticketed for defeat by the Wallace forces because he has supported ERP. The result will almost certainly be the election of the Chicago Tribune's fair-haired boy, Senator Curley Brooks. Mr. Douglas has been publicly described by Wallace propagandists as an advocate of immediate war against Russia, and a friend of the Taft-Hartley Act. Both charges, are, of course, lies.

What is surprising is that Wallace, while proclaiming himself the sole inheritor of the New Deal, can lend himself to this sort of political murder of the old New Dealer. That concerns the last step in the Wallace pattern, which will be considered in a forthcoming report in this space.

New Cuts in U. S. Steel Supply Foreseen by Trade Magazine

Cleveland, March 21 (AP).—The magazine Steel predicted today further inroads into the tight supply of steel by signs of stepped-up military requirements and further aid to Europe.

"Requirements of the armed forces are due to be substantially increased," the trade magazine said. "Expectations are special emphasis will be placed first on Air Force needs with reasonably early reflection likely in demand for alloys, special steels, etc.

"So-called industry educational orders for equipment are likely to be stepped up with resulting increased pressure on steel supply.

"What may develop in the way of controls or distribution and possibly prices is anyone's guess."

Another adverse factor in the steel supply outlook, the magazine went on, is the coal stoppage. It said production will be cut this week should the coal strike continue.

"Some observers," said Steel, "think the miners may not return to the pits until April 5, after a suspension of three weeks. In event this proves the case steel mill operators will be drastically cut since coal stocks are only fair."

National steel ingot production rate rose one-half point last week to 96 per cent.

Women Voters Ask Candidates To State Views

The 11 Democratic candidates for Alexandria City Council have been invited to speak at a public meeting March 31 sponsored by the Alexandria League of Women Voters.

The meeting will be at George Mason School, 2601 Cameron Mills rd., at 8 p. m. Each candidate will be given five minutes to state his platform. A question period will follow.

The League also announced it has sent questionnaires to all candidates asking their views on the city tax structure, nonpartisan municipal elections, school construction and public health service. Answers will be distributed in pamphlet form to voters before the April 6 primary, the League said.

Germany Permitted To Operate Cyclotron

Goettingen, Germany, March 21 (AP).—Germany will have a cyclotron in operation within six months. But its sponsors say the atom-smashing machine will be used only for medical research.

Dr. Richard Kuhn, Nobel prize winner and head of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Medical Research at Heidelberg, disclosed that permission has been granted to operate a cyclotron completed shortly before the end of the war. He said it was the only one to be brought into actual operation in Germany although three others were under construction in Berlin. American authorities ended its operations when troops moved into Heidelberg.

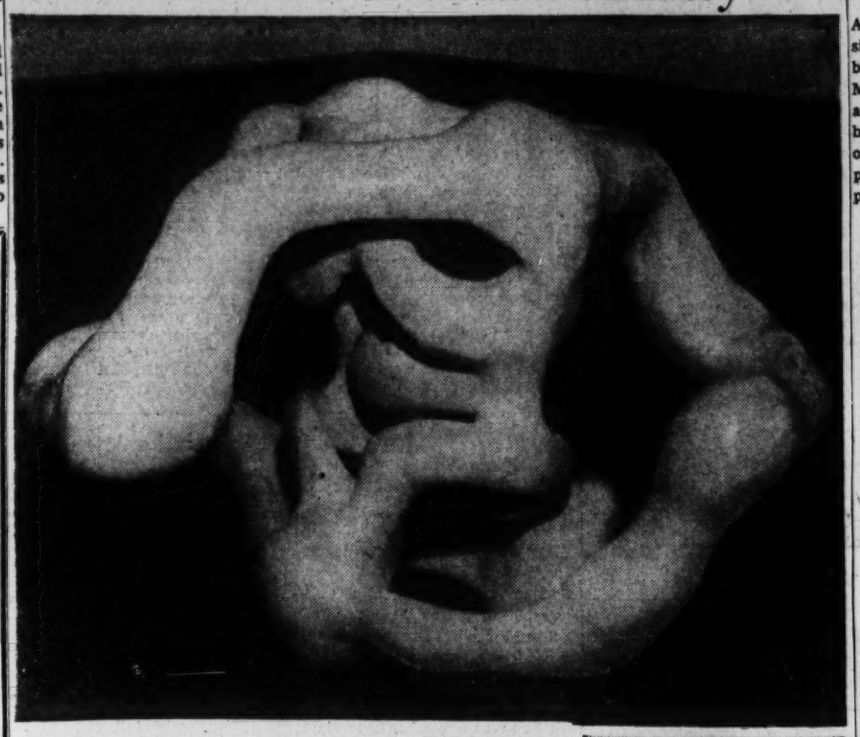
To Be Exhibited at Corcoran Art Gallery



The Washington Post

Area Sculptors to Exhibit Work in Hope of Recognition

Washington area sculptors, long-buried in a kind of artistic oblivion, are finally bidding for a little public attention.

Too long, they say, their work has played second fiddle to another form of art—painting. Too many times their hand-hewn figures have stood dim and unobserved in the shade of water colors and oil paintings at exhibitions here.

But a new day is a-borning.

Work to Be Shown

Because Corcoran Gallery of Art officials are inclined to agree with the sculptors, that institution will present the best work of sculptors from the District, Maryland and Virginia in a special show opening at 9 p. m. Saturday. It will continue until April 25.

At the gallery, chiseled from wood, stone, granite, quartz, molded from plaster and brick, their efforts will be displayed in an attempt to give Washington-area sculpture the "dignity and precedence it deserves."

Probably about 50 pieces of sculpture will make up the show. Recently, Alfred H. Barr, jr., director of collections of the Museum of Modern Art in New York, "juried" a total of 93 entries at the gallery, eliminated many of them.

Barr, an expert, said he judged the entries by "weighing their freshness and originality against their technical competence — the ability of the sculptor to do what he wants to do."

Some Pieces "Quite Good"

He noted some "over-emotional" work, but also some "quite good pieces"—one or two of them different from anything he'd ever seen before.

The sculptures, everything from abstractions to the conventional busts, are by members of the Washington Sculptors Group and the Maryland Sculptors Guild. Miss Jane Love, spokesman for both organizations, is also one of the main forces in the drive to put regional sculpture on the map.

Miss Love, who lives at 5409 Earlston dr., Westgate, Md., has been sculpting for 12 years. Majority of members of the two groups, she said, are also artists of long experience. All are "serious" in their work—"it's far more than a hobby with them," she declared.

Like Hermann W. Williams, jr., director of Corcoran Gallery of Art, she is convinced people of the District haven't had the opportunity to appreciate sculpture. Her ambition is to "get it recognized as an integral part of every day living."

Mayor of Stanley Given Subpena

Luray, Va., March 21 (Spl.). Bernard Painter, Mayor of Stanley, has been summoned to appear in Circuit Court here tomorrow to show cause why he should not be held in contempt for refusing to permit a State auditor to examine the records of Charles K. Hackley, suspended town justice.

Commonwealth Attorney I. R. Dovel, who asked the court to issue the summons, charged that Painter refused to allow the audit before the grand jury on March 10. Painter clams his subpena did not call for turning the books over to the state auditor.

Since Hackley's indictment on charges of bribery and embezzlement by the grand jury in March, the books have been in the custody of Sheriff Abram Brubaker and are now being audited.

Experts Amazed; Best Actor Award Taken by Colman

Hollywood, March 21 (U.P.).—It was a toss-up who was more surprised today, Hollywood or Loretta Young, as she pinned on her mantle a shining "Oscar" for turning in the best actress' job fo 1947.

Miss Young never had a notion of wining an Academy Award. And the experts didn't think she would either.

But brown-haired Loretta hauled off top ladies' honors for the first time at the 20th annual Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences awards last night. All she'd done, she gurgled, was play a sweet Swedish housemaid who ran for Congress in RKO's "The Farmer's Daughter."

"I am completely and utterly amazed and happy," announced Miss Young, which everybody else was, too.

Had Planned on Rosalind

They'd planned on twice-nominated Rosalind Russell winning for RKO's "Morning Becomes Electra." So had Loretta, she admitted.

Miss Young's unscheduled but highly popular appearance livened up an otherwise-dull academy evening. The other winners ran true to form.

Fox's "Gentleman's Agreement" was voted by 1933 academy members as the best picture, Ronald Colman as best actor, Elia Kazan as top director, and Celeste Holm and Edmund Gwenn as best in their supporting roles. Everybody was a first-time winner.

The 6200 fans in street clothes and film big-wigs in mink-and-tux, who braved a stiff wind to jam the Shrine Auditorium, beat their palms loud and long for Colman, but for Miss Young they went crazy.

No Such Upset Since '38

There hasn't been such an upset in Academy affairs since Luise Rainer won for "The Good Earth" in 1938.

If Miss Young was a most surprised and Miss Russell the most disappointed, then Colman probably was the proudest. He's been acting 25 years, and finally puffed off the stage with an Oscar for his role of a Shakespearean actor who thought he was somebody else in Universal's "A Double Life."

"Gentleman's Agreement," one of Hollywood's first movies on antisemitism, figured in three awards. Producer Darryl Zanuck accepted its rest-picture oscar and remarked that made up for the pout he got when his "Wilson" didn't win a few years ago.

"Agreement" director Elia Kazan stutteringly apologized for being a newcomer from Broadway. The movie's prize-winning supporting actress, Miss Holm, is a newcomer from the stage, too, having won a top honor for the first movie she acted in.

Gwenn trotted home with his oscar for playing Santa Claus in "Miracle on 34th Street."

Seven Go Abroad

English Actress Jean Simmons trekked clear from England to collect six oscars won by technicians in two pictures she acted in. "Great Expectations" took black-and-white art direction, set decorations and cinematography honors. "Black Narcissus" snared the same prizes in the color field.

The only other oscar to go overseas was a special award to an Italian film that captured hearts of Amerncan movie-goers, "Shoe Shine."

Ingrid Bergman gave another special award to James Baskette, who played Uncle Remus in Disney's "Song of the South." Showman Ken Murray won special honors for his full-length film with an all-bird cast, "Bill and Coo."

Other winners:

Best original motion picture story—Valentine Davies, "Miracle on 34th Street."

Best original screen play—Sidney Shelton, "The Bachelor and the Bobby-Soxer."

Cartoons — Warner's "Tweetie Pie."

Two-reel short subjects—Monogram's "Climbing the Matterhorn." One-reel short—MGM's "Goodbye Miss Turlock. Documentary—short subjects, "First Steps," United Nations division of films; features, RKO's "Design for Death." Special effects — "Green Dolphin Street."

Best music score of a dramatic or comedy picture—Dr. Miklos Rozsa, "A Double Life." Of a musical picture—Alfred Newman, "Mother Wore Tights."

Best sound recording—Gordon Sawyer, "The Bishop's Wife." Best original song—"Sip-a-Dee-Doo-Dah," music by Allie Wrubel, lyrics by Ray Gilbert.

Best film editing — "Body and Soul."

Diplomacy in Its Shirtsleeves

By Richard L. Coe

"THANKS AMERICA" is a stirring short which soon will be shown on the screens of the Nation.

The thanks come from Italy for the Friendship Trains. It was shown at the Warner Saturday night on a special program which had added impact through the disturbing overtones of the news reels.

There has never been another film like it—for the gifts which inspired it are in themselves unique. In the Friendship Trains you had a sincere heartfelt gesture from one people to another, thousands of miles distant; the American gesture was virtually spontaneous, unofficial and achieved with a rapidity which governments somehow seem unable to galvanize.

"Thanks America" is a record of how the Italian people received their tokens of goodwill: It was paid for by public subscription of the Italians, from the Prime Minister down to the lowliest schoolchild, who requested that any proceeds from showing the film be donated to the American Infantile Paralysis Fund.

What a truly extraordinary thing this is and, at the same time, how completely natural. There was nothing to goad these exchanges in either direction except the human heart. What touched it off was guidance through the inspiration of Columnist Drew Pearson and the generalship of Harry M. Warner.

And here is where the movies come in, for the film records of the gifts and their reception are the most unbreakable bond across the spaces from our western plains to the Po Valley. For once these pictures are seen and understood they will linger in the memory with more clarity than the mumbo-jumbo of officialdom.

Eric Johnston in Audience

Saturday night's program also included the film record on this side of the water, "Friendship Train," pictures primarily made for use in Italy and France and consequently not so moving to those of us who don't have to be told about Pearson's cavalcade.

But "Thanks America" is an eventful, hopeful film to American eyes and the presence of the globe-trotting Eric Johnston in the audience suggested he will make good his promise that the film will be widely distributed.

The picture was produced by Sandro Pallavicini, head of the Italian Newsreel Co., which covered four trains from Sicily to the Yugoslav border. The scenes are often eye-filling, particularly those at Anzio, where once Imperial Rome of the Caesars holidayed and where now thousands of Yanks rest in their final sleep. There is a finely spoken commentary by Orson Wells and a musical background that boasts a charming thread of melody with a Neapolitan lift.

Yes, the Friendship Train and "Thanks America" are diplomacy in its shirtsleeves and a victorious sight it is.

THE BLACK HILLS Passion Play of South Dakota will be paying a visit to the Lyric Theater, Baltimore, March 31 through April 14 . . . This is the production Josef Meier brought to America in 1932; in 1938 German-born Meier became an American citizen and established a permanent home for the play near Spearfish, S. Dak., where the play is given yearly during the summer . . . The Baltimore engagement is being sponsored by the Cadoa Guild of Baltimore and mail orders are being handled at Passion Play Headquarters, 414 N. Charles st. . . . There will be nightly performances and two Sunday matinees . . . Seats are scaled at $1.21, $1.81, $2.41, $3.02 and $3.62.

THE NATIONAL box office today opens the seat sale for Thomas Mitchell in J. B. Priestley's mystery play, "An Inspector Calls." . . . The National's second Priestley play within a few weeks is also fifth in the Theater Guild subscription series of six plays . . . Melville Cooper, Doris Lloyd, Rene Ray, John Buckmaster, John Merivale and Patricia Marmont are in the cast, directed by Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

TODAY: The James Masons meet the bookbuyers at Woody's at 2:30; the floorwalker will tell you that's the first floor, G st. side . . . The Variety Clubbers gather tonight at 7 for a stag gin rummy tournament, with a 600-buck television set as the top prize . . . Virginia's Barter Theater plays "The Hasty Heart" tonight at 8 in the George Washington High School, Alexandria, sponsored by the Alexandria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Washington Post

TWO SHOT DOWN HERE—Man standing at P and 7th sts. is almost in identical spot where two men were shot, one of them fatally. Peter Milo, 1723 Corcoran st., was killed Thursday when struck by a bullet, and yesterday Joe C. Jones, 23, 1238 Walter st. ne., was injured in the abdomen. Both men were victims of small caliber bullets nw., on Friday, was Edward M. Brodie, 3209 Morrison st. nw. Police do not believe this shooting was connected with the 7th and P sts. snipings which are believed to be related.

Lieut. Edgar C. Scott, acting head of the homicide squad, said police are working on several clews found when they searched every room in each building at the four corners of the intersection.

From the way the bullets have struck the two victims, he said, it appears they were fired from above and probably more than 20 yards away.

Police have ruled out the possibility that the shots in the two similar cases might have come from passing automobiles.

Detectives are unable, however, to fix any motive for the mysterious snipings. The victims were not known to each other, and Jones said he did not frequent the neighborhood.

Police have found their investigation hampered by the fact that roomers in the area are largely transients. On the northeast corner, where both sniper victims were shot, is a Negro Salvation Army house of four stories.

At the southeast corner is the three-story Health Department clinic in the old Polk School building. The southwest corner has the Market Pharmacy building, with a second floor, while the northwest corner contains the American Restaurant, of 3½ stories with rooms above the restaurant.

Coal Strike Action Studied

investigate and report. After its report was filed Mr. Truman could direct Attorney General Clark to seek a strike-halting injunction in Federal court.

Lewis has openly denounced the labor law and has made it clear that it is his purpose to fight it in the courts. He and his United Mine Workers lost an injunction fight last year, before the Taft-Hartley law was enacted, paying court contempt fines totaling $710,000.

Industry Hit by Strike

The miners walked out last Monday after Lewis blamed the coal operators for "dishonoring" their contract by not activating the pension fund—that is, determining a method of payments.

Industry, particularly steel, already is crippled by the coal production stoppage. A Government order for a 25 per cent cut in coal-burning passenger train service went into effect yesterday. This applies to about 11 per cent of all passenger trains. Coal exports are banned, except to Canada.

It was reported that other conservation orders are in the making. These include possible curtailment of rail freight service and a heavier cut in rail passenger service.

Court Action Sought

Van Horn applied to Federal Court here Saturday for appointment of an umpire to sit with him and Lewis on the pension fund trustee board. The court is not expected to act for some days.

The National Coal Association said yesterday that last week's production probably was from 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 tons. It recalled that the output the previous week was 13,314,000 tons.

"Practically all mines are closed down," the association said in a review of the week's developments in its industry bulletin.

"Some steel companies are beginning to curtail their activities and some blast furnaces are being shut down. Railroads are laying off employes because of the lack of coal traffic."

The bulletin said "there is some talk of the Secretary of the Interior trying to find some method of allocating what coal may be available, which of course is a very small amount."

Capitol Is Top Attraction

Washington Monument? In the Capitol? At a session of Congress? In the Lincoln Memorial? In the Smithsonian Institution? In the Library of Congress? In the Mellon Art Gallery? In the Jefferson Memorial? To Mount Vernon?

The per cent who have been inside each of these famous buildings is shown below:

Have been inside	All Groups	Educational Achievement: Grade	High	College
The Capitol	82%	63%	83%	95%
The Smithsonian Institution	82	66	82	94
Mount Vernon	80	61	81	91
Lincoln Memorial	79	56	84	89
Washington Monument	78	67	82	90
Library of Congress	76	60	74	91

Whether a person has been to see the things in his own city which draw tourists from all over the world is highly related to the amount of education he has had. Of the nine places listed, the average person with college education has been to eight; the average person with high school education has been to seven; while the average person with grade school education has visited only five of them.

The popular belief that newcomers know Washington better than the old-timers can be safely put on the shelf. Scores of those who have lived here all their lives do not differ much from those who have lived here 10 or more years, and from those more recent comers.

U. S. Pork Supply Down in 1947

By the United Press

The Agriculture Department reported yesterday that Europe, South America and Russia raised their on-the-hoof pork supplies last year, while American supplies were reduced.

The Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations said that world hog numbers at the beginning of the year were up 5,700,000 head, or 2.5 per cent, over January 1, 1947. But United States hog numbers during that period dropped two billion, or about ¼ per cent.

Hog numbers increased 1,400,000 in Europe, two million in South America and three million in the Soviet Union. Increases also were reported in Brazil, China and Poland. Decreases were reported in Argentina, Denmark and Germany.

Red Cross Opens Booths

Seventy Red Cross booths will be opened today in Washington banks, hotel lobbies and department stores to accept contributions for the 1948 drive.

The booths will be staffed by 900 women volunteers, who hope to raise $16,950, and will be open each weekday through March 31 from 10 a. m. to closing time in places of business and from noon through the supper hour in hotels.

The Red Cross reported yesterday that $704,329 or 65.22 per cent of $1,080,000, the Metropolitan area's goal, has been raised to date.

The seventh luncheon report meeting will take place tomorrow at 12:30 p. m. in the United States Chamber of Commerce building. Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, chairman of the Government unit, will preside.

Leading the larger Government departments to date is State, which has collected 125 per cent of its quota.

Leading all of the units to date is the residential unit, which has subscribed 90.53 per cent of its quota.

PRIZE PACKAGE from every angle

WRAP up all your own ideas of the finest motorcar features — for going formal or free-and-easy. It's likely to come to quite a package, the kind the rule books have said you can't get in one automobile.

But here your fullest expectations are met—in the Buick Estate Wagon. It's really several cars in one, and certainly long on everything you have longed for.

Got an eye for the custom touch? Here's one-of-a-kind distinction plus limousine-like luxury and two-tons-plus of taper-thru styling.

Do you cotton to comfort that cuts no corners? This double-duty Buick has a completely coil-sprung ride—outsize body, super-soft three-person seats — and the delightful new softness of the Vibra-Shielded ride.

Like smart style coupled with ready-for-anything utility? Here's smartness at home in any setting—and handiness that fits this traveler for any kind of workaday job.

And when it comes to your ideas of power—well, just give your heart its head.

For you can have the Buick Estate Wagon in a 115 horsepower SUPER model as shown —or in ROADMASTER size with up to 150 horsepower. And whatever the engine's wallop, your power is genuine Buick Fireball power, now quiet as a whisper and smooth as a breeze.

What else could you want beyond this? Nothing perhaps, unless you've already learned of the near-miracle smoothness, the sure-footed, free-flowing feel of Buick's own Dynaflow Drive.*

You can have that in a Buick ROADMASTER Estate Wagon and know the extra joy, the extra "sweetness" of a car in which the power plant does what gears used to do.

So set your sights on the Buick Estate Wagon —in SUPER or ROADMASTER size—and settle it once and for all by getting your order in now, with or without a car to trade.

*Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster models only.

BUICK alone has all these features

★ DYNAFLOW DRIVE — smooth, silken flow of power with no gears ever shifting either manually or mechanically. (Optional, Roadmaster Series)
★ TAPER-THRU STYLING — distinctive, tapering car-length fenders set a fashion of stand-out beauty.
★ VIBRA-SHIELDED RIDE — smooth, fatigue-free ride from scientific curbing of vibration build-up.
★ ROAD-RITE BALANCE — from low center of gravity; equalized front-and-rear ride.
★ HI-POISED FIREBALL POWER — valve-in-head straight-eight engines in four power ratings, now cradled to new smoothness.
★ SAFETY-RIDE RIMS — check heel-over on turns; better car control, peak mileage and lower tire pressures.
★ QUADRUFLEX COIL SPRINGING — level-going buoyancy from a soft coil spring on each wheel.
★ FLEX-FIT OIL RINGS — in super-precise cylinder bores. New oil savings.
★ SOUND-SORBER TOP LINING — insulated felt new "conversation tone" quiet. (Super and Roadmaster Models)
★ DUOMATIC SPARK ADVANCE — vacuumatic plus centrifugal action assures exact ignition for peak engine efficiency.
★ TEN SMART MODELS—in three series, featuring Body by Fisher and smart new interiors.

Nats Slightly Wonderful, Beat Newhouser, 5 to 2

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

ORLANDO, FLA., March 21.—It has been a long haul for Sherry Robertson, a nine-year misery to be exact, but now he's ready to pluck off a nice job in the Washington outfield, his friends think. Few ball players have had it as rough. Being the Boss's nephew is no asset to a ball player. The customers are too suspicious.

POVICH

Things are pretty bright, though, for Robertson at this moment. The outfield jobs on the Nats are wide open and he appears to have latched onto one without much dispute of his merits. He's been hitting the ball harder and better than any other man on the 40-player squad in Florida, and yesterday when he singled and doubled in succession he raised his spring batting average to .545 for seven games. Twelve hits in 22 times at bat.

He always looked as if he should hit, even when he didn't. He never did manage to come up with a fancy batting average, but there was something classic in the smooth swish of his bat from his left-handed stance, and when he did connect there was power in his 180-pound frame. But as a third baseman, the Griffith Stadium fans couldn't take him. He wasn't a good one, and he was Clark Griffith's nephew and those twin factors made it rough on Sherry. The wolves let him have it unmercifully.

ALL OF A SUDDEN last season, Robertson got a break. They shifted him from the infield to the outfield. That got him out from under the gun, so to speak. He wasn't exposed to the fans' jeers out there. He wasn't much of an outfielder, but the shift worked wonders with his hitting. What he gained was an easy relaxation, and as an outfielder he began to hit at a .267 pace, in contrast to his mere .200 as a third baseman.

He's still no polished outfielder, but he's not as crude as he was. He can scramble after a ball and he has good hands, but he's not the instinctive outfielder yet. They think he's improving every day. In fact, there's now talk of moving him to center where his speed afoot can be an asset, despite all you hear about center field being the toughest job in the outfield. Coach Clyde Milan, one of the greatest outfielders of his time, talks about that.

"I played center field for 15 years in the big leagues," says Milan, "and it's the easiest job in the outfield. Left field and right field are the tough positions. That's where you have to deal with those twisting, slicing balls that aren't hit true. In center, every ball travels on a pretty true line and all you need is speed and a little judgment. Robertson would be better off in center."

AS I WAS SAYING, it hasn't been fun for Robertson thus far. All along his baseball career, his kinship to the Griffiths has hounded him. He came out of Maryland U. in 1937, played on the Nats' Orlando, Fla., farm team, moved up to Springfield the next year and then landed at Charlotte, N. C. That was bad. His brother Calvin Griffith, legal-adopted son of the Nats' owner, was president and manager of the Charlotte team.

The Charlotte fans found out about the relationship of the manager and the erratic young second baseman, despite the difference in their names. Griffith attempted at first to conceal the fact of their kinship, but it was no dice. The word got out, and young Robertson got the works from the Charlotte fans. "Little Brother," was their favorite taunt. "Get little brother out of there," they used to shout at Griffith.

It was an irritating situation for both brothers. Griffith finally called Sherry into his office one day and asked him bluntly: "Can you take it?" Sherry said, "Sure," and Griffith said, "Okay, then I can take it too." He stayed in the line-up, hit 27 home runs, led the Piedmont League in runs batted in, and became a favorite guy down there.

CLARK GRIFFITH brought him up to the Nats in 1943. No rookie ever got off to a worse start. He didn't hit and he couldn't field, and the fans were on him, and then one day he made a fatal wild throw. One of his erratic heaves cleared the first baseman's head, sailed into the right field boxes, and killed a fan.

Young Robertson was saddened, but nonetheless grim about sticking in there. Griffith, who had traded off two sons-in-law, Joe Cronin and Joe Haynes, because he was being subjected to criticism, refused to trade his nephew, however. He stoutly maintained that Robertson some day would be a good ball player, and he wanted him to play on his team.

Not that he couldn't have made a deal for Robertson. At a time when Washington fans were booing Sherry, the Detroit Tigers, the Browns and the Athletics were trying to buy him from the Washington club. Griffith turned down some hefty offers to take the chance that Robertson would not flop. Maybe Griff has won.

Area's Junior Golf Program Has Whole Nation Interested

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

Washington's Junior golfing program is headed for its biggest season.

Junior Golf which has grown by leaps and bounds under the leadership of Frank Emmet, is now regarded as a model by golf-conscious communities throughout the country.

Emmet has received queries from Detroit, Salt Lake City, Spokane and other cities on what makes the junior golfing program in Washington the smoothly functioning thing that it is.

This season, in addition to the Interhigh League and the Metropolitan High School Golf League, both founded by Emmet, junior golfers will have plenty of other tournaments and clinics to keep them busy.

As soon as school ends, Emmet has arranged junior field days every Tuesday throughout the summer with leading area professionals giving pointers on the inside of golf to every boy who attends.

These field days, which have been held at leading area golf clubs for the past two years, are attended by as many as 150 boys. After the hour instruction period, tournaments are arranged to give the lads an opportunity to try out what they have learned.

Junior tournaments this summer include the 15th annual Schoolboy Individual Championship starting at Manor May 14; the District Junior tournament at Congressional; the Junior Field Day at Columbia June 29; the District Junior Open at Georgetown Prep September 1-3, and the qualifying round for the Junior Board of Commerce Tournament at Georgetown Prep July 6.

The seven lowest scorers in this event will go to Lincoln, Nebr., to play in the National Junior Championship at the Country Club of Lincoln, August 3-7.

Mangrum's 278 Wins, Worsham 2d

Greensboro, N. C., March 21 (AP).—Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago won the $10,000 Greensboro open golf tournament today with a 278 for 72 holes, two under par.

He finished with 69-73 today to beat runnerup Lew Worsham, Washington D. C., by one stroke. Worsham closed with 68-70 for 279.

Mangrum pocketed $2000 first money to bring to $10,838.33 his earnings for the year, top among professionals.

He stayed over par 70 on the 6720 yard Sedgefield County Club course on his last round for the first time in the tournament after compiling rounds of 70-66—69.

Mangrum three putted Nos. four and 16 and came to the 17th; needing a birdie on one of the last two holes to beat out Worsham. The birdie was not long in coming. On 17 he rammed home a 35-foot putt and finished with a par on the last hole, playing it safe with two putts from six feet.

Worsham, who last year won the National Open title Mangrum had taken the year before, played his best golf of the year in taking down $1400 runnerup mony. He had rounds of 70-71-68-70.

Lew's best previous performance this year was a tie for thirteenth place at San Antonio. His 31, 37—68 today was the best 18-hole score of the day, and his 31 on the way out was the lowest for any nine holes throughout the ournament.

Third place went o Herman Keiser, Akron, Ohio, at 281, on the strength of a 70-71 finish. He was a stroke ahead of Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., a 69-71 finisher.

Fifth place was shared at 284 by PGA Champion Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, and Bob Hamilton, Evansville, Ind.

Baltimore's Otto Greiner finished in the money, winning $132, with his 74, 71—290. Ralph Bogart of Takoma Park, Md., finished up with a 77, 73—301.

Nat Rookies Rout Lookouts

Winter Garden, Fla., March 21. Larry Drake and Ken McCreight contributed homers today as the Nat B squad buried the Chattanooga Lookouts under 13-hit attack, 16-2. Jimmy Clark made his big league farewell auspicious by walloping four hits, rejoins Chattanooga tomorrow.

Hal Toenes started for the Nats and gave way to Scott Cary in the fourth. Cary carried on until the eighth when Joe Jones took over. Cary was credited with the victory.

Hitz Wins YMCA Handball Crown

Philadelphia, March 21 (AP).—Stanley Hitz of Harrisburg, Pa., has been ruled winner of the National YMCA handball championship because his opponent walked off the court.

Referee Gus Baack ruled that Jack Srenco, St. Louis, walked off the court last night without official permission. At that time, Srenco was leading Hitz, defending champion in the second game 19-14 after winning the opener 21-14.

Dave Pahl and Frank Glucker, New York, won the doubles championship over Don Farley and Bill Frith, Philadelphia, by a score of 21-11, 21-14.

Situation Is Still Muddled—But Caps Play on Tuesday

Maurice Podoloff, president of the Basketball Association of America, last night came up with what he hopes will be a solution to the super-involved and rapidly changing playoff picture.

At best the arrangement was tentative, pending a four-way telephone conference with Podoloff, Washington, Baltimore and the winner of the St. Louis-Chicago game.

Washington is scheduled to meet the winner of the St. Louis game Tuesday night in the West.

Baltimore will hit the road to play the winner of the Tuesday game, Thursday, if it's Washington. The victor in a Washington-Baltimore game would win second place. If the winner is Washington, Baltimore and St. Louis will play for third place.

However, if in the West St. Louis or Chicago wins both Tuesday against Washington and Thursday against Baltimore, Baltimore and Washington would play for third place.

If the western team loses Tuesday and Baltimore beats Washington, Baltimore will finish second, Washington third and the western team will be eliminated.

The Caps' general manager, Paul Rothgeb pointed out that Baltimore may benefit thus:

Washington, or the western team must win two games to finish second, while Baltimore need win only once for the same finish.

Stags Lead

Chicago, March 21.—The Chicago Stags led the St. Louis Bombers, 45-38, at halftime tonight in their vital Basketball Association of America game.

Rothgeb and Cap Coach Red Auerbach yesterday were prepared to protest previously considered arrangements, along with St. Louis and Chicago but the Cap officials decided to hold their "beef" in abeyance, pending the outcome of the telephone forum.

Rothgeb, before talking to Podoloff early last night, and Auerbach had voiced bitter criticism of the plan Podoloff had advanced Saturday under which Baltimore automatically would advanced into a $50,000 round-robin series berth by drawing a bye.

Meanwhile, Washington would have had to play the Chicago-St. Louis for third place. Both Cap officials admitted, however, that they would have remained silent if Washington had gotten the advantage in the draw for the bye.

Brissie Stars As Macks Win

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 21 (AP).—Rookie Lou Brissie led the Philadelphia Athletics to a 5-3 victory today in the opening game of their 1948 city series against the Phillies.

He pitched four hitless innings after relieving veteran Phil Marchildon on the mound in the sixth inning with the A's trailing 3-0, and he led off the American League half of the sixth with a single that started a four-run rally.

Chisox Finally Win

San Francisco, March 21 (U.P.).—Southpaw Veteran Bill Wight and Righthander Howie Judson combined their mound talents for a seven-hit shutout today as the Chicago White Sox finally managed to defeat the San Francisco Seals 7 to 0.

Smarting under a two-game drubbing administered by the Coast leaguers Friday and yesterday, the Sox broke out in a rash of 14 base hits to manhandle four San Francisco pitchers.

Mrs. McKinney Stands Guard At Used Car Lot to Help Caps

BONES McKINNEY and a used car lot up on Eye st. are getting to know each other pretty well these days.

He made his first trip up there some two weeks ago just on a "looking around" basis.

That night the Caps started their win streak which has now hit five straight.

Being superstitious he attached great significance to the "trip" and now he's afraid not to go back.

He spent two hours there Saturday before the Caps tangled with the New York Knicks and said "guess it works."

In any case, the Caps won that game, 103-82.

With road trips coming up in the Basketball Association of America, Bones has another problem—but he solved it very nicely.

"If we hit the road, guess I'll have to chase my wife up there," he said.

Mize Grand Slams, Giants Rout Feller

Los Angles, March 21 (U.P.)—With Jarry Johnny Mize leading the way with a grand-slam home run off Bob Feller, the New York Giants crushed the Cleveland Indians here today, 14 to 5.

Mize also hit a second home run off Rookie Gene Bearden. He drove in six runs in all.

Feller pitched only two innings, gave up five hits and walked three. He said his right shoulder was tight and that he couldn't get anything on the ball.

A third New York home run was contributed by Rookie Bob Rhawn, also off Bearden. Bill Kennedy and Bob Kuzava followed Bearden, the four Cleveland pitchers giving up 14 hits, 13 walks and a hit batsman.

Larry Jansen, the New York pitching ace, worked four fine innings. Blanking the Indians on three hits. Sheldon Jones finished.

The exhibition drew 15,186 fans.

Dodgers Win, 8-7

Ciudad Trujillo, D. R., March 21 (AP).—Harry Taylor, Brooklyn's sophomore righthander, pitched for the first time of the spring training season today and reported no evidences of the lame arm that plagued him last year.

After pitching two innings against the Dominican All-Stars, beaten by the Dodgers, 8 to 7, Taylor said his arm felt okay and added: "my curve was breaking off fine." He allowed two hits and one run.

It was his first appearance since the fourth game of the last world series. Taylor won ten and lost five last year before he was sidelined by an ailing arm.

Taylor was followed on the mound by Rookie Jack Banta and Phil Haugstad, the latter giving up six runs in the eighth.

Peewee Reese was on the sidelines with a sore shoulder.

Cardozo Takes Track Title

Cardozo High School's track team was back in Washington yesterday after winning the Class B high school championship at the Middle Atlantic AAU Indoor Track meet at Camden, N. J., over the weekend.

Three records were broken and another was tied by the Cardozo speedsters, who collected 26 points.

George Sibert, Joe Walker, Marcellus Boston and William Sturdevant knocked 1.8 second off the Class B 1¼ mile medley relay mark by covering the distance in 5:12.

Then Boston, Lorenzo Moon, DeRees Greene and Walker clipped three seconds off the Class B mile relay and Sibert, Boston, Walker and Sturdevant won the Open Class medley relay in 5:09. The old record was 5:13.7.

Boston tied the meet record in the 50 yard dash which he covered in 5.5. He also won the Open Class 50 and Ed Woodland was another Cardozo winner in the high jump; clearing the bar at 5 feet 11 inches.

ONE GOES, ONE STAYS—Take a good look at the big guy on the right, you'll probably be seeing him at Griffith Stadium this summer. He's Larry Drake, whom the Nats have tabbed as utility outfielder. He's shown here in a bit of by-play with Dean Stafford, another alumnus of the Big State (Texas) League. Yesterday the Nats released Stafford to their Chattanooga farm on a 24-hour recall basis. Drake hit .345 last year, including 25 homers

Reynolds and Johnson Tame Cards as Yanks Win, 5 to 2

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 21 (AP).—The New York Yankees got some slick hurling from Allie Reynolds and Don Johnson today to defeat St. Louis' Cardinals, 5-2. It was the Yanks' third win in four meetings with the Cards.

Reynolds and Johnson limited the National Leaguers to six hits while the Yanks clubbed three Card flingers for 14. Catcher Sherm Lollar collected three of the New York safeties and drove in two runs. George McQuinn, Bobby Brown and Joe DiMaggio each banged out a pair of hits for the Yanks.

Hudson and Candini Stop Tigers, Kozar Belts 4 Hits

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla., March 21.—The Nats did better today—in fact, they were slightly wonderful, belting Hal Newhouser for three runs and beating the Tigers 5-2, to snuff out their three-game losing streak in the Grapefruit League.

Rookie Al Kozar was the prime mover in the Nats' triumph before 3200 fans who bought out Tinker Field. He whacked out four straight hits. Gil Coan stole home. Sid Hudson and Milo Candini shut the Tigers out with two hits for six innings. The Nats smacked Newhouser and Al Kretlow for 11 hits. Clark Griffith beamed from the royal box.

Chic Pieretti let the Nats down in the bid for a shutout victory. He gave up the Tigers two runs and three of their five hits, in the eighth inning when he lost control, gave two walks and wild-pitched. Forest Thompson held 'em scoreless in the ninth.

Hudson, Candini Masterful

Hudson and Candini were complete masters of the Tigers, and the Nats were getting good pitching for the first time in the Grapefruit League.

Hudson gave up a scratch single in the first inning and no others before retiring at the end of three, having faced only nine men. Candini was reached for a double by Eddie Mayo, the first man to face him, and then pitched hitless ball for three innings.

The first of Kozar's hits was wasted in the first inning, but the second was productive. It was a single to center that scored Al Evans, who walked and had been sacrificed to second by Hudson. The Nats belted Newhouser freely in the fourth and fifth, but didn't score again until the sixth.

Kozar Scores

They came up with two runs in that inning on only one hit against the Tigers' ace southpaw. Robertson was safe on Vero's fumble, and Yost moved him to third with a double to center. He scored on Evans' grounder to Berry, whose throw to the plate was late. Yost took third and scored on Pinch Hitter Wynn's infield out.

Against Kretlow in the seventh, the Nats upped their lead to 5-0 after Kozar led off with his fourth straight single, a blow to right. The fleet Coan beat out an infield hit, and when Shortstop Berry threw wild the runners ended up on secand and third.

Coan Dashes Home

Vernon's fly to center scored Kozar and moved Coan to third. When Kretlow daillied too long with his win-up, Coan streaked home and swiped a run neatly.

Two scratch hits by Kretlow and Berry in the eighth put Pieretti in trouble. Little Chico, irked by that business, then contributed a wild pitch. One run scored on Vero's infield out, and a second on Growth's single to right.

Pieretti walked the next two to fill the bases with two out, but got rid of the side on Outlaw's fly to McBride.

THE NATS announced the release of Dean Stafford, Shortstop Jim Clark and Pitcher Joe Allen to their Chattanooga farm club before the game . . . There was a string attached to Stafford and the Nats can recall him on 24-hour notice. The big outfielder lost out in his battle with Texas colleague, Larry Drake, for a utility job with the Nats. He was too slow and lacked

NBA Will Publish Records, Weed Out Washed-Up Fighters

Philadelphia, March 21 (U.P.)—The National Boxing Association moved today to bar all washed-up fighters from boxing.

President Abe J. Greene and representatives from nine States and the Distrct of Columbia at the NBA's mid-year executive committee session, urged prompt and stringent action against managers who "wilfully sign boxers they know to be improperly conditioned or physically inadequate."

At the same time, the group asked commissions to hold any promoter or matchmaker responsible for "presentation to the sports public of proper merchandise."

The recommendations were adopted by the NBA's executive committee at the close of a two-day session here. Most of the sessons were devoted to consideration of measures to reduce boxing's death and injury toll, announced yesterday in a 23-point program.

[Greene told The Washington Post by telephone that the revised rules adopted at Saturday's session can be activated immediately by the member commissions, if approved.

And approval is pretty much taken for granted by Greene because most of the suggestions which were incorporated into the changes originated from the various NBA members.

Greene also corrected a report that the compulsory "eight-count knockdown originated with the Pennsyvlvania commission. He said Harvey L. Miller, Washington D. C. commission chairman had introduced the motion. Miller attended the conference.

Asked if Saturday's 23-point program would affect boxing shows already arranged, or fighters involved, Greene pointed out that such matters were left to the discretion of the local commissions

12 Best 'Playoff Shot' Golfers Named by Writers

Virginia Beach, Va., March 20 (AP).—Twelve of professional golf's best shotmakers have been nominated by the Golf Writers' Association of America as the best in the game for the "payoff shots" of recovery from trouble shots to putting.

They are the top six nominees in each division picked by the writers to exchange their particular talent in the Cavalier Specialists' tournament, to be held at the Cavalier Yach and Country Club here April 16, 17 and 18 under the sponsorship of the Norfolk Sports Club.

In their preliminary balloting, the writers named Gene Sarazan, Johnny Revolta, Dick Metz, Lew Worsham, Herman Barrow and Jug McSpadden as the best "trouble shot" makers.

At the same time, hey nominated Bobby Locke, Horton Smith, George Schoux, Jim Ferrier, Herman Keiser and Johnny Palmer as the men with whom they'd trust with the putting chores.

In the final poll, the writers will select two players for each of these specialties. In addition, they will name two professionals each for three other specialty shots—driving, long iron strokes and short iron shots.

The 10 players will compete on two five-man teams in the featured two-ball match of the $10,000 ourney. One team will be captained by Walter Hagen, the other by Sarazen.

Kentucky Choice Over AAU Titlist

By Murray Rose

New York, March 21 (AP).—The road to London beckoned today to eight select basketball teams, final survivors of a series of gruelling tournaments leading to the Olympic Trials.

The trials will be staged in Madison Square Garden, Saturday, March 27; Monday, March 29, and Wednesday, March 31.

After the Wednesday finals an Olympic squad of 14 players will be chosen to represent the United States in the London Summer Games in late July and August.

The winning quintet's coach will pilot the forces of the Red, White and Blue and the runner-up team's mentor will be his assistant.

AAU AND INDEPENDENTS

Bartlesville's Oilers, winner of the AAU Championship.

Denver's Nuggets, loser to the Oilers in the final.

Oakland's Bittners, third-place team in the AAU tourney.

COLLEGE BRACKET

Kentucky, Eastern NCAA champions.

Baylor, Western NCAA champions.

Louisville, NAIB champions.

New York U., second to St. Louis in the NIT.

The three AAU clubs and the Brooklyn "Y" team are in one bracket and the four college fives in the other. Thus a college team will face an independent in the finals.

All eight teams will see action in Saturday's day and night session. Two quarter-final contests will be held in the afternoon and two more will be played at night.

The pairings have not yet been announced.

Bartlesville, paced by lanky Bob Kurland and Gerald Tucker, won its sixth straight AAU title by trouncing Denver's Nuggets, 62-48, in the Denver final.

Both teams qualified for the trials along with third-place Oakland, which whipped the Denver Graybeards, 69-43, for the position.

Normally, the AAU winner would be automatically installed the favorite to win the trials. But this year, the mighty Wildcats of Kentucky are expected to be a solid choice.

Michigan Wins Title By Crushing Dartmouth

Colorado Springs, Colo., March 21 (AP).—Michigan's Wolverine's flashed a devastating attack in the final period to crush Dartmouth, 8-4, Saturday night to win the National Collegiate hockey championship.

Michigan fought from behind to tie the score at 4 to 4 at the end of the second period and completely overpowered the Indians of th Ivy League in the closing stanzt.

Star Scores 19; But Loses 37 Dollars

Berryville, Va., March 21.—While Bill Lee of the Berryville Legion basketball team was scoring 19 points to lead his team to a 43-41 win over Rappahannock, someone was lifting $37 from the pocketbook he left in his clothes in the dressing room.

Nearly Half of 8200 Seats for Graziano, Horne Fight Designated 'Ringside' (at $10)

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

ULINE ARENA has been scaled to seat 8200 for the April 5 Rocky Grafiano-Sonny Horne fight and almost half of the seats have been designated as "ringside," in price ($10), anyway. . . . Jack Tingle, of the Caps, has been offered a contract by the New York football Giants. Tingle played end and fullback for Kentucky. . . . Turner's Arena plans to run a show in opposition to the Graziano attraction at Uline's, but Matchmaker Gabe Menendez won't rematch Jimmy Cooper and Jose Cardenas for that date. . . . When Jack Dempsey was here the other day he remarked that he was still working for a nationally known men's hat concern, but that his job amounts to little more than "rearing 'em." . . . Jimmy Douglas, strapping young tackle, got up at 1:30 a. m. Saturday in Reidsville, Va., fished for three hours (caught 60 shad), drove 200 miles to College Park, Md., and then worked out for two hours with the Terp football team.

You have the Sadowskis, Zaslofskys, Ezerskis and Torgoffs, but there's not a Jones, Smith or Brown among the Basketball Association of America's 88 players and coaches . . . Although they were thumped out of the National AAU tourney rather unceremoniously, the Georgetown U. skaters are proud of one accomplishment . . . they held Wingman Red McClane, of Buffalo, to only four goals, which was practically shutting him out inasmuch as he scored seven the night before . . . Jimmy Kitts, who stepped out as head coach at VPI last month, can have a job with Ed McKeever as backfield coach of the Chicago Rockets. . . . Maryland Baseball Coach Burt Shipley plans t ointroduce the two-team system on the diamond this year. . . . One Terp unit will go five innings with the other the last four. . . . Washington Cap Coach Red Auerbach thinks Jack George of St. John's Cadets is the best basketball player in the area, college performers included.

IF THE THOUSANDS of Baltimoreans who wanted to purchase stock in the Colts at $1 a share show the same enthusiasm at the box office, the gridiron Mustangs won't have any financial worries this season . . . Mike Uline, who restricts prepaid telegrams to 10 words for his ice and arena business, sent his Caps an 18-word (prepaid) "wish-you-luck" wire in Baltimore last week . . . Maury Fitzgerald, who rates himself the best golfer among Washington sports writers, was given a six-handicap by the Maryland Golf Association . . . Merrell Whittlesey, whom Fitzgerald considers thee scond best, has a five-spot . . . Guard Ray Corley has been elected captain of Georgetown's 1948-49 basketball team . . . When 26-year-old Jackie Cranford heard that 32-year-old Lee Savold belted out Gino Buonvino, who trimmed Cranford six weeks ago, the Washington heavyweight remarked: "No wonder I didn't win—I'm too young . . ."

Jackson Faces Vigeant Here In 10-Rounder

Stonewall Jackson and Frankie Vigeant meet in the 10-round feature boxing match tonight at Turner's Arena.

Vigeant, an experienced welterweight from Hartford, Conn., has two wins and a draw to his credit thus far this season, while Jackson has one loss and three straight victories for 1948.

The Washington boy's most recent triumph was a five-round knockout of Baltimore's Willard Coffey a week ago, but against the more experienced Gigeant, who lost a split decision to Beau Jack last year, Jackson may find rougher going.

In his 28 bout boxing career, Stonewall has lost but three fights. One of his conquerors, Washington's Charlie Bennett, was a Jackson victim in a return bout early this year.

Tonight's preliminaries will be featured by a bout between Baltimore's Johnny Finazzo and Sam Jefferson of Washington in one five-rounder, and Newark middleweight Danny Rosati against Torpedo Reed in another five.

Two four-rounders will be added to the card, with the first bout starting at 8:45 p. m.

Nats Whip Tigers, 5-2

Drake's arm . . . Kuhel walked to the mound in the eighth inning to calm Pieretti who was working himself into a froth with his squawks at Umpire Jim Hurley . . . In the seventh, Catcher Al Evans, turning for a pop foul, knocked Hurley flat but the umpire refused to take a count . . . Sherry Robertson made only one hit in three trips to the plate and his average for the Nats' nine training games slumped to an even .500 . . . General Manager Billy Evans of the Tigers watched the game from the press box. He was moaning about his failure to buy Kozar from the Red Sox last fall.

St. Louis Steps Out Of Tourney

St. Louis, March 21 (AP).—The athletic council of St. Louis University today turned down a bid to enter the school's basketball team in the United States Olympic tryouts.

The Billikens qualified for entry in the tryouts—to be held at New York, March 27-31—when they won the National Invitational Tournament at New York last week.

The decision to pass up the post-season tournament was made by the six-man committee at a meeting which had been delayed until the team and Coach Ed Hickey returned from New York this morning.

Missed Too Many Classes

A spokesman for the council said the majority of members believed the team had missed too much class work during the past season and the 12 days the players were at the N.I.T.

New York University, which lost to the Billikens in the final of the NIT, will replace the St. Louis team in the tryouts.

Bill Durney, assistant to the president of the university said the school's council had informed the Olympic basketball committee of its decision.

Coach Goes Along

In a statement issued after the meeting the council members said they regretted that it was impossible for the team to participate in the tryouts but "scholasic requirements of the university are such that it is deemed unfair to the merbers of the team to ask selves from their classes."

Coach Hickey said both "the boys and 'myself' were anxious" to have represented the university next week but "we feel the welfare of the studnts and the university as a whole come first. I gladly accept the decision."

'Greenberg Gardens' Fence to Be Raised

Hollywood, Calif., March 21 (AP). Home runs won't be so easy to hit at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh this season.

General Manager Roy Hamey of the National League's Pittsburgh Pirates, said today the fence in "Greenberg Gardens" will be raised from 8 feet to between 15 and 16 feet.

and that those already approved would go on as scheduled.]

The NBA said that promoters, managers and matchmakers who conspire to break commission rules should be barred for periods ranging up to life.

In each application for a bout, the conferees recommended, promoters should furnish a sworn statement listing the results of the last six bouts of each main bout contestant.

Said Greene: "The commission can no more be expected to shoulder the entire responsibility for the boxers or club welfare than, for instance, a motor vehicle commission is held responsible for automobile accidents."

"It's up to managers and promoters," he added, "to take the responsibility for keeping boxing safe."

The committee appointed a group to study the records of boxers all over the country and to make public within a month a list of boxers who have demonstrated they can no longer "aspire to ring success."

These boxers will be permanently retired on a national scale.

Greene called attention to the increasing importance of televising boxing matches. He said, "it won't be long now before we'll need a 'new look' in boxing."

"Television," he said, "may revolutionize the entire concept of boxing.'"

Magnotta's 35 Points Give St. Dominic's CYO Junior Title

Paced by Enrico Magnotta's 35 points, St. Dominic's captured the CYO Junior Division basketball championship yesterday by defeating St. Gabriel's, 61-44, at Catholic University.

Blessed Sacrament won the Intermediate Division crown by beating St. Bernadette's, 35-28. Pete Haley paced the winners with 17 points. In the unlimited division title game, Our Lady of Lourdes edged Holy Comforter in the closest game of the day, 43-12.

Chris Pavich, with 16 points and John Finn with 13 tallies enabled Our Lady of Lourdes to win the championship for the second straight year. The three final round games climaxed a season of play which began December 14, 1947.

What is Sour Mash Bourbon?

"Sour Mash" is a type of whiskey distilled in the traditional, native Kentucky manner, which brought this state its fame for fine bourbon. It requires more time and is the most expensive bourbon whiskey made.

"Sour mash" bourbon is not sour, but is smooth, fragrant, and full-flavored when made on a good formula by a distiller with the knowledge of this old-fashioned method.

D. C. Junior Golf Is Model

of Washington yougsters to this tournament in Peoria, Ill., and paid all of its expenses himself. In an effort to make these personal sacrifices on Emmet's part unnecessary in the future, the District Golf Association has started a program to finance junior golf in this area.

A trim, white-haired gentleman with a kindly countenance, Emmet has been working on junior golf since 1927. When he began his program, no high school in the area had golf on its athletic program.

Since then Emmet has started both well-knit leagues for high schools and has seen junior golf grow to a sport attracting the interest of hundreds of school-age youngsters.

His program has developed such well-known area golfers as Bobby Brownell, Ralph Bogart, Billy Shea, Maury Nee and a host of others.

Emmet regards the current crop of area juniors as extremely promising. In addition to Bubby Worsham, who hasn't been defeated locally in several years and who is currently the captain of the Wake Forest University golf team although only a freshman, Emmet thinks that numerous District youngsters will go places on the links.

Among the most promising lads are 13-year-old Billy Wolfe, who shot a 77 last year in the Junior Open; Stan Mouser, Bethesda Chevy Chase High star; Eugene Wolfe of Blair; Southpaw Bob Halcomb of Anacostia; Bob Miller of McKinley Tech and George Bolton at Bethesda.

These lads and many more may some day reach the heights attained by one of Emmet's prize examples of what early teaching can accomplish.

In 1932, Billy Dettweiler of Washington, who was then 13 years old, became the youngest golfer ever to qualify for the National Amateur tournament. That record still stands and Frank probably has hopes that one of his present crop of youngsters may beat it.

One-Year Bar To Pilots After Crash Is Urged

By The Associated Press

Every airline pilot surviving a major accident should be grounded for a year, an air safety report from Capitol Hill said yesterday.

The report, released by the aviation subcommittee of the Senate Commerce Committee, was prepared by Carl Dolan, consultant. It cited findings of Dr. Daniel Horn of the Air Force medical branch that "pilots who had just had an accident were nearly 10 times more likely to have another accident in the 30 days that are to follow than were accident-free pilots."

The report then added: "All pilots who have had major accidents should have their certificates canceled automatically and should be reinstated after approximately one year, and then only after a thorough rescreening."

Other recommendations included:

1. Improvement in fire fighting equipment.
2. Adoption of higher standards for aircraft and engine mechanics "and even higher standards" for inspectors.
3. Standardization of cockpits.
4. Installation of emergency exits on both the top and bottom of the aircraft fuselage.
5. Installation of reversible propellers on all passenger planes.

House Plans To Settle Issue On Records

By the United Press

The House Executive Expenditures Committee said last night that Congress is being "occasionally thwarted" because Government agencies withhold information.

The committee, in a majority report released by Chairman Clare E. Hoffman (R., Mich.), asked Congress to settle the issue. It requested approval of a resolution to establish the authority of congressional committees to get all files, records and other information they demand from executive departments.

The issue came to a head last week when President Truman ordered executive department heads to reject congressional requests for confidential information on loyalty investigations.

The order backed up the Commerce Department's refusal to furnish the House Un-American Activities Committee some of the department's loyalty records on Dr. Edward U. Condon, atomic scientist accused of associating with Communists.

The committee also cited the recent refusal of Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman to appear before a subcommittee investigating a strike of cafeteria workers in Government buildings. Steelman said Mr. Truman ordered him to stay away.

The issue is an old one, the committee said. Mr. Truman, it added, is following a practice laid down by other Presidents of both parties. But the thing has gone far enough, the committee said, and it's time for over-all legislation to stop it.

U. S. Department Store Profits Dropped in 1947

New York, March 21 (U.P.).—The Nation's department stores made 21 per cent less in net profits last year than they did in 1945, the Controllers Congress of the National Retail Dry Goods Association announced today.

The summary shows that stores in 1947 did a $2,265,349,000 business, compared with $2,192,074,000 the year before.

John J. Kavanaugh, general manager of the congress, said that a survey of 182 department stores doing over one million dollars of business a year revealed that stores made a net profit after taxes of 4.1 per cent of their sales in 1947, compared with 5.2 per cent in 1946.

People are making fewer purchases, the summary shows, but are buying bigger things when they do buy. The sales volume last year was 4 per cent greater than in 1946, despite the fact that the number of transactions fell to 95 per cent of that year.

5 Billion Held Minimum Need for University Expansion

By the United Press

American colleges and universities need five billion dollars worth of new buildings to handle postwar students, a Government survey indicated yesterday.

The United States Office of Education said frankly it has no idea where the money is coming from. At present, it said, the schools have only about one billion dollars "in hand or in sight" for expanson.

The survey, first of its kind ever made, was jointly sponsored by the Education Office and the Federal Works Agency. It showed that higher institutions from coast to coast now have 341,550,000 square feet of building space to accommodate 2,340,000 students.

Current enrollment, swollen by veterans taking advantage of the GI bill, is nearly one million more than the prewar college plant was built to handle. That enrollment is expected to keep climbing to an estimated 2,675,000 students in 1950.

The Federal Government already has tried to relieve the situation by transferring to schools more than 250 million dollars worth of surplus Army barracks and other buildings left over from the war. But the educators said the future help of that type that will be available will be only a drop in the bucket and that acceleration of funds for permanent buildings was necessary.

U. S. Plant Expansion Repairs 50 Billion

American corporations spent 50 billion dollars in 1946 and 1947 to repair or expand factories and to replenish their stocks, the Commerce Department reported yesterday.

Striking Packers Delay Convention

Chicago, March 21 (AP).—The CIO Packinghouse Workers Union today announced postponement of its annual convention, which had been planned for April 5 at Boston.

President Ralph Helstein said the union would hold its convention as soon as possible after "termination of the dispute with the packing companies."

The union is engaged in a strike against the Nation's four major packers—Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Wilson & Co., and Cudahy Packing Co.—in support of a demand for a 29-cent hourly wage increase.

TAX NEWS: The Treasury has recommended to Congress that it amend the Revenue Act to provide:

1. That it be authorized to withhold the salary of any Federal worker who fails to pay his income taxes.

2. The removal of present exemptions on Federal salaries, both civilian and military, in American possessions such as Guam, the Canal Zone, and Puerto Rico.

The Treasury also has expressed opposition to the two House bills that would exempt Federal employes from multiple State taxation.

Treasury officials say several thousand Federal workers are delinquent in their income taxes. The department has no authority to attach their checks as it has over private employes. An expose of the delinquencies, officials fear, would harm the great body of honest Government people.

It's the Treasury's view that it's senseless to free from income taxes American civilians and military people in our possessions. Many thousands escaped taxes during the war by being based in the possessions. The Philippines were a possession at that time.

The House Judiciary Committee is considering the bills that would prevent multiple State income taxation of Federal workers. Many employes here and nearby are forced to pay taxes to two or more States.

CAB: Joseph J. O'Connell is likely to step into a hot spot when he takes over the chairmanship of the Civil Aeronautics Board. It isn't generally known, but the new Senate investigating committee whose chairman is Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) is looking at CAB with a suspicious eye. The committee has heard reports that there has been "undue interference" in CAB affairs; that there has been favoritism in the chartering of air routes, and other bits of gossip. This much is sure—CAB will get an able chairman in O'Connell.

VETERANS: The President has sent to the Senate the nominations of more than 800 persons to be postmasters since January. None have been confirmed. But now several veterans' organizations are working to break the log jam in the Senate Civil Service Committee. The reason—80 per cent of the nominees are veterans.

RETIREMENT: Very few of the 120,000 retired Federal workers are taking advantage of the option on widows' benefits under the Langer-Chavez-Stevenson Retirement Act. At least 90 per cent, instead, will accept the 25 per cent, or $300, pension increase, whichever is smaller.

Chairman Langer of the Senate Civil Service Committee has in a new bill to permit former employes who left Government before January 23, 1942, to withdraw all of their money from the retirement fund, plus interest. He also is intent in merging most of the Government's civilian pension systems into Civil Service. He has a bill to put the Alaskan Railroad employes under Civil Service and he's drafting others to bring all Panama Canal and District employes in the central system.

And thanks to Representative John W. Heselton (R., Mass), we still have copies of the eagerly sought Civil Service booklet that explains the new retirement law. You may have a copy by inquiring at the front counter in The Washington Post Building.

POLICY: The Civil Service Commission has come up with a new policy that will directly affect career employes who transfer to a different line of work in Government. For example, an account who transfers to a chemist's job as a result of an open competitive test. The policy would require him to serve a new probationary period in the chemist position, with this exception:

"If an agency is entirely satisfied that a career employe will be able to perform the work of the new position satisfactorily, it can place him in the position by noncompetitive transfer instead of giving him a new appointment from the certificate, thereby making it unnecessary for him to serve a new probationary period."

JOB NEWS: A total of 838 persons passed the recent Civil Service test for appointment as private to the Metropolitan Police Department. Only 67 of them were nonveterans.

Ex-Marine Girl Routs Would-Be Holdup Man

All-Out Attack Meets Demand For Pocketbook; Culprit Captured

Edison F. Etchier, 32, has a new respect for former members of the Marine Corps—particularly those who are women.

Miss Melba M. Carroll, 24, a former Marine corporal, lived up to the best traditions of the Corps when she and two companions were accosted early yesterday near 22d st. and Massachusetts ave. nw.

When a man, identified by police as Etchier, demanded their pocketbooks, Miss Carroll launched a real Marine assault. She made a grab for the man. He turned to run, but not before Miss Carroll had planted a solid right on his jaw.

As he ran, Miss Carroll clung to his coat. The frantic holdup man worked his way out of the coat, but the former Marine got a new hold on his shirt.

When the man finally broke loose from her grasp, Miss Carroll fell to the pavement and injured her knee. That didn't stop her. She got up and resumed the chase.

While Miss Carroll was working over the holdup man, her companions had hailed a cab and followed the chase. Police apparently were called by residents of the neighborhood and a scout car was at the scene in a few minutes.

Police finally located the unhappy holdup man hiding in a hedgerow at 2115 P st. nw. Etchier, who lives at 1505 15th st. nw., was booked on a charge of assault with intent to commit robbery.

Miss Carroll is employed by the telephone company as a service observer and lives at 2209 40th pl. nw. Her companions were Mrs. Edith Hare, a cashier at the Mayflower Hotel, also of the 40th pl. address, and Miss Mildred Steinbraker, 24, a Marine sergeant during the war, now a secretary, and who lives at 5030 University ter. nw.

The three women were walking along Massachusetts ave. to a bus stop at 22d st. and Massachusetts ave. at about 12:10 a. m. when they noticed they were being followed by a man.

The man appeared to be drunk, they said later, lurching as he walked and at one point staggering into the street. Approaching them from behind, the man, identified by police as Etchier, politely inquired:

"Pardon me, ladies, do you have any money?"

"If we had any money we'd be riding in a cab instead of walking to a bus," replied Mrs. Hare. The three walked on. The man continued to follow them.

As the women neared 22d st., the man nimbly stepped in front of them, calmly waved a blue toy gun and announced:

"Ladies, put down your pocketbooks peaceably . . . or do I have to shoot?"

"I'm going to keep my pocketbook," replied Miss Carroll grimly. And she did.

Two brothers, Horace N. Body, 49, and Rudolph C. Body, 45, both of 1851 Wyoming ave. nw., were the victims of an assault and robbery at about 10:30 p. m. Saturday night.

Horace said he and his brother were returning home from a neighborhood drug store and were taking a short cut through an alley. He said that while they were passing the rear of 1807 California st. nw., they felt something like gravel being thrown at them.

Horace said he turned and—bang!—was slugged over the eye and knocked unconscious. When he awakened about 19 minutes later he made his way to his home, about a half block away. He found his brother missing from home, so returned to the alley where the brother was lying, still unconscious.

Horace told police $130 was taken from his pocket. A wrist watch was stolen from Rudolph.

Mrs. Rosebelle Chenault, 43, of New York City, visiting at 909 10th st. ne., was assaulted and robbed by a 16-year-old boy near the 10th st. address at about 11 p. m. Saturday night.

Mrs. Chenault told police the boy struck her in the face and knocked her to the pavement, then dragged her into a nearby alley where he robbed her of her pocketbook. In running away, the boy dropped a billfold which contained a small amount of money.

Leon W. Lewis, 31, of 1104 42d st. ne., reported he was robbed of $21 at gunpoint at about 9 p. m. Saturday while standing at 1st and H sts. ne. He described the bandit as a Negro, about 35, 6 feet 1, 210 pounds, wearing a dark suit and dark hat.

Joanne Ellison of 1642 29th st. nw. reported to police that a purse containing $355 and jewelry valued at $100 was stolen from the hallway of her home Saturday.

James Brown, 11-year-old newspaper carrier of 28 G st. sw. told police he was robbed of $2.25 by a 17-year-old boy who spoke with a lisp at 10:30 a. m. in the unit block of G st. sw.

Marine's Tackle Lays Low Cemetery Purse Snatcher Suspect; Chase Along River, Seen by 2000, Ends Under Sousa Bridge

By Charles DelVecchio—The Washington Post

Fugitive Eludes 35 Policemen and Braves Tear Gas

By John Reif
Post Reporter

A Marine with a flying tackle captured a suspected purse snatcher yesterday, after the man eluded 35 policemen and weathered a barrage of tear gas.

A "cops and robbers" drama, the chase over several blocks along the Anacostia River at Sousa Bridge attracted close to 2000 Palm Sunday strollers.

Police had virtually given up hope of capturing the fugitive, suspected of purse snatching, when the man was seen by three spectators from a vantage point on the bridge.

They saw him emerge from a stock pile of telephone poles, which had been saturated with tear gas by police a short time before. At their shout, he dived into the Anacostia River, but climbed out again immediately and fled along the railroad tracks.

A crowd gathered quickly to give chase. As usual the Marines landed first. PFC Howard Duble, 21, of Marine Corps Headquarters felled the man with a tackle from behind.

Three Traffic Division policemen, G. E. Fisher, Walter Klein and Thomas Solminsky, who were off duty working on a boat, joined Duble in the chase and took the suspect into custody after he was tackled.

At the Fifth Precinct, he was identified as Hazel Alexander, 24, of 370 N st. sw. Police said he admitted snatching a pocketbook from Miss Margaret Frazier, of 1831 2d st. ne., in Congressional Cemetery March 14.

Alexander was spotted about 1:45 p. m. yesterday in the cemetery by Corp. Raymond Jones, of the Fifth Precinct.

When James questioned him, Alexander began to run. A radio call from James brought Precinct Detectives R. M. Schumaker and W. W. Friel, in time to see Alexander run down the field and across the railroad tracks. Friel fired one shot at him but missed and he disappeared among the piles of cement blocks, steel girders and logs.

After 10 canisters of tear gas failed to rout the suspect, police and most of the crowd left the area, thinking the man had escaped. A few stayed behind.

Three of them were standing on the bridge, when they saw Alexander emerge from the pile of telephone poles shortly before 4 p. m. The trio, L. W. Adams, of 2801 Pennsylvania ave. se., J. R. Higgins, of 415½ 15th st. se., and R. W. Hopkins, of 1421 Ives pl. se., shouted to him.

About 50 persons, half of them youngsters, joined Duble in the chase.

FFA Quizzes Slated On Farm Cooperatives

Blacksburg, Va., March 21 (AP).—Boys from Future Farmers of America groups in 25 Shenandoah Valley high schools will compete for cash prizes beginning March 29 in quiz contests aimed at increasing their knowledge of farmer cooperatives, it was announced here.

Dr. Gordon Ward, agricultural economist for Virginia Extension Service, said more than 1000 FFA boys from six counties would compete in the first quizzes on principles, organization and operation of farmer cooperatives. The two high-scoring boys from each chapter will enter one of three sectional contests to be held April 15 and the two top scorers from each section will participate in the valley-wide quiz on April 30, Ward said.

Police Hold Suspect With Gun After Man Is Shot in Fight

Francis Conte, 33, of 4 Logan ct. nw., was shot and wonded on North Capitol st. yesterday. A 23-year-old suspect was held at the Second Precinct. Police said he was arrested with a 38-caliber gun in his pocket when hiding in a basement in I st. ne.

The shooting occurred, according to police, in front of the Dipsy Doodle Bar and Grill at 1124 North Capitol st., following an argument between the two men. Conte was in Gallinger Hospital with bullet wounds in his hand and side.

In another shooting, at midnight Saturday, James A. Woods, 37, no fixed address, was slightly wounded in the leg. Police said he was shot in the yard of 1419 H st. ne.

Charged with the shooting is Albert Hillman, 75, a barber at the H st. address. Hillman told police he heard a noise in the rear of his shop, found Woods, who ran until he was fired upon.

Stabbed four times with an ice pick Saturday night during a fight in front of 628 4th st. sw. was William Clark, 27, of 491 Cullinanne ct. sw. Lillian Mae Barringer, 24, of the Cullianne ct. address, was charged with the stabbing.

Sewer Brings Arlington School Board $47 in Year

The Arlington School Board is in the sewer business.

The board, which is asking a record $2,444,000 budget for 1949, picked up $47 in revenue last year from the half-mile sewer it owns on N. 13th st.

According to Assistant School Superintendent Charles Walsh, the school system was forced to construct the sewer in 1925 when Washington-Lee High School was built, because no other facilities for the new building were available.

Today, the system runs east a half mile from the school along N. 13th st., and its facilities are used by about 30 families Walsh said.

All pay the school board $1.62 per front foot, the same rate charged by Arlington County.

The school department doesn't particularly enjoy operating a sewer business, Walsh indicated, but it does want to pay off its initial investment.

Md. U. Dean to Speak

Leonardtown, Md., March 21 (Spl).—Dr. Harold Benjamin, dean of the Maryland University's College of Education, will discuss what a good school can do for the community at a meeting of the Frank Knox Parent-Teacher Association, on Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the school.

9 Winners Chosen

Courtesy Awards Due Tonight

Washington's Courtesy Campaign will be climaxed tonight with a rally at 8 o'clock in Constitution Hall.

Nine winners of the Courtesy Contest will receive their awards before an expected crowd of 4000. Doors will open at 7:30 p. m. There is no admission fee.

Serving as master of ceremonies will be eight disc jockeys; Florence, Eddie Gallaher, Jackson Weaver, Lee Dayton, Mike Hunnicutt, Ray Michael, Milton Q. Ford and Howard Williams.

Entertainment will be furnished by Morgan Baer and his orchestra, Allen Funt and his "candid microphone," the Singing Squires and Bob Knight.

Presented along with the Courtesy Contest winners will be Rex M. Case, jr., 13, of 7607 Eastern ave., Takoma Park, Md., winner of The Washington Post's Carrier Boy Courtesy Contest.

Rex, who wins a $50 savings bond, yesterday asked The Washington Post to express his thanks to all the subscribers who nominated him for the prize.

He was one of 500 carrier boys praised by subscribers for their courtesy and regularity in delivering papers. He received 48 of the 1800 nominations sent in.

of the passersby, most of them "well dressed," paused to make lingering and long-range inspection of the White House. "It looks like the end of the dull season," he observed.

The White House is open to visitors from 10 a. m. to noon Tuesday through Saturday.

The day was a busy one for police. For the period beginning at midnight and ending at 6 p. m. yesterday, Metropolitan Police received more than 1000 calls on all kinds of complaints, five times the normal numbers for a Sunday.

Dr. Friedrich to Give Harvard Lecture

Richmond, Va., March 21 (AP).—Dr. Carl J. Friedrich, professor of government at Harvard University, will give the ninth annual Harvard University lecture here on March 29.

Sidney S. Negus, of Richmond, president of the Harvard Club of Virginia, announced that Dr. Friedrich's lecture will be on the subject "Germany and the Marshall Plan." It will be given in the Thomas Jefferson High School auditorium at 8:30 p. m.

Barter Theater to Give Play in Arlington

Virginia's Barter Theater, which once swapped vegetables for tickets, will present a three-act play, "The Hasty Heart," on Thursday at 8 p. m. in the Washington-Lee High School auditorium in Arlington.

Tickets for the play, which is sponsored by the Arlington Civic Federation, may be obtained at the J. C. Penney Co., N. Highland and Wilson blvd., or at the office of the Arlington Sun, 2611 Wilson blvd.

40 Churches to Participate

Winchester, Va., March 21 (Spl.). Some 40 churches are expected to participate in the fifth annual religious education institute of Winchester Presbytery to be held here Wednesday and in Romney, W. Va., Thursday, according to Dr. Ronald S. Wilson.

Throngs Crowd Local Churches For Palm Sunday

Entry of Christ Into Jerusalem Commemorated In Many Parishes

Multitudes worshiped at yesterday's traditional Palm Sunday rites launching Holy Week.

In Catholic churches, there was the blessing of the palms and the reading of the gospel story of Christ's passion. Episcopal and Lutheran congregations also distributed fronds with the Washington Cathedral blessing them for the first time.

The services commemorated Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem over a palm strewn route.

Isolationism Denounced

Preaching at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Alexandria, Va., the Rev. Thomas A. Fraser denounced spiritual and political isolationism. He said:

No one can live unto himself. America cannot live unto herself, she can assume nothing less than the position God has given her and that appears to be world leadership—not world dominance—but leadership of the world for peace-sharing as well as leading—loving as well as disciplining—receiving as well as contributing—being told as well as telling—suffering the bitterness of persecution as well as enjoying the material pleasures of victory.

"We cannot live as if in peace in a world where there is no peace. We cannot live normal lives in a world that is not normal. But we can be blessed with the rewards of heaven if we suffer for righteousness' sake.

Cites Clash of Ideals

In another sermon emphasizing the Palm Sunday theme, Dr. Stuart Nelson, dean of Howard University's School of Religion, saw modern life as a clash between Christian ideals and paganism.

Addressing an interracial service of the Washington Interchurch Fellowship at the National Memorial Church of God, 16th and Taylor sts. nw., Dr. Nelson said:

"Some feel that Christian ideals belong to one world and life in action belongs to another. That is not a true situation. In reality, life ought to mould in the light of the highest Christian ideals."

Dr. Nelson and his wife have just returned from a year's sabbatical leave in India, where they served with the American Friends' Service Committee in promoting better understanding between America and India. Dr. Nelson, in his sermon, cited Gandhi as a perfect example of a man putting spiritual precepts into daily practice.

Many Confirmed

Confirmations marked many Episcopal and Lutheran Palm Sunday services. Bishop Angus Dun, of the Washington Diocese, conducted confirmations and preached at Epiphany Church, 1317 G st. nw., and at St. John's Church, Bradley Lane and Wisconsin ave., Bethesda. Many worshipers followed the custom of pinning small palm crosses on their garments. New members were received at scores of Protestant services.

The Rev. Daniel W. Justice, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, 5th st. and Seward Square se., pictured the Lenten season as a "time of feeling for one's fellowmen, a consciousness of people and their worth, of serving others in a spirit of kindness, generosity, and selflessness."

"This season is a time of deliberate giving of one's self, a sharing with no counting of the cost," he told a large Palm Sunday congregation.

Meanwhile, the city's devout look forward to observing Holy Week, climaxed by traditional Three Hours rites beginning at noon Good Friday, and Easter services.

The Senate and House will recess Good Friday, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Seth R. Brooks, pastor of the Universalist National Memorial Church and chairman of the Committee for the Three Hours' Observance.

Dominican Master

C. U. Honors Fr. Suarez With Degree

Catholic University yesterday honored the Most Rev. Emmanuel Suarez, O. P., new master general of the Dominican Order, with an honorary doctor of laws degree. He is from Rome.

Fr. Suarez

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington and university chancellor, conferred the degree at a convocation in McMahon Hall auditorium on the campus.

Msgr. Patrick A. McCormick, university rector, in an address, cited the close relationship that has always existed between the university and the Dominican Order. He pointed out that many Dominican students are attending Catholic University and that a number of Dominicans are members of the faculty of the university's schools of sacred theology, philosophy and the graduate school of arts and sciences.

The citation, praising the intellectual and spiritual accomplishments of Father Suarez, referred to the latter's "living in Madrid during the terrible days of the Civil War in Spain, and under the constant threat of death, exhibited a fortitude truly worthy of the ancient confessors of the faith."

Also participating in the convocation were the Right Rev. Monsignor Edward B. Jordan, vice-rector of the university; faculty-members of the institution in academic costume; superiors of religious houses and students. The university choir sang. A reception followed in the vice rector's office.

U. S. School Aid To Be Discussed In Montgomery

A public meeting sponsored by the Montgomery County Education Association and the Montgomery County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at Leland Junior High School, Bethesda, to discuss the need for Federal aid to education.

Council President Nathan R. Gilbert, in calling the meeting, said, "School-minded people of the county owe it to themselves to explore every possible means of getting the money required to meet the shortage of classroom facilities which, starting with next fall may force an increasing number of elementary schools into half-day sessions.

"Unless funds can be found for school construction, many children now in the lower grades of the schools may never be able at any stage of their school careers to attend normal full-day school sessions in Montgomery County."

Dr. Karl H. Berns of the National Education Association will discuss legislation before Congress for Federal funds to supplement State and local school financing. Discussion from the floor will follow.

Flood Routs Hundreds

Bromptonville, Quebec, March 21 (AP).—More than 100 persons were left homeless today after the ice-jammed St. Francis River overflowed its banks and sent hundreds fleeing. The death of one man was reported. Damage to homes alone was estimated at more than $500,000.

Vocational Guidance Day

Fredericksburg, Va., March 21 (Spl.).—Former students of Mary Washington College here will participate in vocational guidance day to be sponsored April 9 by the Cap and Gown Society. Alumnae will speak on radio, teaching, acting and modeling.

A Palm Cross for Brother

ON A BEAUTIFUL DAY—Katherine King, 8, 1705 37th st. nw., is shown pinning a palm cross on her brother, Kenneth, 9, after Sunday school yesterday at Christ Episcopal Church, 31st and O sts. nw.

Area News in Brief

Brush, Forest Fire Season Under Way

Yesterday's balmy weather ushered in the annual woods and brush fire season as outdoor enthusiasts in many cases neglected to be careful with cigarettes and matches.

There were more than 70 brush fires in nearby Maryland and Virginia, while firemen in the District were called to put out 10 brush blazes. Many other smaller fires also kept citizens busy throughout the area.

More serious were at least 10 woodland blazes which burned in six Maryland counties yesterday.

State Forester Henry C. Buckingham warned that "the worst time for forest fires in Maryland is from now until two or three weeks after Easter."

The forest fires in Maryland yesterday included two in Baltimore County, one in Montgomery, three in Anne Arundel, one in Charles, one in St. Mary's and two in Frederick Counties.

3 Hurt Fleeing Fire

Three persons were injured yesterday in escaping from a fire which wrecked a two-story brick building at 1525 Marion st. nw. Fire Department officials said an overturned kerosene stove caused the blaze.

Injured in jumping from the second-floor windows were Mrs. Carrie Briscoe, 25, who suffered cuts on the chin, and Ralph Turner, jr., 14, who punctured his foot when he jumped. His father, Ralph Turner, sr., 42, suffered burns.

Annapolis Candidate

Cadet Edward Burka, 1705 Allison st. nw., has been designated Staunton Military Academy candidate for the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, the school has announced. Cadet Burka was selected after a competitive examination at the academy.

To Study in Scotland

Miss Anne Goodwin Peyton, 4419 East-West hwy., Bethesda, is one of two Sweet Briar College students who will study at the University of St. Andrews, Scotland, next year, the college has announced. She will read for honors in England after her return from Scotland in the fall of 1949. Miss Peyton is a graduate of Madeira School and holds a freshman scholarship at Sweet Briar.

Know America Tour

Twenty students and four faculty members of Wayland Academy, Beaver Dam, Wis., will arrive in Washington today for a four-day "Know-Your-America" tour sponsored by the school's social science department.

After visiting Government offices and historical landmarks here and trips to Annapolis and Gettysburg, the group will spend a day in Richmond and Williamsburg before leaving for Chicago and the Midwest Friday.

Extension Phones Back

Extension telephones are now available to all telephone subscribers in Greater Washington, J. B. Morrison, vice president and general manager of Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., announced yesterday.

During the war, because of material scarcity, installation of extension phones in residences was prohibited. Immediately after the war scarcities made such installations almost impossible.

Bolling's Safety Record

Bolling Air Force Base had the best aircraft safety record of any base in the country during the last quarter of 1947, Brig. Gen. B. M. Hovey, announced yesterday.

General Hovey will present the field's 16th Maintenance and Supply Group with three blue air pennants at ceremonies today at 4 p. m. in recognition of its "outstanding effort to eliminate aircraft accidents."

County to Open Register

New voters in Prince Georges County who wish to avoid the rush on regular registration day may register tomorrow from 4 to 9 p. m. in the office of the board of election supervisors at the Courthouse in Upper Marlboro, Md.

Registrants must have declared their intentions to become voters at least a year before election day and those who will become 21 years of age while living in Maryland also may register.

Md. Banks to Close

Nearby Maryland banks will be closed Thursday and Friday in observance of Maryland Day Thursday and Good Friday, both of which are legal holidays in Maryland.

Local merchants have been advised by the bankers to anticipate their banking needs for these two days. Those who may have large deposits on hand should arrange to use the night depository systems, the banks advised.

Rape Victim Gets 2 Transfusions

The 9-year-old schoolgirl who was beaten and raped Thursday night near the National Arboretum, 20th and M sts. ne., remained in critical condition yesterday at Gallinger Hospital.

The child received two more blood transfusions yesterday. She is suffering from head injuries and a multiple leg fracture.

Meanwhile, police said they are investigating the possibility that Theodore Martin Holmes, 20, Negro, of 1723 7th st. nw., who has confessed to raping the white child, has been involved in other unsolved sex crimes.

Eastern Star Installs

Leesburg, Va., March 21 (Spl.).—Officers of Olive Branch Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, were installed at a meeting here Friday. They are Mrs. Virginia S. Ward, worthy matron; Joseph L. Oliver, worthy patron; Miss Elizabeth Kirkpatrick, associate matron; S. Reed Galleher, associate patron; Mrs. Louise H. Whitmore, secretary, and Miss Sue L. Whitmore, treasurer.

Winchester Looks at Almanac; It's 'Fair' for Apple Festival

Winchester, Va., March 21 (Spl.).—Plans for the annual Apple Blossom Festival here April 29-30 have begun, according to Festival President H. Delmer Robinson.

In an attempt to predict the weather for the twenty-first annual affair, officials are currently quoting the Hagerstown, Md., Almanac, which calls for eight days of rain, wind and storm, ending on April 28, with fair weather until after the festival.

Mayor C. R. Anderson has authorized a fireworks display by the Winchester Fire Department. A city ordinance prohibits sale and discharge of fireworks within the city limits, but experts will be called in to handle the display.

Bandmaster Johnny Long will play for the Queens' Ball and Princess' Dance, according to Committee Chairman G. T. Binner, jr.

In addition to Robinson, officers are H. B. McCormac, jr., vice president, Thomas G. Scully, general councilor, and Frank Armstrong, jr., treasurer.

First announcements of princesses include: Joan Wilson Swink, Morgantown, W. Va., representing West Virginia University; Nivea Estela Rodriquez, Puerto Rico, Radford College; Martha Jane Fratz, Accident, Md., State Teachers College at Frostburg; Betty Baldwin, Elk Mills, Md., St. Mary's Female Seminary Junior College. Others are Cora Wells, Handley High School, and Patricia Garber, Frederick County.

Suzanne Pingley, Handley High School, has been named honorary fire chief for the firemen's parade April 29. She will head the march of fire companies, which will lead the mile-long procession. Others in the parade will be the Massanutten Academy band, and fire companies from New Market, Culpeper and Hagerstown.

Town Fathers Cry 'Enough'

Frederick, Md., March 21 (Spl.).—The Burgess and five Commissioners of Middletown have "had enough." They declined renomination at last night's town convention, and 12 newcomers were nominated to the offices, to be voted on April 5.

After 14 years at the helm of the town corporation, Burgess Walter Beachley asked that he not be renominated. The five Commissioners, veterans of 10 years' service, also asked to be relieved.

The slates selected included the names of many young men in the community. J. Vernon Coblentz and Floyd Stine were nominated for Burgess. Commissioners nominated are H. Hayden Hoffman, Robert H. Routzahn, Ellsworth E. Magaha, Henry Haupt, Paul K. Shafer, E. Robert Bowlus, Richard A. Beachley, William Locke, Glen Bidle and Austin L. Main.

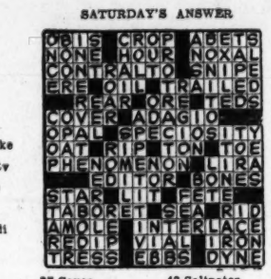
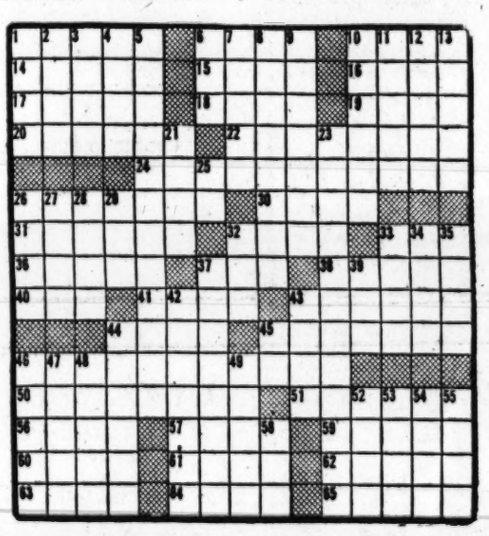
SATURDAY'S ANSWER





Rites Planned For 2 Fliers Of AF Reserve

Funeral services for two Air Force Reserve officers who were killed Saturday in a plane crash near Mitchellsville, Md., will be held early this week.

Services for Second Lieut. Paul F. Keys, 23, of 3903 58th st., Cheverly, Md., will be held at the S. H. Hines funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw., at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow. This will be followed by requiem mass at Sacred Heart Church 16th and Park rd. nw., at 9 a. m. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Lieutenant Keys was a native of the District and attended Powell and Central High Schools. In 1942 he entered the Air Force and after training in Florida, Texas and at Butler University, Indianapolis, served as pilot of a B-25 in the Rhineland and Northern Italy.

He held the European Air Medal with four bronze stars. He was a freshman at the University of Maryland where he was studying public administration, and a member of the American Legion.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Whitney S. Keyes, sr., and a brother, Whitney S. Keys, jffir., all of the Cheverly address.

Arrangements for services for First Lieut. Francis G. Rapp, 27, of 6020 13th pl. nw., have not been completed. The services will be held at St. Anthony's Church, 12th and Monroe sts. ne., with burial in Arlington Cemetery.

Lieu. Rapp was an employe of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and a part-time student at Columbit University.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Julie Rapp; his mother, Mrs. Anna M. Rapp, 3113 13th st. ne., a sister, Miss Margaret Rapp, and a brother, Billy Rapp.

Both men were members of the 63d Troop Carrier Squadron, a reserve group assigned to Andrews Field.

Use Secret Writing Sparingly

Secret writing is always fun. One of the simplest methods is to use either milk or lemon juice for the secret ink and a toothpick or wooden match for the pen. As soon as the "ink" is dry, the paper will appear to be perfectly blank. When it is heated, however, even by holding it close to an electric-light bulb, the message will show.

Some resourceful parents have used the secret message approach to give their children simple directions concerning jobs that are to be done around the house. Such a method should be used very sparingly, though, or one may spoil the fun.

Elise Henderson Prizes Ten Barrels of China; He's Unwed, Kindler Says

By Marie McNair

MRS. John Steelman and little-girlish-looking Mrs. Loy Henderson, sitting next to each other at luncheon the other day, discovered they both have the same hobby—collecting tea cups.

Elise Henderson, who has done a lot of traveling as the wife of one of our ace diplomats, remarked, that she also had 10 barrels of china in her basement, never unpacked.

MRS. McNAIR

Mrs. Harry Vaughan, wife of the Military Aide to the President, who up until now had taken no part in the conversation, came out with "Well, I've got six boxes of glass. You see I was married in the Fostoria glass era."

During the early years of Gen. and Mrs. Harry Vaughan's married life, the General's job as a chemical engineer necessitated moving around.

No sooner would Mrs. Vaughan get the curtains hung in her little dream house, than it would be time to pack up and leave for another city. And, oddly the change usually occurred in May.

She remembers well a certain house with a garden. It was just about perfect. Spring came, and Mrs. Vaughan enthusiastically began to plant. The General was called out of town for conference. "We're moving," Mrs. Vaughan suspected.

So—when the messenger brought the telegram it wasn't much of a surprise. It said: "Unplant your garden."

A HAND-PICKED group of Margaret Truman's friends were invited to the White House last Thursday afternoon for a private showing of the film, "The Barber of Seville," with the great Tagliavini as star. Margaret had planned it for the week before but gave up the idea when laryngitis hit her vocal chords.

THE ROMANIAN LEGATION has lost two of its best trained servants, according to a story. And the couple—man and wife—are looking for a job. It happened when the domestics, tired of looking at the photograph of Anna Pauker, Foreign Minister of Romania, tore it up one day and then walked out.

BEFORE Dr. Hans Kindler sailed for Europe, he denied that he was married secretly. He even "crossed his heart and hoped to die." But he added with a twinkle "Not yet—but maybe soon."

MRS. CLARENCE NORTON GOODWIN treasures a velvet bound book with silver filigree clasps, the gift of the late Queen Marie of Romania when she visited this country 20 years ago.

The dowager Queen, grandmother of the present King Michael, was entertained at a garden party by Mrs. Goodwin at her Lake Forest home in Chicago. The Goodwins' young offspring in tow of a French governess were allowed a peek at the Queen. Whereupon young Mac Goodwin, in a torrent of French shouted. "Mother, she's no Queen, she hasn't got a long dress or a crown!"

NEWEST THING IN Washington on the air is "Brunch With Senate and Bill" which starts as a weekly feature today at noon. Popular Senate George who has her finger in many pies, and personable Gregory Carmichael will put on the program and each week they'll get a celebrity in one field or another to face the mike. Mme. Chauntemps, wife of the former Premier of France, a concert pianist, and now a designer and maker of hats, will be No. 1.

Chief of Staff, Mrs. Bradley Honor Guests

Mrs. Parker West's reception on Saturday afternoon in honor of the Chief of Staff and Mrs. Omar Bradley made the thirteenth Chief of Staff to be so honored since 33 years ago when Mrs. West and the late Major West established this happy custom.

Easter lilies, Easter hats and flowers by the hundreds on hats, on shoulders, in vases and in flower pots, made it a real holiday scene. The hostess wore a deep rose crepe frock with side draped skirt edged in crystal and Mrs. Bradley's gown of American Beauty shade was simply cut with fish-tail drapery at the back. The one wore orchids, the other a spray of gardenias.

Waxy white lilies in crystal vases decorated the tea table and white tapers burned in silver holders. Mrs. Fred Vinson, wife of the Chief Justice, was serving ice cream as I happened by, and Mrs. Owen Brewster, with red tipped white birds on her sailor hat, was pouring coffee. At the other end of the table Mrs. Harold Walker was presiding at the tea service.

The New Zealand Minister and Lady Berendsen were getting a warm welcome on all sides, having returned but the day before from a trip to their homeland. "I was glad to go home and see my boy," Lady Berendsen said, "but terribly glad to be back." Looking none the worse for her experience she said she had sat up for two nights on the plane because it didn't provide berths.

Gen. and Mrs. Wade Haislip were there and Admiral and Mrs. Clark Woodward—she was among those assisting—and others were Mrs. George Malone, Mrs. A. C. McAuliffe, Senora de Caceres, who had left Ambassador Caceres, recovering from illness sitting outside in the car. Then there were Mrs. Conger Pratt, in a long print gown with pink roses in her hair, who had been asked to assist; Mrs. Martin Vogel and her niece, blonde Fay Lewisohn; Mrs. Charles McNary, Mrs. Eldon P. King, Mrs. William Barrett Ridgely and Mrs. Frederick Mitchell Gould.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Ellis and the latter's sister, Miss Luella Chase, came early, so did Mme. Sze, Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim and former Ambassador and Mrs. Stanley Hornbeck.

Still others there were Mrs. Dewey Short, Mrs. Joseph Farrington, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, Mrs. Walter Distler, Mme. Rybar, who leaves today for four days at Old Point Comfort; Mrs. Frederick Coleman, Dr. Leo Brison Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Josh Evans, Col. and Mrs. Charles F. Martin, Col. and Mrs. William S. Culbertson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, M. and Mme. Chautemps, Mrs. Ollie James, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Graves, Mme. Grace Espaillat and Col. and Senora de Munilla.

Begin Ida Jean Kain's 18-Day Diet Today

It's Spring—Time to Start Slimming

IT'S spring again! Take a deep breath. There's a tonic quality in the air that quickens one's sense of being alive. Catch that renewing force, and nothing can stop you. Spring makes everything young again—why not you and me?

Today we're starting an 18-day diet and a three-week spring tonic figure course. Take it as a chance to get a new lease on life. You need not have a limp spirit, a dumpy figure or a drab outlook. It's spring! You can banish the fat that binds your muscles and bogs down your spirits. That's a promise.

Seeing is believing, so I have a model to follow. She's not a movie star—but a housewife, even as you and I, a mother of two children who was so busy she let her figure slump and settle. Her name is Barbara Anne Walters, and her home is in Michigan. Barrie will take you over the hurdles, just the way she slimmed down from 140 to 120 healthy, shapely pounds.

Aim at Normal Weight

Excess fat is "dead" weight: It can keep you from feeling vibrantly alive and your body from being lithe and limber and free. Aim at normal weight . . . not only because that is your best-looking weight, but, more important, it's functionally right. It's the weight at which you have the most bounce!

Your best weight depends on your inherited build, or frame; not on height alone . . . and after 25, not on birthdays. A simple way to figure is to allow 100, 105 or 110 pounds for the first five feet of height, depending on whether you have a small, medium or large frame. Then allow five pounds for each added inch of height over five feet. That may not quite cover it. If you have a wide frame and very heavy bones, you may add an additional 10% of this total weight. The average woman of five feet, four inches may weigh from 120 to 130 pounds—or, adding 10% for exceptionally large bones, she may weigh 143 pounds. But that is top weight for five feet, four inches—at any age. If you are 20 or more pounds overweight, see your doctor . . . this week. Every excess pound puts an added load on your heart. Check up.

Barbara Anne's program extended over a period of three months. I can give it all to you in three weeks, and in that time you can take off eight or 10 pounds and many bulky inches, and feel like a new woman. Some will need to carry on . . . but it can all be fun when you have the feeling of well-being and aliveness this spring tonic course can bring.

Reducing on a Budget

Eat to beat the high cost of food and banish excess fat. These low calorie menus afford perfect nutrition at comparatively low cost.

To get the most nutritive value at low cost and low calories, skimmed milk is used in place of whole milk. Restricting dairy fats to lower calories lessens the Vitamin A. This can be secured in a concentrate without calories and at a cost of a bit over one cent a day. Supplement menus with one Vitamin A and D concentrate, supplying 5000 units of Vitamin A and 400 units of Vitamin D per day. Or, use one multiple vitamin concentrate.

Since all foods included may not be available everywhere, inexpensive substitutes and interchangeable foods are listed—also recipe for special salad dressing.

Thrift Shop Has Treasures For Benefit

Washington's Thrift Shop at 809 9th st. nw., has a list of "regulars," customers who are always on the lookout for treasures brought in to be sold. Fine old pieces of silver, laces, picture frames of days gone by, glass decanters and other good glass have a way of appearing at this little shop over which Mrs. T. Percy Myers presides. In the 12 years she has been with the shop, whose motto is "we turn your trash into cash," she has seen beautiful old things brought in to be sold for the benefit of Washington's six Thrift Shop member charities.

At present there is an old ship's model, among other wares, a child's organ, Spanish shawls, old lace, shaving mugs for those who collect these heirlooms, gadgets of all kinds.

However, once a year the Thrift Shop board, of which Mrs. D. Lawrence Groner is chairman, sponsors a white elephant tea. And on Wednesday, April 28, this benefit will be held at Anderson House, 2118 Massachusetts ave. A bundle or a cash contribution are the admission fees. The following week, after all the donations are sorted and priced, they will go on sale at the Thrift Shop.

Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, chairman of the fete, urges everyone to start a Thrift Shop package now — anything which can be turned into cash for Washington's sick, convalescent and needy children.

Try pressing the sweater you have knitted before you join the sections together. It makes a much simpler job to join and the joining itself will be much neater, as one can pick out each stitch so readily.

Ask Anne — Your Questions on Homemaking

I am interested in making attractive corsages from home-grown flowers. Do you know where I can find instructions and where I can buy the necessary material to develop such a hobby? S. C. L.

The "Complete Book of Flower Arrangement" by F. F. Rockwell and Esther C. Grayson, published by the American Garden Guild, Inc. and Doubleday & Co., Inc., has a chapter on the making of corsages. The chapter has many pictures and the directions are clearly written for the nonprofessional. The book also gives suggestions as to what materials are needed, and most of these can be purchased at dime and novelty stores. To buy supplies in wholesale lots, look under "Florists Supplies" in the telephone book.

I am planning to glamorize my bedroom during the Easter holidays. My bedroom walls are cream colored and painted, and my furniture has a walnut veneer finish. It is in very good condition, but somehow it seems drab and uninteresting to me. I would like very much to lacquer it bright contrasting color to avoid too much black. What colors would you suggest for these pieces and for curtains, spread, and a chaise lounge slip cover? A. P.

To apply lacquer to varnish surfaces, the entire finish must be removed because lacquer acts as a remover and will dissolve some of the varnish, causing it to smear. Because of this, I would suggest you use quick drying enamel instead of lacquer. This will dry with a high gloss and can be applied to the piece without removing the old finish. Be sure the piece is free from oil or soiled spots and sand any rough areas before enameling. Apply the gilt or gold paint to the enameled surface when it is thoroughly dry.

With black furniture, I would suggest you choose one strong color for accent, Chinese red for instance. Since the book shelf and end table are small they could be painted with this. If the clothes hamper is very large, I would suggest you do not paint it red. Possibly it could be covered with the same fabric you use for spread or drapes. For these, use a neutral color such as cream or pearl gray. If you wish to carry out the Chinese feeling, the curtains could have an oriental type design in your room colors or applique designs from fabrics onto the neutral material chosen for the spread and curtain. Also, you could use the same figured fabric for pillow covers on your chaise lounge, covering the lounge itself with the neutral color. Unless your room is very large, avoid large areas of boldly patterned fabrics.

Will you give me a recipe for making cottage cheese out of left-over cream which has soured? I have looked through various recipe books but fail to find the old-fashioned home method given. G. A.

Cottage cheese is made from clabbered milk, whole or skimmed, not from cream.

If you have a quantity of sour cream, I would suggest you use it to make butter rather than cottage cheese. Just place it in a chilled bowl and whip it with an egg beater until specks of yellow appear. Now, beat or stir until these specks are collected and separated from the liquid. Dropping a lump of ice into the mixture will make this separation easier. When all liquid is worked out and poured off, salt to taste.

To make cottage cheese, heat soured whole milk over hot water (in top of a double boiler) until lukewarm (about 95 degrees F.). At this temperature, curds will form. Remove from heat and let stand until the whey (clear liquid) separates from the curd. When coagulated, turn into a cheesecloth-lined strainer, drain thoroughly and bring ends of cheesecloth together and hang until all whey is removed. Moisten with cream and season with salt. One quart whole milk makes about one cup cottage cheese.

Sometimes milk or cream which has soured in the refrigerator develops an unpleasant odor and flavor, so if you wish to use milk for cottage cheese remove it from the refrigerator to sour.

We are building a modern radio-phonograph cabinet of walnut which we plan to finish with linseed oil. The upper half of the cabinet will house the radio and turn-table, while the lower half will contain nothing but the speaker. As a decorative covering over the 17 by 29-inch speaker opening, we would like to use some kind of Chinese silk print, instead of the plain, neutral-colored monk's cloth most frequently used for this purpose. Could you advise whether such a Chinese silk print would be sufficiently porus for a speaker-opening and where we might be able to buy such a print, either embroidered or handpainted, but at any rate delicately executed in Chinese figures? E. S.

A radio repair man tells me that Chinese silk print would be porous enough for a speaker opening. In selecting such a print, avoid any which have metalic threads. A survey of the Chinese shops in Washington fails to find any who have Chinese silks right now. However, the yard good's section of the department stores carry silk prints, and occasionally some of these have Chinese-type designs. This seems to be your best chance at this time of obtaining such a print.

Could you tell me where I might find a pattern for a crocheted sleeveless boy's sweater? H. E. H.

A check at the art departments of the department stores and embroidery shops fails to turn up a pattern for a crocheted sweater. Do any readers have one?

Will you tell me the best way to keep English walnuts during the summer? F. M. R.

Remove the walnuts from the shell and place them in a clean, odorless, dry, glass jar. Place a tight fitting lid on the jar and store in the refigerator.

MILK COSTS ONLY 11¢ A POUND

Think of it! Nature's most nearly perfect food—at only 11¢ a pound! What other food offers you so much nourishment for your money?

Yes, penny for penny, milk supplies more real nourishment and health values than any other food you can buy. It's today's biggest food bargain. In fact, compared to pre-war prices, the cost of milk has risen less than other important foods.

Be thrifty! Order an extra quart or two of Sealtest Home Vitamin 'D' Milk from your Sealtest Milkman or phone Michigan 1011. Serve the whole family regularly—and generously—and use more in cooking and baking.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Father of Five Children Must Shoulder Mother's Cares Also, Now That His "Ex-Wife Is Departed," He Says; Sister Keeps House and Turmoil Reigns

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am the father of five children and since my ex-wife is departed I have the combined responsibilities of father and mother.

My sister stays with the children while I am at work, but when I come home she tells me about all their faults and wrong-doings. First she tells me about little Charles and then about Mary, and after that she goes on to criticize little Adrian, Jeannie and Margery.

After working hard all day I am a little tired and often feel grouchy. When she starts about the children I explode without thinking how good she is to be helping me; and this starts a big fuss which lasts most of the evening.

Sister Goads Him To Whip Children

TO MAKE matters worse, when our fuss quiets down the children start making noise; and then I get a headache and fly off the handle and whip them before I know what I am doing. This goes on every night and my sister seems to enjoy it, but I can't stand it after a hard day.

I never go out and enjoy life, which surely is hard on a person, but I feel guilty if I go out, so what can I do? I know things would be better if my departed wife were here; and I shall be gratetul for your advice. May God bestow His choicest blessings on you for the help which you extend to all.

C. D.

Did Wife Desert Or Is He Widower

DEAR C. D.: Your reference to the children's mother as "my ex-wife (who) is departed" doesn't make clear whether you are a widower or a deserted husband, yet here is a point which might make a difference in evaluating the problem.

Assuming this is a case where an unstable spouse found herself overwhelmed by rapidly multiplying family burdens—say in the form of a new baby every year or so,—and finally bolted the situation in neurotic panic, one might expect to find the children more-than-ordinarily difficult to manage, due to tensions ingrained by her distrait influence and final shocking rejection of them.

In such case, some first-hand diagnostic and advisory help from specialists in child psychology and child welfare would be necessary to give you sensible understanding of the children's side of the story, —which insight on the parent's part is basic to bringing systematic mutual consideration to bear.

Moreover, if you are a deserted husband, the proposition of marrying again to obtain a good helpmeet with the children would be blocked indefinitely,—legally, until divorce could be negotiated; emotionally, until you had accepted her desertion as final; and socially until you could find time and the mood for courting.

Sister Is Making Bad Matter Worse

IN THE SAME vein, if your sister is substituting for a runaway mother, it is likely that she would feel far more rebellious about the tax on her energies than if she were tending a half-orphaned brood: in which case much of her aggravation with their faults might be construed as resentment of the parents, the mother particularly, for making her the goat of their collective failure to do their own job.

In any event, whether the mother is alive or dead, if it is true, as you say, that your sister seems to enjoy spoil'ng your evenings and goading you to whip the children night after night, she is temperamentally unfit to manage their day-care; and consequently (whether she knows it or not) is doing a lot to make their worrisome behavior worse.

Thus she is not at all "good" about helping you. Rather she is a destructive factor in the home, a fact you must face in making long-range plans to benefit the children. If a widower, you ought to marry again, taking care to choose a maternal-type wife of kind heart, sound health and settled character. If a deserted husband, good foster-home care of the children, negotiated through specialist aegis, seems preferable to the present arrangement which is keyed to general distraction.

M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Washington Post.

Take Him Along

Is your husband critical about your clothes and does he take violent dislikes to the hats and coats you have selected? If so, by all means insist that he go with you to buy these outer garments. You are very apt to come home with a much more expensive outfit and there can be no complaints later on about selection and prices.

Polishes better!

The brighter your teeth look, the better you look. Because of this, it makes good sense to use the toothpaste that gets teeth brighter than any other—new Lyons Toothpaste. By actual test, new Lyons Toothpaste gets teeth far brighter than any toothpaste you've ever heard about, bought or used.

The reason new Lyons Toothpaste does this . . . does what no other toothpaste can do . . . is that it's completely new and radically different in formula. There's no other toothpaste like it . . . no other toothpaste that gives you the benefits of its patented cleansing agent and its superior polishing agent.

So for the brighter teeth that mean a brighter smile and a better looking you, try new Lyons Toothpaste—today!

Tastes better, too!

Wherever you go, people agree that no other toothpaste tastes as good as new Lyons Toothpaste. For Lyons, unlike ordinary toothpastes that are made with soap, contains no soap. It tastes better . . . has the pleasantest, cleanest, most refreshing flavor ever—a wonderful new taste in toothpaste. Try it once and you'll use it always!

The amazing new toothpaste that cleans without soap . . . polishes without chalk!

COLLEGE GRADUATES
A large out-of-town manufacturer will place a limited number of young college graduates in a production operational training program. The men chosen must have a full degree in engineering, Chemistry, or Bacteriology from an accredited university. The program consists of rotation in the various operations in the Production Department, with supplemental educational training. The positions consist of shift work for a period of 18 months. The positions in administrative work are filled on a competitive basis of individual merit of our production operators. We are interested in young men who have graduated in the upper third of their college class.

The starting salary is $225 a month and all men in training will receive a monthly increase of $12 every three months if their work is satisfactory. This salary increase plan is in effect during the first year of employment.

The Company also offers an Educational Refund Plan for all employes who desire to take courses at a university in or near the city. The cost of the courses will be refunded on the basis of the final grade received.

Our representative will be available for interview on Monday ... Tuesday, March 22 and 23, at the ... of Columbia U. S. Employment Se... 734 15th st. nw., Washington, D. C.

These Fellows Would Be Older Than Bobo Newsom

A recent sports story related that "Thompson Harmon, 134, was removed to the hospital tonight after he lost an eight round technical knockout decision to Sandy Sadler, 129."

Mrs. A. C. Sweeney of 1443 Smith pl. se. comments:

"I realized, on second reading, that the numbers referred to weights and not ages. But at first glance I marveled at the thought of these two old gaffers in there slugging away at each other."

PEACE, IT'S WONDERFUL

The Bowdoin College Glee Club, 72 strong, will descend on Washington Tuesday to give its first local concert (Shoreham, 8:30 p. m.).

The concert will be followed by a dance. Both events are being sponsored by the local Alumni Association, which includes some well-known Washingtonians among its members—folks like Mr. Justice Harold Burton, Senators White and Brewster, and Representative Robert Hale.

Mrs. Guy W. Leadbetter of 4437 Cathedral ave. nw., mother of Guy W. Leadbetter, jr., has undertaken to find sleeping accommodations for all 72 boys, including these Washingtonians:

Tommy Manfuso, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Manfuso of 2 Oxford st., Chevy Chase, Md.; Stephen Hustvedt, son of Vice Admiral and Mrs. O. M. Hustvedt of 3527 Ordway st. nw; Jerome Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Allen of 1802 Key blvd., Arlington, Va.; and Teddy Noyes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Green of 3001 Cathedral ave. nw.

Bedding down a troupe of this size is quite a task. But even more impressive is the assignment which has been accepted by Sumner T. Pike, of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Commissioner is going to feed all 72 boys. And when he's finished with the job, he'll probably be glad to get back to the relative peace and simplicity of splitting atoms.

COINCIDENCE DEPT.

Two Yellow Cab drivers delight in recalling an unusual story of the war years.

They are Le Roy Dougan of 317 7th st. ne. and Martin Brennan of 4715 MacArthur blvd. nw.

In the summer of '43, Brennan was cruising down 14th st. when he picked up Dougan. Le Roy had just turned in his hack, and was on his way to answer Uncle Sam's greetings.

Brennan drove his pal around the Union Station, and wished him a safe return. Le Roy was off to the European wars.

Hopping in, Le Roy asked, "You been waiting for me, Martin?"

HERE'S THAT WORD AGAIN

One of our proofreaders reported for work yesterday with a cheerful, "Greetings, fellow slaves."

The reaction was instantaneous. A colleague with four years of Navy service under his belt winced and muttered:

"Look, pal, with all this draft talk making the rounds, just say 'hello' from now on. People who come in here and holler 'greetings' make me nervous."

PERSONAL NOTES

Morton Berman, 2801 Naylor rd. se.: Our files show that last year the cherry blossoms "burst into bloom overnight" on April 12.

SUBURBAN NOTES

The small town is rapidly disappearing from the American scene. But a few still remain to preserve the neighborly tradition of yesteryear.

For example, here's a story from Falls Church, Va. The other night the C. F. Stewart Sharpe family of 219 Monroe st. went over to the Brandon Marsh home at 48 Juniper lane for dinner.

The next day Mrs. Sharpe was in the Falls Church Safeway store, and in the meat department she happened to meet Mrs. Stephen Paull of 315 Monroe st.

"Hello," said Mrs. Sharpe. "We had dinner with friends of yours last night—the Marshes."

"You did?" replied Mrs. Paull. "We bought our house from them, you know. How are they?"

"What's more important," chimed in the butcher, "is how was that turkey I sold Mrs. Marsh?"

NEW YORK.—A group of American labor leaders is producing a documentary film which will include messages from Italian-American union officials. The film will be completed within the next few days and rushed to Italy, in time to be used as anti-Communist propaganda for the April elections . . . Italian-American labor leaders also will participate in short-wave broadcasts to Italy, urging their relatives and friends to support the democratic program and vote against the Communists.

MOVIES: Sir Harry Lauder, who has been in retirement for almost a generation, may return to the entertainment field by way of a movie. J. Arthur Rank is expected to be the top bidder for the movie rights to the hit musical, "Brigadoon." When Rank acquires the film rights he'll produce the story with Bing Crosby and Lauder in the starring roles.

BOOK DEPT.: Michael Arlen met G. B. Shaw in the south of France. "I've never read anything you've written," Shaw told him, "but my wife read 'The Green Hat' and she liked you." Shaw then explained: "As a matter of fact, I never read any novels at all, unless my wife thrusts them at me—and she didn't thrust 'The Green Hat' hard enough" . . . "And Mrs. Shaw liked me?" asked Arlen . . . "Yes," Shaw assured him, "she liked you. But I think it was because you look like Adolphe Menjou."

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT: Vic Earlson tells of the day he was standing in front of Lindy's with Jackie Osterman, who was being starred in a Shubert musical. A panhandler approached and asked: "Mister, can you spare two bits?" . . . "Sure," replied Osterman—who then proceeded to do the two vaudeville routines, there on the street—"I'll give you the lemon bit and the hotel bit."

Russia Works Against A-Bomb

By Drew Pearson

It is no secret to the Russians that the biggest thing United States war chiefs have studied in connection with the Russian showdown is how we could drop the atomic bomb on strategic Russian cities—if we have to.

Pearson

It is also no secret that the Russians are obsessed with the fear that the bomb may be dropped and that they are frantically maneuvering to prevent such an attack.

Regarding point No. 1, a glance at the map makes it obvious that there are seven different bases from which United States planes could successfully take off with a bombload for Russia. They are: Japan, Alaska, England, Italy, Greece, Iceland and Arabia.

A lone-mission bomber flying from one of these bases would be massacred by Russian interceptor planes, of which the Red army has a fairly large number. However, seven bomber missions flying from all seven bases simultaneously would be difficult for the Russians to intercept. Some undoubtedly would get through.

Therefore, Soviet strategy is believed to be to take in as much territory as possible right now in order to wipe out potential bomber bases. That's why the Soviet squeeze-play has been quietly put on Norway and Denmark; also why Russia is reported to have in mind reaching out even to Iceland.

If Russia can bite off Italy, squeeze us out of Greece and Arabia, then the only air bases they would have to worry about are Japan and Alaska. And they could mass enough interceptor planes in Siberia opposite those two bases to make it suicidal for any bomber to try to get through.

This is what's behind the currently reported Russian stretch for territory. It's also what's behind the frenzied Washington war talks. Air bases today are the most prized of all national possessions. Strange thing about Mr. Truman's message to Congress, however, is that he didn't mention air power.

Note—If Russia had accepted the U. S. offer to share atomic energy on condition all countries accept international inspection, the present war-maneuvering might not have occurred. Russia's veto of one of the most generous international offers ever made was the tip-off on Russia's future war policy.

Marshall Answers GOP

Secretary of State Marshall has been heckled by all sorts of people, but one of his worst verbal machinegunnings came at a private dinner given him by Republican Congressmen.

At one point the cross-questioning became so tough that in reply to a query by Representative Wint Smith of Kansas; "Do we have any intelligence on Iceland?" Marshall shot back:

"I don't know, and if I did I couldn't tell you. There are certain types of information that shouldn't be told even to Congressmen."

The first half of Marshall's remarks were not particularly informative and Wat Arnold of Missouri stalked out in disgust. Later however, Marshall spoke more bluntly.

His chief warning was that the United States must halt the Red advance, that America cannot afford to let Russia take over any more countries.

"Does that mean war?" someone asked.

"That is something the President would have to say," was Marshall's grave reply.

Marshall explained that he didn't expect Russia to commit any act of war, but feared incidents around the iron rim might lead to war. The Soviets don't want war, he pointed out, because they "can get things cheaper the way they have been getting them." It is American policy to put things in, and Russian policy to take things out of occupied countries, he explained.

"It costs us money to take over a country, but Russia actually makes money," he added ruefully.

Yes-Man Says No

One Republican yes-man who has learned to say "no" lately is Utah's Senator Arthur Watkins. His latest departure from the Republican straight-and-narrow is a recommendation against tax cuts which came even before Truman's arms message to Congress.

Watkins happens to head the Western Subcommittee on the Economic Report, entrusted with making a cost-of-living survey for the Senate. In so doing, Watkins' subcommittee stated flatly that tax reductions would be "inflationary," offered a counterplan to refund Government bonds to the taxpayers instead of direct tax relief. In other words, the amount of the tax reduction would be paid back in bonds which could not be cashed until the inflationary spiral had broken.

This struck GOP bosses like a thunderbolt. They had long considered Watkins a meek and docile party faithful.

Promptly brusque Finance Chairman Eugene Millikin of Colorado waylaid Watkins in the Senate.

"Who," he rumbled, "is handling taxes around here anyway?"

Watkins agreed that taxes were the business of the Finance Committee, but added that the subcommittee had a conflicting mandate to write a prescription for the Nation's economic ills.

"It just shows the inconsistencies of Congress," observed Watkins politely.

Millikin, who married one of the wealthiest widows in Colorado, snorted that giving Government bonds instead of tax relief was impractical. Taxes, he said, were eating away profits and destroying the incentive of private enterprise.

"We are all free fellows around here, Gene," replied the Senator from Utah, "and have to do our own thinking. The job of my committee was to recommend what we thought best."

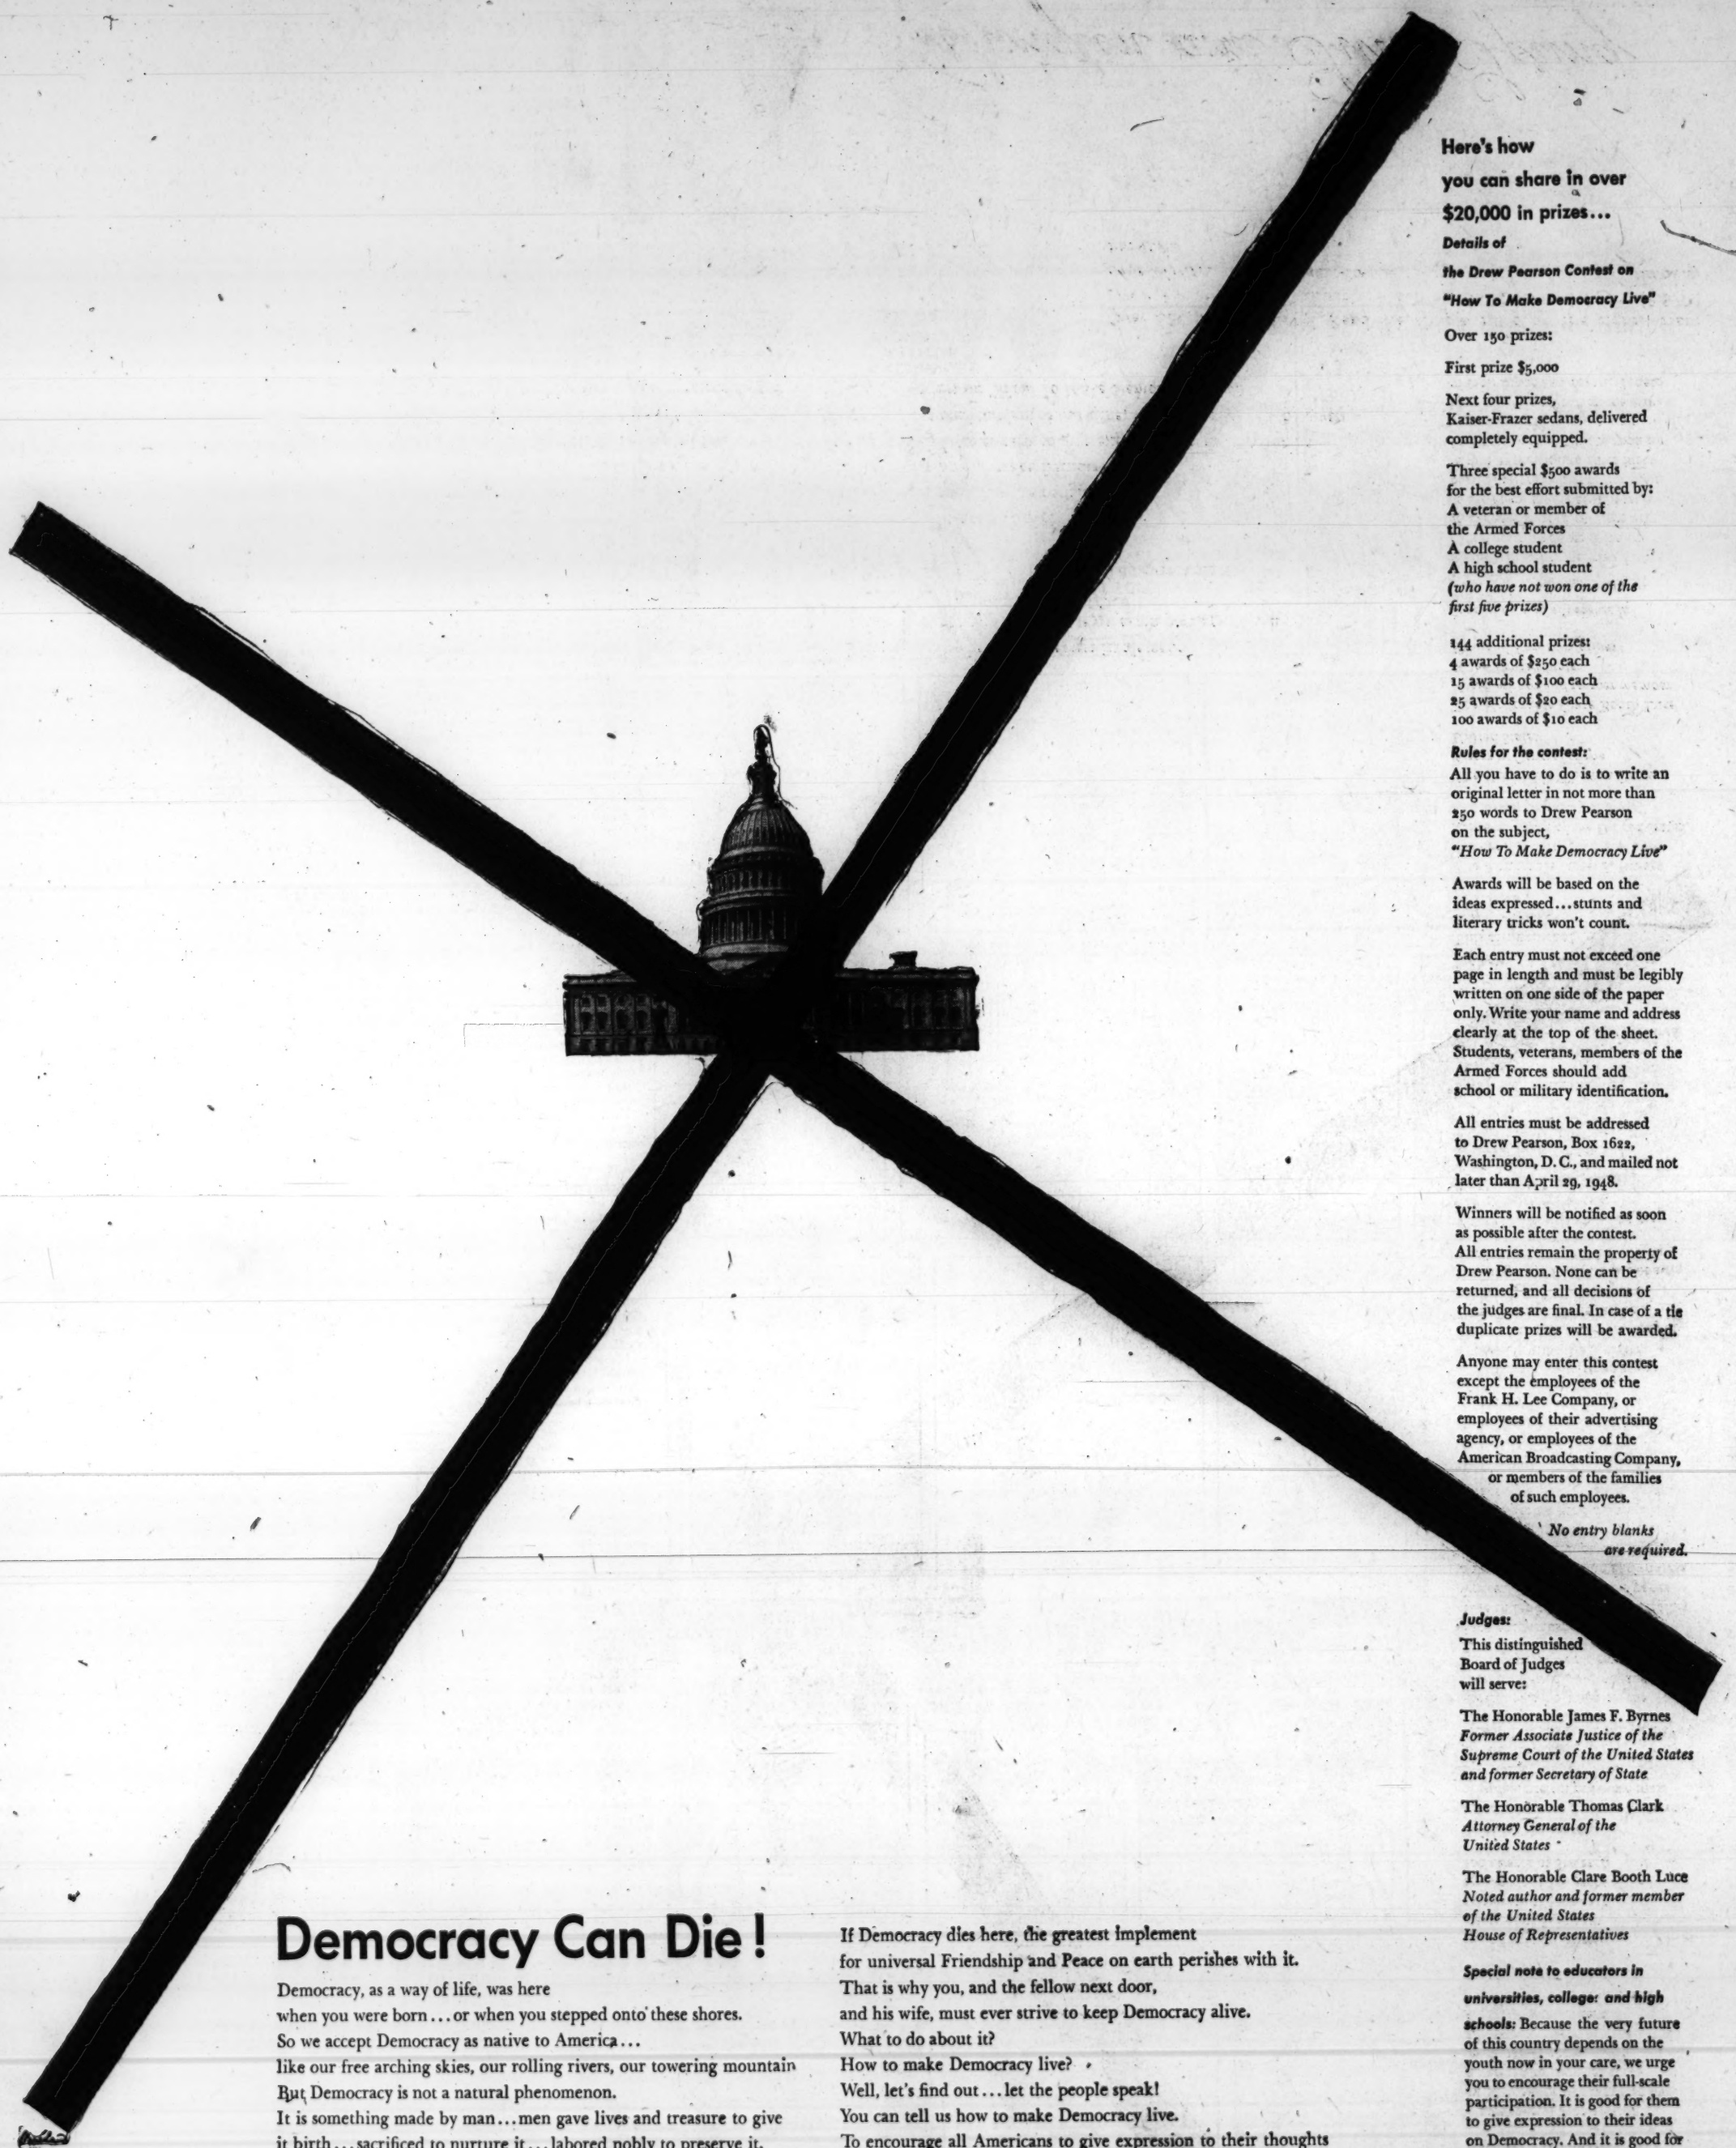
I like to listen

I like to talk to people just . . . To pass the time of day . . . And just to listen to the wise . . . And foolish things they say . . . Sometimes the conversation is . . . Of benefit to me . . . And I am deeply grateful for . . . The pleasant company . . And then there are occasions when . . . I strive to be polite . . . While tongues are merely toying with . . . The time of day or night . . . But all in all I like to be . . . With friendly folks who talk . . . In freference to the loneliness . . . Of going for a walk . . . I like to hear the words that fill . . . A whisper or a shout . . . BecauseIalwayswa shout . . . Because I always want to know . . . What others think about.



Democracy Can Die!

Democracy, as a way of life, was here when you were born . . . or when you stepped onto these shores.
So we accept Democracy as native to America . . . like our free arching skies, our rolling rivers, our towering mountain
But Democracy is not a natural phenomenon.
It is something made by man . . . men gave lives and treasure to give it birth . . . sacrificed to nurture it . . . labored nobly to preserve it.
Only man's will and vigilance can keep Democracy alive . . .
just as surely as man's indifference and neglect can let Democracy die.

If Democracy dies here, the greatest implement for universal Friendship and Peace on earth perishes with it.
That is why you, and the fellow next door,
and his wife, must ever strive to keep Democracy alive.
What to do about it?
How to make Democracy live?
Well, let's find out . . . let the people speak!
You can tell us how to make Democracy live.
To encourage all Americans to give expression to their thoughts on the most serious problem of our time, valuable prizes will be given for the best letters on "How To Make Democracy Live."

Here's how you can share in over $20,000 in prizes...

Details of the Drew Pearson Contest on "How To Make Democracy Live"

Over 150 prizes:

First prize $5,000

Next four prizes,
Kaiser-Frazer sedans, delivered completely equipped.

Three special $500 awards for the best effort submitted by:
A veteran or member of the Armed Forces
A college student
A high school student
(who have not won one of the first five prizes)

144 additional prizes:
4 awards of $250 each
15 awards of $100 each
25 awards of $20 each
100 awards of $10 each

Rules for the contest:
All you have to do is to write an original letter in not more than 250 words to Drew Pearson on the subject,
"How To Make Democracy Live"

Awards will be based on the ideas expressed . . . stunts and literary tricks won't count.

Each entry must not exceed one page in length and must be legibly written on one side of the paper only. Write your name and address clearly at the top of the sheet. Students, veterans, members of the Armed Forces should add school or military identification.

All entries must be addressed to Drew Pearson, Box 1622, Washington, D. C., and mailed not later than April 29, 1948.

Winners will be notified as soon as possible after the contest. All entries remain the property of Drew Pearson. None can be returned, and all decisions of the judges are final. In case of a tie duplicate prizes will be awarded.

Anyone may enter this contest except the employees of the Frank H. Lee Company, or employees of their advertising agency, or employees of the American Broadcasting Company, or members of the families of such employees.

No entry blanks are required.

Judges:
This distinguished Board of Judges will serve:

The Honorable James F. Byrnes
Former Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States and former Secretary of State

The Honorable Thomas Clark
Attorney General of the United States

The Honorable Clare Booth Luce
Noted author and former member of the United States House of Representatives

Special note to educators in universities, colleges and high schools: Because the very future of this country depends on the youth now in your care, we urge you to encourage their full-scale participation. It is good for them to give expression to their ideas on Democracy. And it is good for us, too . . . these young people have much to give us in the way of aspirations and practical ideas.

Over $20,000 in prizes! Read the simple rules on the right. Hear Drew Pearson tell all about the contest Sundays at 6 P. M. (E.S.T.) over WMAL and the coast-to-coast American Broadcasting Company network.
